ASTRONOMICAL CALCULATIONS BY

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well-regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 $\frac{1}{4}$ minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising, or setting, (as the case might be,) given in the Almanac, and also 3 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 23d of September. On that day, according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 8 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 8 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 52m in the morning, and 5h 52m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon at his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 52m, leaving 5h 48m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 52m, which gives 5h 56m for the time of his setting on the 23d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked Sun-South is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

The columns marked Sun's Declination, Sun's Semi-Diameter, and Equation of Time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

On page 4 will be found a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for observation for determining longitude.

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon.

There will be, in the year, 1847, four Eclipses, two of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I.—The first will be a Partial Eclipse of the Moon, on the 31st of March, invisible in Vermont; 8 at 4h 27m in the evening. This Eclipse will be visible from all the Eastern Continent. It will be small, being only about 3 digits on the Moon's North limb.

II.—The second will be a Total Eclipse of the Sun, on the 15th of April, invisible in Vermont; 6 at 1h 32m in the morning. This Eclipse will be visible from the eastern part of Africa, the southern part of Asia, and from the whole of Australia and the Indian Ocean.

III.—The third will be a Partial Eclipse of the Moon, on the 24th of September, invisible in Vermont; 8 at 9h 35m in the morning. This Eclipse will be visible from the eastern part of Asia, the Pacific Ocean, &c., its magnitude being about 5 digits on the Moon's Southern limb.

IV.—The fourth will be an Annular Eclipse of the Sun, on the 9th of October, invisible in Vermont; 6 at 4h 17m in the morning. This Eclipse will be visible to the whole of Europe, to the northern part of Africa and nearly the whole of Asia. The path of the central and annular Eclipse commences to the westward of Ireland, passes over the southern part of Ireland and England, over Europe and the southern countries of Asia, and terminates near the southern extremity of China.

Steam Boats (Line) went into winter quarters November 29—commenced running again April 13, 1846. Broad Lake closed over February 10—passable on the ice from February 16 to March 22—5 weeks; clear of ice, and boats out, April 3. Excellent sleighing from December 1 to March 13, = 102 days = 14w 4d. So long a period of good sleighing, without being interrupted by a thaw, is believed to be without a precedent at Burlington, in the last 25 years. No sleighing after the 15th of March. The coldest day in the winter of 1845-6 was December 11, when the thermometer stood to 18° in the evening. It was 7° at noon.

WESTERN EXPRESSIONS.—They have queer modes of expressions "out West." A lover calls his mistress a jewsharp of delight and a healing plaster for pain in the breast. A dealer in shell-fish advertises that his oysters are as fresh as a young man just out of the country, and will go down as slick as Goliath when killed by a sling.

Nay, speak no ill! a kindly word
 Can never leave a sting behind;
 And, oh! to breathe each tale we've heard,
 Is far beneath a noble mind.
 Full oft a better seed is sown
 By following the kinder plan;
 And though but little good be known,
 Still let us speak the best we can.

Farmers' Calendar.

HERE is eighteen hundred and forty-seven—freighted full with a medley of blessings and banes, of crosses and cares, of dangers and delights; and what shall my share be? God knows, and let us rejoice that while we are blind alike to the pleasures and the pitfalls which attend our future path, He ordains good, even out of every cross, to the humble, trustful and obedient. So let us “act well our part,” and thus be ready for whatsoever Providence has in store for us.

EYE SERVANTS.—Don't watch your master, boy. He will not go out at present. Pull away steady and do your job. Let us tell you what we have never failed to notice, an eye-servant never prospers—never turns out to be anything worth naming. If he does not run away from his master, he might as well, for he is slow and so lazy that his work does not amount to much. Hear us—if you would become a good citizen and a smart man, look out for your master's interests.

“I CAN'T,” has ruined many a man—has been the tomb of bright expectation and ardent hope. Let “I will try” be your motto in whatever you undertake, and if you press onward, you will steadily and surely accomplish your object, and come off victorious. Try, keep trying, if you would prosper in the world.

TO CLEANSE THE TEETH AND IMPROVE THE BREATH.—To four ounces of fresh prepared water, add one drachm of Peruvian Bark, and wash the teeth with this water in the morning and evening, before breakfast and after supper. It will effectually destroy the tartar on the teeth and remove the offensive smell arising from those that are decayed.

DIFFICULTIES.—Be not discouraged on account of difficulties. The hill which appears steep and precipitous in the distance, becomes an easy ascent on a near approach.

WOMAN.—These little women are curious creatures, very. Some of them are curiously bad, some curiously indifferent—yet all curious. They are a mystery; so like ourselves, yet so curiously different.—Curious in their loves, curious in fears, curious in smiles, curious in tears, curious in their fancies, curious in their forms, curious in romances, ecstasies and storms; riddles deep and curious, when they love conceal; curiously furious if their hate you feel. So says a bachelor.

It chanced one gloomy day in the month of January that a good-humored Irishman applied to a broker to discount a bill of exchange for him at rather a long, though not unusual date, and the broker having casually remarked that the bill had a great many days to run, “That's true,” replied the Irishman, “but then, my honey, you don't consider how short the days are at this time of the year.”

LIVE LIKE GOATS.—A Welch parson in discourse told his congregation “how kind and respectful we should be one to another,” and said, “we were inferior to brutes in that point.” He brought in an example of two goats, which met one another upon a very narrow bridge over a river, so that they could not pass by without one thrusting the other off. “How do you think they did do? I'll tell you: one laid down and let the other leap over him. Ah! beloved, let us live like goats.”

To a good man, who has wisely spent his days, years will steal on him insensibly: he will grow old by degrees, and without feeling it: nay, when he comes to break at last, the house will crumble gently, and fall down so slowly and gradually, as not to give him any great pain.

GIVE me the heart that fain would hide—

Would fain another's fault efface ;

How can it flatter human pride

To prove humanity but base ?

No ! let us reach a higher mood,

A nobler estimate of man ;

Be earnest in the search for good,

And speak of all the best we can.

Farmers' Calendar.

THERE has been much newspaper discussion as to the best time for cutting timber—some arguing for winter, some for mid-summer and some for the spring. It would seem from pretty high authority that all are right and all are wrong—just as one portion or another of the tree is required for use. According to Brande's Dictionary of Science the following rules are correct. 1. If the sap or outer wood is wanted for use, cut when there is the least sap in the trunk—mid-winter is best, when the sap is in the roots ; and mid-summer, when the sap is chiefly confined to young shoots, is the next best. 2. In general all soft woods and young trees should be cut in winter ; but aged trees for fire-wood, or where the heart timber only is required for use, may be cut at any time. 3. If the bark is wanted for tanning, for instance the oak, cut in the spring, as oak bark contains four times the astringent matter in spring to that in the winter. The too common practice of wasting wood, by indiscriminate cutting and burning, leaving hideous stumps to encumber the land and disfigure the farm, is not to be commended. Rather clear a little land thoroughly, and till that well. In this mode smaller farms will yield as large crops as larger half-tilled fields, and more woodland will be left until the time comes when its value will be increased. There are now wood-lots in New England where the annual growth of timber pays a good rate of interest upon the value of the land.

TO LEARN CHILDREN TO TEAR BOOKS.—As soon as a child is able to sit alone, give it a large piece of paper, and let it amuse itself by tearing it into small pieces. Do this every day for a short time, and you may be sure that it will soon tear up every book on which it can lay its hands, of whatever value, and when it is grown, will be as careless of books as you are, and never return one to the owner, when borrowed, but in a mutilated state.

NOTHING is so disgusting to well-bred, well-informed people, as to hear an ignorant, conceited, puffed-up, long-haired, brainless, impudent dandy talk about mechanics, as if they were no better than brutes. No true gentleman or lady would be guilty of such littleness. It is only the ignorant, spoiled beauty ; the worthless, contemptible soap-lock, would do so. Show us the man or woman who would consider it a disgrace to associate with honest, well-informed mechanics, and we will show you a poor, worthless, ignorant, conceited creature, useless to himself and the world, and a disgrace and encumbrance to his friends.

A SCIENTIFIC MAN.—A friend of ours looks at the thermometer to see when he is warm, at the barometer to see when it storms, at the clock to see when he is hungry, at the almanac to see how old he is, at the moon to see when it is high tide, at the stars to ascertain when he is in love. He is a scientific man, and does every thing by rule but his devotions, which he doesn't do at all.

HE that robs God of time, defrauds himself both of time and eternity.

THE seeds of repentance are sown in youth by what is called pleasure, but the harvest is reaped in age, by pain.

It is interesting to notice how some minds seem almost to create themselves, springing up under every disadvantage, and working their solitary, but irresistible, way through a thousand obstacles. Nature seems to delight in disappointing the assiduities of art, with which it would rear the legitimate dulness to maturity, and to glory in the vigor and luxuriance of her chance productions.

THEN speak no ill—but lenient be
 To other's failings as your own;
 If you're the first a fault to see,
 Be not the first to make it known.
 'Our life is but a passing day—
 No one may tell how brief its span;
 Oh! then the little time we stay,
 Let's speak of all the best we can.

Farmers' Calendar.

THE improvement in the manufacture of maple sugar in Vermont within the last five years is creditable to our farmers; but let their motto be "Still onward, onward to perfection." The sugar-makers of Louisiana have been greatly surprised by specimens of Vermont manufacture, and we have known an instance of a pretty large order for Vermont sugar, to be sent to the very market of the Louisiana planters—New Orleans. Pure maple sugar will always command a market abroad, if we choose to part with the article; but it should at any rate be the farmer's pride to make a pure article for his own use.

AN experiment, conducted by the President of the Agricultural Society in England, shows that manure which was kept covered nine inches in depth with earth, so that no evaporation escaped, produced four bushels more of grain per acre, than the same quantity and kind of manure applied to the same quality and extent of land, but which had lain from the 13th of January to the 4th of April, exposed to the weather. The earthy covering tends to check fermentation, but would serve a better purpose by being mixed with the manure.

TO ERR IS HUMAN.—A clergyman having indulged too freely in filling up his glass too often, went one Sabbath into the pulpit, and having given out a hymn to his congregation, sat down—the melody of the sacred song soon lulled him to play a treble base symphony with his nose. At length, one of the deacons ascended to the sacred desk, and told him that the hymn was out. "Well," says he, "fill it up—fill it up again!" This circumstance happened years ago. Now-a-days, the congregation do the sleeping, and a good portion of the "filling up."

EYE WATER.—S. W. Jewett, of Weybridge, Vt., communicates the following:—"I have for several years manufactured the following eye water, which has been applied to sore and weak eyes of every description, with unrivalled success. Lobelia, steeped in rum, forms the eye water referred to. Apply to the lids morning and evening. The medicine is simple and perfectly safe. It has removed films from the eyes."

THE POET AND THE JUDGE.—Prion was once brought before a judge more renowned for pomposity than sound sense. "What is your business?" asked the judge. "I am a poet," replied Prion. "Oh! a poet. I have a brother who has the misfortune to be a poet." "Indeed!" said Prion; "then he and I are in similar circumstances, for I have a brother who has the misfortune to be a fool."

HE that will often put this world and the next before him, and look steadfastly at both, will find the latter growing greater, and the former less.

GOD's children are like stars, that shine brightest in the darkest night.

THE sinner is the devil's mill, always grinding; and Satan ever keeps the hopper full.

MOST men serve the devil for pay; but profane swearers are volunteers, who get nothing for their pains.

Parents who endeavor to protect their children from labor, and encourage them to seek self-indulgence, instead of animating them to become as industrious and useful as possible, are foolishly and certainly preparing for them a hard and thorny bed to lie upon at a subsequent period of their lives.

A young Rose in the Summer time
Is beautiful to me,
And glorious the many stars
That glimmer on the Sea ;
But Gentle Words and loving hearts
And hands to clasp my own,
Are better than the brightest flowers
Or stars that ever shone !

Farmers' Calendar.

ATTEND to your orchards in due season. Probably the most valuable acre of land in Vermont is to be found in an orchard of first rate apple trees. Apples at 75 cents or $1 per bushel will give more profit than any thing else. Wherever any apple trees will flourish, the true policy of the farmer is to engraft good fruit. A very common error in pruning old trees, consists in trimming up the branches to a height of ten or fifteen feet from the ground ; which, without much benefiting the growth of the tree, renders their appearance very unsightly, and precludes the possibility of gathering fruit without great difficulty.

Fig. 1 represents two specimens of this bad pruning ; which are not worse in appearance than hundreds found in all parts of the country.

Fig. 2 shows how they should be trimmed to cause a fine, new, thrifty head, not so high as to be above easy reach, nor so low as to prevent the cultivation of the land. In heading down all trees of this kind, it will be obvious that the large wounds need a covering ; the best of which is a mixture of tar and brick dust, applied hot to the fresh surface. The trees are represented leafless in order to show them more clearly.

In the winter it will be necessary to tread snow round young fruit trees, to keep off the mice, which, if well done, will accomplish it effectually.

The history of the world is full of testimony to prove how much depends upon industry. Not an eminent orator has lived but is an example of it. Yet, in contradiction to all this, the almost universal feeling appears to be, that industry can effect nothing, that eminence is the result of accident, and that every one must be content to remain just what he may happen to be.

THE Sun may warm the Grass of life,
 The Dew the drooping Flower;
 And eyes grow bright that watch the light
 Of Autumn's opening hour—
 But words that breathe of tenderness,
 And smiles we know are true,
 Are warmer than the Summer time,
 And brighter than the Dew.

Farmers' Calendar.

PREPARE your ground thoroughly; select the soil for every crop best adapted to it; and for every crop choose the best seed. A little care in these particulars at the beginning of the season, is the most profitable part of a farmer's capital.

ROOT CULTURE—Five things are essential in the culture of root crops: first, a dry soil; second, a rich soil; third, a deep soil; fourth, a well pulverized soil; and fifth, good after-culture. By a dry soil, we mean a soil that is not wet. Moisture is beneficial to all crops, and is indeed indispensable to their growth; but standing water is detrimental to all root crops, though it repose upon the subsoil; and appears but occasionally at the surface. Hence, when roots are to be grown upon soils that are tenacious or flat, or upon those which repose upon an impervious subsoil, the land should either be previously under-drained, or should be thrown into ridges, and the furrows kept open for the free passage of water in heavy rains. Good after-culture implies the keeping of the ground free from weeds, which rob the crop of its food; thinning the plants to a proper distance, keeping the surface mellow; or open to atmospheric influence. If the soil is dry, and rich, and deeply pulverized, the labors of the husbandman will yet not avail much, in root crops, if he neglects either to destroy weeds, to thin, when necessary, or to keep the surface loose and open. But these latter requisites to success may easily be got along with, if they are attended to in time, and with the proper implements.

TO SPROUT GARDEN SEEDS.—Procure two sods, of equal size, say 18 inches square; lay one down in the corner of the kitchen chimney, grass down; lay your seeds upon it; if small, wrap them in a piece of brown paper; then place the other sod upon them, grass up—water well with warm water, and the seeds will sprout in twenty-four to forty-eight hours. There is one manifest advantage in sprouting seeds—it tests their goodness, and shows whether they will or will not grow. A small quantity of seed submitted to this test before planting, would in many instances prevent great loss to the farmer.

TO COOK EGGS.—Pour water heated to the boiling point, into an iron vessel, and set it upon the stove where the same heat will be maintained, but not where it will boil; then break the eggs into it and let them remain until they are cooked, which is easily known; then take them out of the water and serve up with salt, butter, and pepper. To our taste, they are far better than those cooked in any other mode.—Prairie Farmer.

A GENTLEMAN after having bought a pair of geese of a countryman at an extra price, asked the seller why he was so unwilling to dispose of one alone. "Why, sir," said he, "they have been constant companions five-and-twenty years, and I had not the heart to part them."

HELP others and you relieve yourself. Go out and drive away the cloud from that distressed friend's brow, and you will return with a lighter heart.

WISDOM prepares for the worst, but folly takes the worst without preparation.

A LOST affliction is an immense loss.

Success in every art, whatever may be the natural talent, is always the reward of industry and pains. But the instances are many, of men, of the finest natural genius, whose beginnings have promised much, but who have wretchedly degenerated as they advanced, because they trusted to their gifts, and made no efforts to improve upon them.

It is not much the World can give,
 With all its subtle art,
 And Gold and Gems are not the things
 To satisfy the Heart!
 But, oh! if those who cluster round
 The altar and the hearth,
 Have gentle words and loving smiles,
 How beautiful is Earth!

Farmers' Calendar.

Be not too hasty in washing sheep; each animal should be washed until the water runs off clear, and then put into a clean pasture, free from mud holes.

Keep down the weeds in all root crops, and do not let even the plants obstruct one another by being too thickly set. On this subject, the late Judge Buel, of N. Y., gave this advice:—"The potato ground should be well harrowed, to destroy all the young weeds, and to pulverize the surface, before the shoots have all broke ground. It may afterwards be almost wholly managed with the plow and cultivator. The beet, carrot, and ruta baga, if sown, as they should be, in rows, should be cleaned in like manner, and for like purpose, with the cultivator, as soon as the rows of young plants can be readily distinguished. One hour's labor, in this way, will destroy more small weeds, and correspondingly benefit the crop, than three hour's labor will effect upon large weeds. It is easier to destroy the acorn than it is to eradicate the oak. To crowd plants, is like overstocking a pasture, or endeavoring to make fat animals from half rations of food. It is dividing among many that food which is required to perfect one. It moreover tends to exclude light, heat, and a free circulation of air, essential to the development of vegetables, and the perfection of their growth. Hence a moderate number of plants will give a better product than a great many, upon the same ground, in a crowded situation. This is a hard lesson to teach to some farmers, in regard to root crops."

WASH FOR THE HAIR.—The American Farmer says, a quarter of an ounce of oil of bergamot, put in a quart of uncolored New England rum, well shaken together in a glass vessel, and applied twice a day, is one of the best washes ever applied to the human hair, and prevents its falling out.

GAPES IN CHICKENS.—Take as much soft soap as will cover the thumb nail, and mix it with meal-dough. Give it to the chicken at any stage of the disease. If this fails on the first application it rarely does on the second.—American Farmer.

A WESTERN paper suggests the propriety of growing artichokes as a substitute in some degree for potatoes—and on the authority of Ellsworth's reports, states that they are better feed for hogs, cattle and sheep, than the potatoe, at a diminution of cost in production.

TO PRESERVE EGGS.—A pint of lime and a pint of salt, mixed with a pail of water, will preserve eggs, for any reasonable time.

THOSE who take every pointed remark as intended for them, are generally most worthy of them. The reason is, they know better than others what they deserve.

LAWRENCE STERNE once told a very great statesman, that "every time a man smiles, much more so when he laughs, he adds something to the fragment of his life."

THE individual who confesses and regrets an error committed, is a man; the person who, caught at fault, quibbles, and equivocates, to cast the blame upon another, and shirk the responsibility from himself, is a coward and a sneak.

Tacitus says, early marriage makes us immortal. It is the soul and chief prop of empires. That man who resolves to live without woman, and the woman who resolves to live without man, are enemies to the community in which they dwell, injurious to themselves, destructive to the whole world, apostates from nature, and rebels against heaven and earth.

The wound may be sharp as the pointed steel,
 And long may the sufferer lay,
 Moaning in grief ere the smart shall heal,
 And the fever pass away ;
 But in time he may rise in joyous glee
 From the restless couch of pain,
 And walk with a spirit light and free
 Through the bright glad world again.

Farmers' Calendar.

If the weeds were thoroughly cut off early, in some of the hot days about the first of June, they ought not to trouble you much now. "Nip weeds in the bud" should be the rule : if this has not been done, we are afraid the weeds will require labor which might otherwise be turned into the hay-fields. Speaking of hay, reminds us of a practice which has obtained in some parts of Vermont : that is, to stack the hay in the meadows, and have the sheep fed at the stacks in the winter. The advantages are that the manure is deposited upon the field, thus saving the labor of hauling it with wagons in the spring and cutting the sward, and dispensing with barns. Where meadows are far from the barns, or consist of soft or wet soil, the practice is undoubtedly a good one.

A NEWSPAPER in a family is equal to three months' time spent in school each year. Go into the families where a newspaper is taken, and into those that cannot afford it, and mark the difference in the intelligence of the children, and be convinced.

LEGERDEMAIN—OR HOW TO GET A WHOLE SUIT OF CLOTHES INTO A JUNK BOTTLE.—Every time you feel like taking a "horn," drop the price of a "nipper" into the bottle and drink a glass of pure cold water. Repeat this until the bottle is full, then break it and carry the contents to a good tailor. And within a week you will find yourself encased in a new suit of clothes, without any trouble or expense to yourself. The same can be done with hats, boots, &c. We have known a cart load of wood, and a barrel of flour to be transmogrified in a similar manner.

SKILLFUL WHEAT CULTURE.—Mr. Anson Wolcott, of East Bloomfield, has grown an average of forty bushels of wheat per acre for three years, alternately, in succession. The seed was sown after the summer crops of corn and potatoes. Mr. W. makes a point of using both unleached and leached ashes, together with a little lime and gypsum.

PUFFED UP.—Soap bubbles are airy things, but they soon burst. Just so it is with men puffed up with vanity. They make a show for a season—sail on the current, but soon burst and nothing is left of them.

A MAN can be instructed by every thing around him. The fly that buzzes by his ear—the pebble at his foot—the drop of rain and the snow flake, will teach useful and important lessons to the student of Nature. There is not an insect or a grain, that might not employ him for hours. Nature is a large book ; what we consider trifles are useful leaves in the great volume. Happy is he who reads them attentively.

Avoid an angry man for a while, for his passion will cool ; but avoid a malicious man forever, for malice never dies.

WRINKLES are the flourishes of old Time's villainously cramped penmanship.

A WEAK mind is always conjuring up misfortunes, and makes itself wretched before it's time.

ONE mild word quenches more heat than a bucket of water.

Approach the grave of the proud man, and investigate pride; see, the mouth that pronounced lofty impressions, condemned to eternal silence; the piercing eye that convulsed the world with fear, covered with a midnight gloom; the formidable arm, that disturbed the destinies of mankind, is now without motion or life. The grave is the common leveler of all grades and conditions of men.

BUT ah! there are wounds of far keener smart
 Than those of the lance or sword,
 When the inmost depth of the gentle heart
 Is pierced by a wounding word;
 The sufferer seeks not the shaded room,
 Nor seems from the world estranged—
 But he walks through the world with a glance of gloom,
 And a spirit sad and changed.

Farmers' Calendar.

ISAAC REVES, of Delaware, says he will take an old piece of herds grass that will not produce half a ton of hay to the acre, and at the end of five years it shall produce two tons and a half per acre, without breaking up, fresh seeding, or manuring the land in any way. He has done it, simply by delaying mowing until the seed of the grass has become sufficiently ripe to vegetate. If cut before this period, the roots bleed and die out, and there is no seed left to supply the vacancy. Such hay he prefers to any other for horse feed.

FLAX AND BARLEY SOWN TOGETHER.—F. L. E writes—"In conversation with a gentleman from Montgomery county, (N. Y.) yesterday, he informed me that a number of farmers in the town of Florida, had made the experiment of sowing flax-seed and barley together, and in every instance succeeded admirably—that he sowed himself (on a certain piece of land, not specifying the amount,) ten bushels of flax-seed and eight bushels of barley, which produced one hundred and thirteen bushels of seed and eighty bushels of barley. He also informed me that his cattle eat the flax and barley with a good relish."—American Agriculturist.

USEFULNESS OF TOADS.—George Hussey, Terre Haute, Ia., in reference to an article under the above head, says: "Not only the toad, but the whole family of lizards are useful in our gardens, and more so in our orchards, as they climb the trees after their prey, which are insects of all kinds, of which they devour great numbers; they are so quick and shy that it is not easy to observe their manner of feeding, but while they lie perfectly quiet in appearance, they are busily filling their stomachs with insects that they can scarcely discern."

EVERY boy should have his head, his heart, and his hand educated. Let this truth never be forgotten. By the proper education of the head, he will be taught what is good, and what is evil, what is wise, and what is foolish—what is right and what is wrong. By the proper education of the heart, he will be taught to love what is good, wise and right, and to hate what is evil, foolish and wrong; and by the proper education of the hand, he will be enabled to supply his wants, to add to his comforts, and to assist those around him. The highest objects of a good education are to reverence and obey God, and to love and serve mankind; every thing that helps us in attaining these objects is of great value, and every thing that hinders us is comparatively worthless. When wisdom reigns in the head, and love in the heart, the hand is ever ready to do good; order and peace smile around, and sin and sorrow are almost unknown.—Blackwood.

THERE never was a more just remark than that girls have more strength in their looks than we have in our laws, and more power in their tears than we have in our arguments.

"WILL you take a pinch of snuff, Mr. Spriggins?" "No, I thank you; if my nose had been intended for a dust-hole, it would have been placed the other side up."

A HEART dead to the claims of man cannot be alive to the claims of God; and religion cannot flourish on the ground where humanity withers.

Oh! oft are the pangs of an outward wound
 Allayed by assiduous care ;
 The patient lists to the murmured sound
 Of the loved one's fervent prayer ;
 And he meets the gaze of anxious eyes,
 And he thanks the Power that sends,
 In his need, the soothing sympathies
 Of tender and watchful friends.

Farmers' Calendar.

VERMONT is improving in the culture of wheat, by the use of ashes and lime, and sowing in limestone land: let the march of improvement be onward, until we produce at least our own bread. Brining seed wheat before sowing—that is, washing and soaking it in a strong brine made of salt and salt petre, and sprinkling with slacked lime and plaster—has been practised with great success. This process is cheap, and tends to preserve the wheat from both the fly and the rust. Ribbing in wheat is a new Western fashion: after the land is thoroughly plowed and harrowed, it is divided by light furrows 10 or 11 inches apart, when the seed is sown and harrowed over lengthwise of the furrows. This brings the wheat into the furrows leaving slight ridges between, which protect the seed in winter, and in summer leave room for a free circulation of air. In harvesting, early cutting continues to be practised, except for seed wheat, which by some is suffered to remain to be cut last, and is not threshed until seeding time comes.

EFFECT OF COLOR ON VEGETATION—The fact has been fully established by the Royal Polytechnical Society of England, that the blue or violet rays of light are far more conducive to vegetation than other colored rays. If two pieces of colored glass, the one blue and the other yellow, are placed horizontally over a bed of earth in which seeds are sown, it will be seen that those under the blue glass will spring up and grow in half the time, and with double the strength of those under the yellow or orange color. The glasses, for this experiment, must not rest on the earth, but be supported an inch or more above the surface. We are not confident that the effect will be the same on all kinds of seeds, but if this should prove to be the case, it will be well to use blue glass in the sashes of green houses generally.

VERY TRUE.—The Northwestern says: "Every man that has the moral courage to take to himself a wife ought to take a newspaper, as the one is about as indispensable as the other, because to raise a family without intelligence is a disgrace to human nature."

If you wish to enjoy life, avoid unpunctual people. They impede business and poison pleasure. Make it your rule not only to be punctual, but a little before-hand. Such a habit secures a composure which is essential to happiness; for want of it many people live in a constant fever, and put all about them in a fever too.

AN EFFECTUAL CURE FOR A FELON.—Bathe the part affected in ashes and water—take the yolk of an egg, six drops of the spirits of turpentine, a few beet leaves cut fine, a small quantity of hard soap, one tea-spoonful of snuff or fine tobacco; then add one tea-spoonful of burnt salt, and one of Indian meal; it never fails to effect a cure, if applied in season.

The young man or woman who makes up his or her mind, to lead a life of single-blessedness, is guilty of a species of moral suicide.—They do not enjoy the sweetest, and in fact, the only comfort in this world.

THERE cannot be a greater treachery than first to raise a confidence, and then deceive it.

A parent may leave an estate to his son, but how soon may it be mortgaged! He may leave his money, but how soon may it be squandered! Better leave him habits of industry, an unblemished reputation, a good education, and an inward abhorrence of vice: these cannot be wrested from him, and are a far better legacy than thousands of gold and silver.

But he who is stabbed by a wounding word,
 To no ear his hurt reveals :
 Silent he bears it, by shame deterred
 From telling the pain he feels ;
 But life's fair prospects it seems to blight,
 And the voice of hope to quell :
 And it comes on his spirit by day and night,
 Like a mocking maddening knell.

Farmers' Calendar.

ALLOW your apples to remain on the trees as late as possible ; and if your fruit is valuable and to be kept through the winter, gather it carefully by hand, and pack closely in dry, clean barrels, so as to avoid all bruises. Remove the barrels carefully without tumbling, and pile them on the bulge in layers on the north side of your house, and cover with boards so as to protect them from the sun and rain, while the air is not excluded at the sides. A mere chill does not injure apples ; but when there is danger from freezing, remove them to a cool, airy, dry cellar, and keep them as cold as possible short of freezing. Apples carefully gathered and packed late in the season never require re-packing. Such are the directions of an eminent nurseryman.

The first requisite in making good butter or cheese is to have good cows : before placing a cow in your herd be careful therefore to know the quality of her milk. This can be done by keeping her milk separate from the rest, and making it into butter. It has been found that the milk of some cows is almost valueless for butter making, and it is poor economy for a dairyman to keep such.

INDUSTRY.—At the workingman's house hunger looks in but dares not enter ; nor will the baliff or constable enter ; for industry pays debts, but despair increaseth them.—Franklin.

A SPECULATOR who buys largely of the producers, remarked the other day, that the first thing he looked for when he went into a man's house to purchase, was a newspaper. If he saw none he was sure of a good bargain. Think of that ! No man can cheat a person who reads a newspaper.

OLD BREAD THE BEST.—It has been found that baked bread on the first day produces from seventy-one to seventy-nine per cent. of nutritive matter, while that five days old yields from eighty-one to eighty-two per cent. New bread loses five per cent. of its weight by evaporation in cooling. Aside from the advantages of stale bread in its nutritive matter, it is more wholesome, more easily digested, has more taste and is sweeter ; while new bread lies heavily in the stomach, and is difficult of digestion.

No human being, however exalted his rank and fortune, however large and cultivated his understanding, can long be happy without a pursuit. Life is a ladder, on which we climb from hope to hope and, by expectation, strive to ascend to enjoyments ; but he who fancies he has reached his highest hope, or who enjoys the utmost of his wishes, is miserable indeed ; for many who have been most successful in their respective undertakings, have given the gloomiest description of the emptiness of human pleasures. The pursuit alone can yield true happiness ; and the most trifling object that has power to fascinate the hopes of man, is worthy of his attention.

FRIENDS.—When we see leaves drop from the trees in the beginning of autumn, just such, think we, is the friendship of the world. While the sands of maintenance lasts, our friends swarm in abundance ; but in the winter of need they leave us naked. He is a happy man who hath no need of his friends.

"I SHALL be back in a minute," as the emetic said to the doctor.

Happiness does not consist in greatness. And this is proved by showing that even in what are supposed to be the peculiar advantages of greatness, the superiority, is, in reality, common to all conditions. But whether the pursuits of ambition be ever wise, is a different question; and a question on which we have great doubt.

ALAS ! it is sad in a Christian land
 Such evil things should be,
 And the open warfare of the hand
 Methinks I would rather see,
 Than witness the scenes of moral wrong,
 Where the strong oppress the weak,
 And the stealthy warfare of the tongue
 Is waged on the good and meek.

Farmers' Calendar.

TREES can be transplanted in the early part of the month if the weather is not too cold. In some parts of Europe the highways are lined with fruit trees, a certain portion of which are free for the use of travellers ; and the results are that all except the free trees are scrupulously left for the exclusive use of the owner, and fruit stealing is an offence unknown. The practice here, if universal, would probably be attended with like results : but at any rate, any man can safely line the roads through his farm with maples, or elms, nor would the butternut or chestnut be out of place. These are pleasant to the eye, grateful for their shade, an ornament to the farm, and will not be without value for fire-wood or timber in future. Look out for Jack Frost, and remember to have the cattle sheds all ready for the wintery blasts. There is an excellent way of building barns which can be easily adopted on the up-hill farms of Vermont, to wit : so arrange the barn that your hay can be drawn in near the top of the barn on the up-hill side, and fed out downwards to your cattle in stables if you choose, or in a sort of yard occupying from half to two-thirds of the ground of the barn on the lower side. Back of this part build a cellar in the hill for root crops.

OLIVE OIL.—This article seldom reaches us in a perfectly pure state, and its effects, on that account, are often deleterious rather than beneficial. The following recipe for its purification may, therefore, be of service to some :—Mix it with water, agitate it violently, then let it settle and turn off the oil. The mucilage which produces rancidity is separated from the oil, and remains in the water. Oils obtained by compression contain mucilage, and other matters, which may be separated by this simple process.

A MAN as often gets two dollars for the one dollar he spends in informing his mind, as he does for a dollar he lays out in any other way. A man eats up a pound of sugar and it is gone, and the pleasure he enjoyed has ended ;—but the information he gets from a newspaper is treasured up in the mind to be enjoyed anew, and to be used whenever occasion or inclination calls for it. A newspaper is not the wisdom of one man ; it is the wisdom of an age, and past ages too.

A LATE writer on kissing very properly remarks that the abominable fashion of ladies kissing each other, is a piece of wanton and unprovoked cruelty ; a sheer waste of Heaven's good gifts ; a miserable frittering away of what was designed for better purposes. It is absolutely wicked, and ninety-nine times in a hundred it is done for no other purpose than to annoy and make wretched the poor things who stand with their hats in their hands, and dare not so much as open their watering mouths for fear of slobbering their bosoms.

AN indolent youth being asked why he was so shamefully fond of his pillow, to the manifest injury of his reputation, replied, "I am engaged every morning in hearing counsel ;—Industry and Health advise me to rise—Sloth and Indolence to lie still, and they give their reasons pro and con. It is my part to be strictly impartial and hear with patience what is said on both sides ; and by the time the cause is fairly argued, dinner is generally on the table."

Evil thoughts are worse enemies than lions and tigers, for we can keep out of the way of wild beasts, but bad thoughts win their way every where. The cup that is full will hold no more ; keep your heads and hearts full of good thoughts, that bad thoughts may find no room to enter. Always be on your guard, and strive to banish all evil thoughts from your mind.

YET none will the probing-poisoned dart
 At my poor behest resign,
 For the power to change the cruel heart
 Is in higher hands than mine :
 But the taunts men utter, with harsh intent,
 By a God of peace are heard ;
 Oh ! may He bid offenders in time repent
 Of the sin of a wounding word !

Farmers' Calendar.

To pickle hams take for every hundred pounds five pints of good molasses, (or five pounds brown sugar,) five ounces salt-petre, eight pounds rock salt, and three gallons of water, and boil gently until the salt is dissolved, skimming off the scum as it rises. Trim your hams nicely and pack in casks with the shanks down; pour on the pickle cool, and let it remain from two to six weeks, according to the size of the hams and state of the weather—the colder the weather the longer time is required.

The following is said to be an excellent pickle for beef, pork, tongues, &c.—to each gallon of water add a pound and a half of salt, quarter of a pound of coarse sugar, and an ounce of salt-petre, to be boiled and carefully skimmed. Pour on to the meat when quite cold, and it will be fit for use in ten days, except tongues, which require a month at least. The meat must be kept entirely under the brine, and when any scum begins to rise, reboil and skim the brine, adding half a pound of salt. For tongues, add an ounce of bay salt, a clove of garlic, and half an ounce each of alspice and whole pepper.

WESTPHALIAN PLAN OF SMOKING HAMS.—A room in a garret; fire in the cellar; smoke gathered in a tunnel and led to the smoke rooms by a small pipe; by the time it gets there all the heaviest part of pyroligneous acid has condensed, and the smoke becomes cool. Nothing touches the ham but a pure, light, cool smoke, which is allowed to pass off by a number of small apertures, about as fast as it is supplied.—N. Y. Farmer and Mechanic.

GREASE THEIR WAYS.—It is said that caterpillars on apple and other fruit trees, may be imprisoned and confined to their nests, by merely smearing the limb around the nest with oil or grease,—that so fearful are they of any oily substance, that they will stay and starve to death in their web, rather than attempt to cross the charmed line. We have never tried this simple method, but if it is as effectual as stated, the sooner their ways are greased the better.—Maine Far.

S. LONG, in the Prairie Farmer, says he once lost a number of hogs soon after giving them sweet whey. They became swollen and died. Whey if left to sour, or mixed with sour swill, is harmless. He also cautions against giving them brine in which there is salt-petre.

A SUBSCRIBER to the Southern Cultivator says he takes five agricultural papers, and considers the money he pays for them “as well laid out as any other, except for the support of the gospel.” We would loan that man money without requiring his note.—N. E. Farmer.

To govern the tongue well is a matter of exceeding difficulty, requiring not only hearty goodness, but great judgment and art, together with vigilance and circumspection. For since the tongue is a very glib and versatile engine, which the least breath of thought doth stir, and set on going any way, it cannot but need much attention to keep it either in a steady rest, or in a right motion.

CHARACTER is like wealth; it takes a long time to acquire it, but the actions of an hour may destroy it.

“THE more I labor,” said Lavater, “the more ability and inclination I have to labor.”

Whatever you do, do it willingly. A boy that is whipped to school never learns his lesson well. A man that is compelled to work cares not how badly it is performed. He that pulls off his coat cheerfully, strips up his sleeves in earnest, is the man for me.

"A cheerful spirit gets on quick ;

A grumbler in the mud will stick."

In Va. and S. C. the Legislature elects the Governor.

* Whigs—all the rest of the opposite party.

Rates of Postage on Letters, Newspapers, &c.

LETTERS.—Single, or any number of pieces not exceeding one half ounce, 300 miles or less, 5 cents.

If over three hundred miles, 10 cents.

Drop letters, (not mailed,) 2 cents.

Each additional half ounce or part thereof, single postage.

NEWSPAPERS.—Of 1900 square inches or less, sent by publishers or editors, over 30 and not exceeding 100 miles, or any distance in the State where they are published, 1 cent.

Over one hundred miles and out of the State, 1 1-2 cent.

Not exceeding thirty miles, free.

Newspapers over 1900 square inches, postage same as pamphlets.

PAMPHLETS.—Magazines and periodicals, any distance, for one ounce or less, each copy, 2 1-2 cents.

Each additional ounce or fractional part thereof, 1 cent.

CIRCULARS.—Quarto post, single cap, or paper not larger than single cap, folded, directed and unsealed, any distance, 2 cents.

HALF OUNCE LETTER, WHICH MAY BE SENT 300 MILES FOR 5 CENTS, OR ANY DISTANCE FOR 10 CENTS.

One and a half sheets of letter paper, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet do. with large or small envelope, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet foolscap, with small envelope, sealed with wafer.

One sheet letter paper with quarter eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Half sheet do. or light foolscap, half eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Sheet of letter paper may contain a dime and a half.

Half sheet of letter paper may contain a quarter of a dollar.

Sheet of letter paper with seven bank notes, sealed with wax; or

Three bank notes and the whole in an envelope.

FRANKING, ETC.

Postmasters may frank letters and packages, relating exclusively to post office business; but must in every case endorse over his signature the words "post office business."

It is the duty of postmasters to notify publishers when subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office; and this should be done by letter, franked as "post office business." The old practice of giving notice by returning the papers, subjects the publishers to postage, which they will not pay, and of course they do not get the notice.

Postmasters may receive money for subscriptions to newspapers, (not exceeding $10 in any instance,) and give their receipt therefor after retaining 1 per cent. for their services. The postmaster receiving the money is to report all the necessary particulars to the postmaster who is to pay the same to the publisher, and the latter, on receiving the publisher's receipt, is to be entitled to 1 per cent. [The better way is for subscribers to send their money post paid, the difference between the postage and the 1 per cent. being so small.]

WRITING ON NEWSPAPERS OR WRAPPERS.

"POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Appointment Office,
Washington, D. C., Aug. 11, 1845." }

SIR:—Any memorandum upon transient newspapers, or upon the wrappers of the same, subjects the same to letter postage.

In determining the amount of postage you are to charge upon such papers, you are to be governed by the weight, according to the provisions of the law of March 3, 1845.

Very respectfully, your ob't servant,

W. MEDILL, 2d Ass't P. M. Gen."

Population of the United States, according to the Six Enumerations.

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 1/4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising, or setting, (as the case might be,) given in the Almanac, and also 3 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 23d of September. On that day according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 8 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 8 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 52m in the morning, and 5h 52m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon at his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 52m, leaving 5h 48m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 52m, which gives 5h 56m for the time of his setting on the 23d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked Sun South is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

The columns marked Sun's Declination, Sun's Semi-Diameter, and Equation of Time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

On page 6 will be found a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for observation for determining longitude.

Transit of Mercury.

On the 9th of November, there will be a transit of Mercury across the Sun's Disc, mostly visible at Montpelier, as follows:

|---|------------|
| First contact of limbs, 6h 13m 3s | } Morning. |
| Sun rises at Montpelier, 6h 49m 2s | |

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon.

In the year 1848, there will be six Eclipses, four of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I.—The first will be a very small Eclipse of the Sun on the 5th of March visible at Montpelier as follows:

|----------------------------------|------------|
| Beginning of the Eclipse, 7h 39m | } Morning. |
| Greatest Obscuration, 8h 4m | |
| End of the Eclipse, 8h 23m | |

Duration of the Eclipse 0h 44m. Magnitude (the Sun's diameter=1) 0.06 on the Upper Limb. The Eclipse begins 6° from the vertex towards the left hand.

II.—The second will be a Total Eclipse of the Moon, on the 19th of March, the end only visible at Montpelier.

|------------------------------------|------------|
| Beginning of the Eclipse, 2h 26m | } Evening. |
| Beginning of Total Eclipse, 3h 31m | |
| Middle of the Eclipse, 4h 22m | |
| End of total Eclipse, 5h 13m | |
| Moon rises Eclipsed, 6h 7m | |
| End of the Eclipse, 6h 18m | |

It will be seen from the above that this Eclipse ends 11m after the Moon rises at Montpelier. It will be visible to the whole of the Eastern Continent.

III.—The third will be a Partial Eclipse of the Sun on the 3d of April, and visible only from a small portion of the Southern Ocean.

IV.—The fourth will be another Partial Eclipse of the Sun on the 28th of August, visible only from a still smaller portion of the Great Southern Ocean.

V.—The fifth will be a Total Eclipse of the Moon, on the 12th and 13th of September, visible at Montpelier as follows:

|---|
| Beginning of the Eclipse, 12th, 11h 41m evening. |
| Beginning of total Eclipse, 13th, 0h 40m morning. |
| Middle of the Eclipse, 13th, 1h 29m morning. |
| End of Total Eclipse, 13th, 2h 18m morning. |
| End of the Eclipse, 13th, 3h 17m morning. |

Duration of the Eclipse, 3h 36m—of Total Eclipse, 1h 38m. Magnitude, (the Moon's diameter=1) 1.7 on the Southern Limb.

VI.—The sixth will be a Partial Eclipse of the Sun on the 27th of September; ☿ at 4h 43m in the morning. This Eclipse will be visible only from the northern part of the Eastern Continent, from the eastern parts of Greenland, and the neighborhood of the North Pole.

The results in the above Table are deduced from three observations made daily at sunrise, 1 P. M. and 9 P. M. amounting to 1095 observations in the year. The warmest day in 1846, was Aug. 5, when the thermometer stood at 96° in the shade. July 12, it stood at 95°. The coldest days were Feb. 12 and 19 when it stood 10° below zero. Range of the thermometer, 106°. Broad lake froze over, Feb. 10—passable with teams, Feb. 16—unsafe March 21—clear of ice, April 2—steam Ferry Boat out April 7—Line Boats out, April 13—laid up Nov. 30. Sparrows seen, March 24, Robins 25, and Blue Birds 26. White bellied Swallows, April 26, Barn Swallows, 29. Summer Yellow Bird, May 4; Oriole, 7; Bobalink, 14.

Steam Boats (Line) went into winter quarters, Nov. 29, 1846—commenced running again May 3, '47. Broad lake frozen over Feb. 15. Passable on the ice from Feb. 16 to April 16—two months. Burlington bay continued so much clogged with floating ice as to render it difficult for the steam-boats to come to the wharf up to May 6, on which day they reached St. Johns for the first time this season, the Burlington being obliged to cut through strong ice, for 2 miles, near Isle la Motte. Sleighs were running from Dec. 19, to April 3, but the sleighing could not be called good for more than one half of that time. Most of the snows melted soon after they fell. The greatest cold was on the morning of Feb. 16, when the thermometer was 14° below zero.

Farmers' Calendar.

It would not be a bad plan for every man to begin the year by opening an account with himself, charging time lost, opportunities for doing good wasted, and offences against himself or others—in short, all his sins of omission or commission, whether against himself, in his business and duties and thoughts, or against his family, his neighbors, his country and his God. Such an account, faithfully kept and frequently reviewed, would not run long without a settlement in the court of conscience and earnest efforts to square the books by squaring the daily conduct to the laws of prudence and righteousness.

Winter affords time for reading, social visits, and innocent amusements ; but these should be mainly in the long evenings. A winter's day has its duties for the farmer, in the care of stock, which should be well sheltered from the cold and supplied plentifully with water—in transporting produce to market, hauling wood and getting out logs for the mill ; all which the farmer should do for himself or by his hired men, without entrenching upon the privileges of his boys in the school house and at their studies by the fireside.

POTATOE PIE.—Scald one quart of milk, grate in four large potatoes while the milk is hot, when cold add four eggs well beaten, four ounces of butter ; spice and sweeten to your taste, lay in paste, bake half an hour.

A BOWL containing two quarts, filled with water, and set into the oven, prevents any article from being scorched, such as cakes, pies and the like.

PARSNIPS.—Parsnips are preferred by hogs to all other roots, and make excellent pork. By them they can be fattened in six weeks. Too much cannot be said in praise of beef and pork fattened on parsnips. A porker twenty-two months old, weighing nett seven hundred and fifty pounds, never ate anything but raw parsnips and sour milk ; and finer meat never was seen. In the use of parsnips they should never be washed, but be given as they are taken from the ground. Used in this way they are found not to surfeit the hogs and cattle, and to fatten them much better and quicker. If washed they are apt to satiate, and as farmers say will not thoroughly fatten them. They are good to fatten cattle, and if given freely to cows, will much improve the quality and quantity of their milk.—Prairie Farmer.

MAKE up your mind to accomplish what ever you undertake, decide upon some particular employment, persevere in it. All difficulties are overcome by diligence and assiduity.

Be not afraid to work with your own hands, and diligently too. "A cat in gloves catches no mice." "He who remains in the mill grinds, and not he who goes and comes."

Attend to your own business, and never trust it to another. "A pot that belongs to many, is ill stirred and worse boiled."

Be Frugal. "That which will not make a pot will make a pot-lid." "Save the cents, and the dollars will take care of themselves."

It is better to cut grain just before it is fully or dead ripe. When the straw immediately below the grain is so dry that on twisting it no juice is expressed, it should be cut, for then there is no further circulation of juices to the ear. Every hour that it stands uncut after this stage is attended with loss.

WE make ourselves more injuries than are offered to us ; they many times pass for wrongs in our own thoughts, that were never meant so by the heart of him that speaketh. The apprehension of wrong hurts more than the sharpest part of the wrong committed.

"All's not offence that indiscretion finds,
 And dotage terms so."

Farmers' Calendar.

Look out for a good supply of manure for the next crops, keeping it well secured against fermentation unless covered with muck, earth or gypsum. Now, too, is the time for putting all tools in repair, (of course they have been housed,) and getting ready the implements for sugar-making. If a supply of roots has been kept, feed them to your stock occasionally, as a change for hay. Corn stalks well cured and cut fine are said to be among the most valuable articles for winter feed to milch cows. According to Davy the nutritious properties of roots, pound for pound, stand thus: 1. potatoes, 2. sugar-beet, 3. mangol-wurzel, 4. parsnip and carrot, 5. ruta-baga, 6. common turnip. Carrots are said to be nearly as good as oats for horses, and yet on mellow soil probably three or four times more nutriment can be produced in carrots than in oats.

CULTIVATING FRUIT TREES.—So great is the loss resulting from stunted and diseased growth, occasioned by neglected cultivation, that an intelligent cultivator gave it as his opinion, that "if nine-tenths of our orchards should be cut down, and the labor and cultivation which they receive be expended on the remaining tenth, more and better fruit would be raised.

THE DURABILITY OF OAK.—The durability of oak may be known from the fact that the throne of Edward the Confessor is 800 years old; one of the oaken coronation chairs has been in its present situation in Westminster Abbey about 540 years; and the oldest wooden bridge of which we have any account is of oak; it is that famous for its defence by Horatius Cocles, and which existed 400 years before Christ.

LEMON PUDDING.—Beat half a pound of fresh butter to a cream, with half a pound of powdered sugar; then add to it eight eggs, well beaten, with the juice and grated peel of a large lemon; stir it well together; line a dish with puff paste, fill with the pudding, and bake in a moderate oven.

THE Chinese proverb says, "a lie has no legs, and cannot stand; but it has wings and can fly far and wide."

It is a saying of Sir Isaac Newton's: "The grain is God's bounty; the flowers are his smiles."

Be abstemious. "Who dainties love, shall beggars prove."

Rise early. "The sleeping fox catches no poultry." "Plow deep, while sluggards sleep, and you will have corn to sell and keep."

Treat every one with respect and civility. "Every thing is gained and nothing lost by courtesy." "Good manners insure success."

Never anticipate wealth from any other source than labor, especially never place dependence upon becoming the possessor of an inheritance. "He who waits for dead men's shoes, may have to go for a long time barefoot." "He who runs after a shadow, has a wearisome race."

Above all things, never despair. "God is where he was." "Heaven helps those who help themselves."

ACCOUNTS should be kept detailing the expenses and products of each field.

When an implement is no longer wanted for the season, lay it carefully aside, but first let it be well cleaned.

We are but passengers of a day, whether it is in a stage coach or the immense machine of the universe. In God's name, then, why should we not make the way as pleasant to each other as possible? Short as our journey is, it is long enough to be tedious to him who sulks in his corner, sits uneasy himself, and elbows his neighbor to make him uneasy also.

ARE you censured by your friends?

Keep at work :

Whether they are wrong or right,

May be you must 'bide your time,

If for victory you fight.

Keep at work.

Farmers' Calendar.

IMPROVEMENT has been for a few years the fashion as to sugar making ; but with all experiments it is found that perfect cleanliness and care against burning are the two grand secrets of success. In order to ensure perfect sweetness it is advised to wash and scald all the vessels thoroughly, afterwards rinsing with lime water, which will remove all the musty or sour smell which is apt to be found, especially in wooden vessels which have been put away damp or deposited in a damp place. These precautions, together with straining the sap and syrup (the latter through flannel,) and care against scorching, will secure good sugar.

Keep your cattle from your grass lands while wet and soft ; look well to the animals with young ; and see that the fences are all put right as soon as the snow is off.

Tomato and other seed may be sown in pots or boxes in the house this month and get a good growth ready for transplanting at the proper season. Boxes made with moveable partitions, so as to be taken out when the plants are ready for planting, thus allowing the plant and the earth with it to be removed without disturbing the roots, are best.

WARTS on the udder and teats of cows may be easily removed, simply by washing them in a solution of alum and water. We have known this application to result favorably, even after all other prescriptions had failed, and the disease seemed to have advanced beyond the possibility of cure. Try it.

LETTUCE AND PEAS. These two articles may be sown earlier than most garden vegetables, as the frost does not destroy the leaf, though it checks the growth. Early turnips, too, are not afraid of the snow. Early turnips must be salted in the garden, or the worms will work in them. If the bottoms are not wanted, the tops are good for boiling with pork.—Mass. Ploughman.

HOW TO DAPPLE A HORSE—Take in the Spring the large buds of young oak trees, mix them with the horse's provender, and give it to him three or four times to eat, and he will be dappled, and continue so for a whole year! The buds of young elms will have the same effect.

NEVER keep your cattle short ; few farmers can afford it. If you starve them they will starve you.

POPULAR DELUSION.—To believe that because a dandy's straps are drawn tight upon his trowsers, that they are going to lift him into respectable society.

CEMENT FOR GRAFTING. One part of good beef's tallow, two parts of pure beeswax, and four parts of rosin. Melt all and mix well ; then pour into cold water, and work very thoroughly, as shoemaker's wax. We have frequently used cement with these proportions, and it will not melt in warm weather, nor crack in cold weather.—Boston Cultivator.

OBTAIN good seed, prepare your ground well, sow early, and pay very little attention to the moon.

CULTIVATE your own heart aright ; remember that " whatsoever a man soweth, that he shall also reap."

Avoid a low and damp site for a dwelling house. Build sufficiently distant from your barn and stock yard to avoid accidents by fire.

Good fences make good neighbors.

HE that is true to his word, has the happiness, always, to be credited and relied on, while the man that is regardless of it fails of the advantages accruing thereby, at the time it should stand him in the greatest stead. He that loosely promises, as if it was a light affair, and is negligent of performing what he has promised, overwhelms himself in more vexations than can easily, if at all, be removed.

If the devil grows at you,
 Keep at work :
 That's the best way to resist ;
 If you hold an argument,
 You may feel his iron fist.
 Keep at work.

Farmers' Calendar.

SALT your cattle when first turned out to grass feed, to prevent the purgative effect of fresh feed. Don't forget the garden, which, if properly attended to, will furnish as much for the support of the family as half a dozen acres of other parts of the farm. Early 'cucumbers, melons, cabbages, lettuce, radishes, &c, may be started in pots ; or what is better, make a hot-bed. To do this make a very rich bed in a warm position, and case it with a board frame two feet deep on the back and one on the front, and of the breadth of a common window sash. The length may be two, three or more sashes, if you cover with glass—but it is said that coarse cotton cloth answers every purpose and never scorches the plants, as glass sometimes does. Such a hot-bed, which can be made in a few hours, plentifully supplied with manure, and pretty frequent sprinklings with water and the admission of air when the weather is fine, will be a valuable addition to the garden.

Prune, graft, and set out trees before the leaf-buds have come out. Now, too, is the time to trim the currant, gooseberry and raspberry bushes.

THE Torquay Directory says that the best way to cook beets is to bake them. Very likely: the juice would be better preserved than by boiling. This mode of cooking is almost the only one practised in Italy.

Good iron is not used for nails, nor are soldiers made of good men.

To climb a tree to catch a fish, is talking much and doing nothing.

Looking for promotion, is like hanging to the tail of a beautiful horse.

Two skins cannot be stripped from one cow, is to say that exhortation has its limits.

An avaricious man is like a serpent wishing to swallow an elephant.

EXAGGERATION is to "paint a snake and add legs."

To DESTROY INSECTS ON TREES, SHRUBS, &c. Tie up some flower of sulphur in a piece of gauze, and dust the plants with it.

PRINCE ALBERT is the very best early pea we have ever cultivated. It is a week earlier than the best old varieties ; excellent, and yields good crops.—Genesee Farmer.

In company, set a guard upon your tongue—in solitude, upon your heart.

The most ignorant have knowledge enough to detect the faults of others—the most clear-sighted are blind to their own.

A GREAT talker never wants enemies—the man of sense speaks little and hears much.

THOUGH the ways of virtue are rough and craggy, yet they reach to Heaven.

BANTER, but never make the cheek red.

KEEP notes of all remarkable events on your farm. Recording even your errors will be of benefit.

THE better animals can be fed, and the more comfortable they can be kept, the more profitable they are, and all farmers work for profit.

Sow clover deep ; it secures it against the drought.

GROUND once well plowed is better than thrice poorly.

ONE animal well fed is of more value than two poorly kept.

By constant temperance, habitual, moderate exercise, and unaffected honesty, you will avoid the fees of the lawyer and the sheriff, gain a good report, and probably add ten years to your life. Honor that which is good, just, and virtuous, in all men, let their form of worship or outward manner of expression about religion be what it may. Do not set down the mistakes of the head for corruptions of the heart.

ARE your talents villified?

Keep at work :

Greater men than you are hated ;

If you're right, then go ahead—

Grit will be appreciated.

Keep at work.

Farmers' Calendar.

THE best manure for grass lands is a well mixed compost; reserve the new barn-yard manure and spread upon land which is to be plowed, so that the manure may be buried and all its virtues absorbed by the soil. Don't be so much in a hurry as to plow the land while wet; better let it alone. In nearly all field crops, drilling is preferred in England to sowing either broadcast or dibbling; and of course their land is thoroughly broken up and made light and mellow for the seed. Cannot corn sown broadcast, and mowed and cured early, be made a substitute for hay? It is the custom in some parts of the country to sow corn in this way for soiling cattle—that is, for summer feed in the stall, and more common still to feed the stalks of ripe corn; but it is suggested that corn cut just at the tasseling time would probably prove rich feed, for cows especially, and produce very much more in weight to the acre than any of the grasses.

QUINCES.—The quince is of easy culture, and in a good soil and with proper care, it may be got into bearing much earlier than supposed. Many people think the quince must be set in a damp soil; but it will not flourish so well, nor will the fruit be so large and fair, as when grown upon a dry sandy loam. The Portugal and large Orange are the best varieties. That which is often cultivated as the Orange in this State, is one-third less than the true Orange or Apple, propagated by our best nurserymen.—Cor. of the Mich. Farmer.

TO DESTROY WORMS AND INSECTS. The fact is not so generally known as it deserves to be that pulverised tobacco, scattered broadcast over a bed in the garden, just as the plants are making their appearance above the surface, will have a powerful effect in restraining the depredations of worms and insects. Many plants are greatly injured just as they are breaking ground, by small and almost imperceptible insects, which often escape the observation of the gardener. By giving them a "portion" of the vile weed, they cease their depredations instantly. Try it.

COPYING LETTERS.—A contemporary gives a very simple process for taking copies of letters without the expense of a copying-press, as follows: "A strip of muslin attached to a wooden roller, and costing certainly not more than twelve cents, answers every purpose. The paper, after being properly wet, should be placed between the muslin and the roller; and by merely rolling the roller up, consequently pressing the paper against the letter, will take a perfect impression from it. As this method is so simple in its operation, and so quick and effective, we are persuaded that in only requires to be generally known, to be brought into use by all.

It is an error to plant seeds from a State further south. In a cold season only the seed of a colder climate will ripen well.

OFTEN breaking up a surface keeps a soil in health; for when it lies in a hard bound state enriching showers run off, and the salubrious air cannot enter it.

It will not do to hoe a great field for a little crop, or to mow twenty acres for five loads of hay. Enrich the land and it will pay you for it. Better farm thirty acres well than fifty acres by halves.

In dry pasture dig for water on the brow of a hill; springs are more frequently near the surface on a height than in a vale.

EVERYTHING is done by Labor :

Keep at work,
If you would improve your station ;
They have help from Providence
Who work out their own salvation.
Keep at work.

Farmers' Calendar.

A GOOD rule for June is to keep the useless weeds and thistles out of the ground and the valuable plants in—and this pretty much covers the business of field and garden culture for the month. Turnips, late peas, and lettuce will do late in June or early in July. Weedy or thistly fields intended for wheat in the fall should be plowed in June, cross-plowed in July, and still again if necessary. The kind and considerate farmer will be very watchful of his sheep after shearing that they may not be exposed to cold rains or in wet pastures.

SOWING GRASS SEED.—One very prominent error which we would particularly allude to at this time in the important work of laying lands to grass, is the withholding sufficient seed. The necessity of sowing grass seed evenly, and sufficiently thick to ensure the occupation of the entire surface of the soil, is one that cannot but be obvious to all.

In most fields there are not half the number of plants of the artificial grasses, which should find footing in the soil. This gives an opportunity for the native grasses, and noxious weeds to come in, which is always a serious disadvantage to the farmer, and a heavy injury to the crop, as hay. In this business, the only true policy for the farmer to adopt, is, to sow "too much" rather than not enough. By allowing a large quantity of seed, he will draw his crop to a finer texture, and run no risk of having a part, and that not unfrequently a large one, unoccupied or crowded with weeds. It has been remarked that it would be as reasonable for a farmer to permit one half of the milk to remain in his cows' udders, as to permit his fields, that have been properly prepared for the reception of grass seed, to remain unoccupied or covered with worthless plants.

"LET this be held the farmer's creed—
For stock seek out the choicest breed ;
In peace and plenty let them feed :
Your land sow with the best of seed ;
Let it not dung nor dressing need ;
Inclose, plow, reap, with care and speed,
And you will soon be rich indeed."

WEEDS exhaust the strength of the ground, and if suffered to grow may be called garden sins.

THE hand and the hoe are the instruments for eradicating weeds ; yet if there is room between the rows for the spade it is well to use it.

CUT bushes that you wish to destroy in the summer, and with a sharp instrument ; they will bleed freely and die.

RAIN is cash to a farmer.

Do not begin farming by building an extensive house, nor a spacious barn until you have something to store in it.

EXPERIMENTS are highly commendable, but do not become an habitual experimenter.

THE depredations of birds are fully compensated by the services they render in preying upon insects.

SHEEP put into fresh stables are apt to be killed by eating too much grain.

A BARE pasture enriches not the soil, nor fattens the animals, nor increases the wealth of the owner.

THE greatest miracle of love is the reformation of a coquette.

LET the young men of this republic, with a noble ardor and high aims, carve out a path honorable to themselves and their country. Relying upon their own exertions they may aspire to great things and accomplish them. Soon they are to wield the destinies of the nation; and whether it be for good or evil will depend upon themselves.

THOU, God, hast decked this earth with flowers
 Of varied form and hue ;
 Yet each receives from heaven its showers,
 And each the morning dew :
 So we, though varying in our mode
 Of worship here below,
 Alike receive thy grace, O God,
 In streams which freely flow.

Farmers' Calendar.

THE Quebec Gazette stated, in 1846, that an ounce of orpiment (to be found in drug stores,) burnt on charcoal near a wheat field, any time after sunset or before sunrise, when the plants begin to flower, is sufficient to destroy the wheat fly in a six acre field. Another plan is to carry strong lights around the field at night, (the darker the night the better,) when the flies will rush to the lights and perish. Both experiments have been successfully tried in Canada.

CANADA THISTLES. A farmer of Oneonta, N. Y., says of thistles : "Salt them—use salt freely, and your cattle and horses will gnaw and tramp them to death." Remember the word "liberally;" a small quantity of salt would probably act as a manure, and stimulate the thistle instead of killing it. Frequent cutting when about to put forth flowers, and previously, is perhaps as safe a way as any to rid the soil of these unwelcome visitors ; or they may be plowed in, before flowering, and thus made to enrich the soil by decomposition.

HAYING. Not many years since it was deemed impossible to do up haying without steam-power. Happily, in these days cold-water power alone (and very little of that,) with horse-rakes, are found far more expeditious and far cheaper also than the old drunk-before-dinner fashion. In this respect, both books and newspapers have had a powerful influence; and for once, we trust the most stubborn contemner of book and newspaper farming will give the printers full credit.

NEVER regret what is irretrievably lost.

NEVER expose your disappointment to the world.

ICE cream should never remain long in a tin freezer.

SALSIFY, OR VEGETABLE OYSTER. We could never perceive much resemblance in the taste of this vegetable to the real oyster; but we know a person who cooks it in such a manner that every one that tastes it, pronounces it delicious. The mode is as follows:—Salsify is scraped and washed; then cut into thin pieces across the roots, boiled, in just sufficient water to cover them, till they are very tender. When done, they should be dressed with vinegar, pepper and salt, and a litter of butter; or instead, a dressing of eggs and flour beaten together and poured over them.—Albany Cultivator.

FORGIVENESS.—Is there any real satisfaction in retaliating an injury? We venture to say there is not. On the contrary, we have known a slight offence visited by a slight retaliation, when regret for having resorted to it was far from being slight or of brief duration. And we think we may confidently assure any person, young or old, who is determined to retaliate, that he or she will have the worst in the encounter. There is a satisfaction in forgiving an injury, which a revengeful spirit never experienced; whether the injury is done to our prospects or to our feelings, the best return we can make is to forgive.

SWEET APPLE PUDDING.—Take one pint of scalding milk, half a pint of Indian meal, a tea-spoonful of salt, and six sweet apples cut into small pieces, and bake not less than three hours; the apples will afford an excellent rich jelly. This is truly one of the most luxurious yet simple Yankee puddings made.

THAT man is happy who makes himself the happiness of others.

EDUCATION is a companion which no misfortune can depress, no climate destroy, no enemy alienate, no despotism enslave;—at home a friend; abroad an introduction; in solitude a solace; in society an ornament. It lessens vice; it guides virtue; it gives at once grace and government to the genius. Without it, what is man? A splendid slave! a reasoning savage!

"WERE I the sun"—"What then, my child?
 Were you the sun, what then?"
 "I would not shine, so warm and mild,
 Upon such wicked men;
 I'd wither up their budding grain
 When just it leaves the earth,
 And they should sow their seed in vain,
 For never, never would I deign
 To warm it into birth.

Farmers' Calendar.

HAYING, harvesting and preparing the ground for the ensuing crops of rye and wheat, make August a busy and important month to the farmer. The policy of after-math or rowen is doubted, unless tender grass is wanted for young cattle, lambs and colts. Taking the next season's crop into consideration, it may be a question whether a second cutting of grass will pay for the labor and extra manure for the field, which it will require. Save your own grass and clover seeds: timothy, orchard-grass, red top and clover can be saved now cheaper than you can buy them by and by. In the long run the farmer will be a gainer who saves his own seed. In the first place he will save the profit which he has to pay somebody else when he buys; and in the next place he can, if he pleases, be sure of the very best of seed. Put up herbs enough for future use;—cut when the flower is matured, dry in the shade, and hang them up in paper bags when dried—of course mark each bag so as to know what's what.

TO WASH CRAPE, SCARFS, &c.—If the fabric be good, the articles of dress can be washed as frequently as may be required, and no diminution of their beauty will be discoverable, even when the various shades of green have been employed among other colors in the patterns. The method of cleaning them is as follows:—make a strong lather of boiling water—suffer it to cool; when cold or nearly so, wash the scarf quickly and thoroughly, dip it immediately into cold hard water in which a little salt has been thrown (to preserve the colors) rinse, squeeze, and hang it out to dry in the open air: pin it at its extreme edge to the line, so that it may not in any part be folded together: the more rapidly it dries the better.

VALUABLE RECEIPE. Mr. James B. Ayres has communicated to the public, through the Christian Advocate and Journal, a receipe for curing the discharge of blood from the lungs. It is as follows:—Take sixty grains of sugar of lead, ten grains of white vitriol, half an ounce of gum Arabic, half an ounce of laudanum, and five ounces of water; put them into a bottle, and shake it before taken. One or two teaspoons full every two hours or oftener, may be taken according to the bleeding. The preparation is rather pleasant to the taste. Mr. A. states that it had proved an effectual remedy in several cases of bleeding at the lungs, within his knowledge.

SALIVA IN HORSES. This troublesome complaint is easily arrested by mixing a table spoonful of the flower of sulphur with the salt given them from time to time. There have been many speculations offered in regard to the cause or origin of this disease, but none that appears to be perfectly satisfactory. Some attribute it to lobelia—others to bad hay, and others again to white clover. But whatever may be its origin is comparatively of small consequence, provided we possess the means of cure.—Germantown (Pa.) Telegraph.

PUSH.—Keep pushing. If you run against a snow bank or rail fence, don't go back, but push them over or leap them. If you hit against any difficulty, push it forward, or one side, and go on. It is no use to cry or lament; it won't help the matter in the least.

HAVE patience, oh quiet, hoping heart! What is denied to thee in life, because thou couldst not bear it, the happy moment of death bestows.—Herder.

THAT implicit credulity is the mark of a feeble mind, will not be disputed; but it may not, perhaps, be as generally acknowledged, that the case is the same with unlimited scepticism.—Stewart.

"Bur on the harvest of the good,
I'd send both heat and dew,
Till every young and callow bud
To golden fruitage grew.
The flowers should spring around his door,
Beneath my mellow rays,
And if he were despised and poor,
I'd fill with richest fruit his store,
And bless him all his days."

Farmers' Calendar.

WE take the following directions on Wheat Culture from the American Agriculturists' Almanac of 1844.

FROM the 1st to the 20th of this month, is the proper time for sowing wheat in the Northern States. If put in before, excessive heat and drought prevents early and rapid germination, which is desirable, and exposes it when up to the ravages of the Hessian fly. If sown later, the plant seldom acquires sufficient depth and strength of root to stand the frost heaving of winter, and it is more liable to mildew or rust in the following summer. As this is the great agricultural staple in many of the States, it is of vast consequence in the aggregate, that every precaution should be taken to insure good crops. If clay lands have been pared and burnt, or under-drained, or well charged with enriching vegetable manures, by which they have become lighter and more pervious to air and water, it is sufficiently prepared by two good plowings a little time previous to sowing; if such condition is lacking, no proper preparation can be made on such soil for wheat, without a good summer fallow, in which the soil is thrown up, where not saturated with rain so as to bake, and exposed to the ameliorating influences of air, sun, and dews. When this has been thoroughly done, such soils produce a large growth of the best wheat, and in Europe they are universally considered the very choicest wheat lands. When the ground is in good condition to receive the seed, it may be sown and harrowed in with a heavy drag, burying the seed about four inches. The experiment has been tried for a series of years in Scotland of plowing it in to a depth of six inches; but we lack evidences of its utility in this country. The seed should be perfectly clean, free from light chaffy grains. To insure this, either raise it yourself, such as you know to be good, or pay a little extra and get it from an approved source, by which you will secure another advantage more than equivalent to the additional cost, the benefits of a change of soil which is an advantage in all seeds. The next operation is preparing the seed. This is usually done by washing it in a strong brine, in which the light and imperfect grains and the smut will float, and may be poured off. If very smutty, it should be washed three times thoroughly. After the brine has been mostly drained out, quick lime must be sifted upon it, and stirred so that every grain shall have a good coating. This process assists the future crop in two ways, by effectually destroying smut, and by giving an early and healthy growth to the plant. This is the system adopted by the best wheat-growers in the central part of New York, the great grainery of the North. Young's Annals gives the result of several experiments in sowing wheat, which proved that while one bed of unprepared wheat gave 377 heads of smutty wheat, those soaked in ley twenty-four hours, and lime-water the same time, each, gave one head of smut.

KINDNESS.—No man hath measured the power of kindness, for it is boundless; no man has seen its death, for it is eternal. In all ages of the world, in every clime, among every kind, it hath shone out a bright and beautiful star, a beaming glory!

It is said, and truly, that setting a young man afloat in the world with money left him by his friends and relatives, is like tying bladders under one who cannot swim, in setting him afloat on the ocean—ten chances to one he will lose or break his flappers, and go to the bottom.

NEVER complain of being ill used.

"WERE I the rain"—"What then my child?
 Were you the rain, what then?"
 "I ne'er would fall so warm and mild,
 Upon such wicked men,
 I'd flood their fields till not a root
 Could find a spot to cling—
 And every young and tender shoot
 Should float before the careless foot,
 A drenched and worthless thing."

Farmers' Calendar.

A VAST deal is lost by carelessness in gathering the crops which have demanded weary hours of daily labor for the whole season. All fruit should be gathered without bruising; and as a general rule all fruit and roots should be sheltered from the sun when gathered and allowed to dry; then deposite in barrels or bins covered with straw or boards, and put them in a dry and cool cellar. If you store in pits in the field, be careful to surround with trenches to carry off water, and leave air-holes, for ventilation, which may be filled with whisps of straw. Look out for a good supply of garden seeds of your own raising about these days.

PICKLES.—A correspondent of the New England Farmer, gives an easy and efficacious method of pickling cucumbers, which he learned from an old sea captain in the West Indies.

The receipe is very simple, and the superiority of pickles cured by its directions, has been tested by many years' experience. They are neither affected by age nor climate. The following is the receipe:

"To each hundred of cucumbers put a pint of salt, and pour in boiling water sufficient to cover the whole. Cover them tight to prevent the steam from escaping, and in this condition let them stand for twenty-four hours. They are then to be taken out, and after being wiped perfectly dry, care being taken that the skin is not broken, placed in the jar in which they are to be kept. Boiling vinegar (if spice is to be used it should be boiled with vinegar,) is then to be put to them, the jar closed tight, and in a fortnight delicious hard pickles are produced, as green as the day when they were upon the vines."

ROAST BEEF.—When meat is put on the fire, salt should be sprinkled on it, and the bony side turned towards the fire first. When the bones get well heated through turn the meat, and keep a brisk fire—baste it frequently while roasting. There should be a little water put into the dripping pan when the meat is put down to roast. If it is a thick piece, allow fifteen minutes to each pound to roast it in—if thin, less time will be required. The tender loin, and first and second cuts off the rack, are best as roasting pieces.

RICE BREAD.—Take one pound of rice, and boil it gently to a thick paste, which when mixed with the usual quantity of yeast will be sufficient to make five pounds of wheat or barley meal into a dough. When risen, bake it in the usual way.

A TRUTHFUL WOMAN.—"My wife tells the truth three times a day," remarked a jocose old fellow, at the same time casting a mischievous glance at her. "Before rising in the morning, she says, 'O, dear, I must get up, but I don't want to.' After breakfast, she adds, 'Well, I suppose I must go to work, but I don't want to,' and she goes to bed, saying, 'There, I have been passing all the day, and havn't done anything.'"

SEIDLITZ POWDERS.—Each dose contains 25 grains of tartaric acid in the white paper, and 30 grains super-carbonate of soda, mixed with two drachms of glauber salts, in the blue.

THE source of our chagrin springs generally from our errors.

"DEAR child, not so doth God bestow
 His blessings on mankind ;
 He treats alike both friend and foe—
His love is unconfined.
 He sends his rain upon the just,
 And on the unjust too ;
 The wicked in his love may trust,
 Nor are they from his bounties thrust
 For all the wrong they do.

Farmers' Calendar.

JACK Frost is about to invade our premises in earnest ; so let us fill up all the chinks in the cellar walls, and prepare every part of our dwellings for a comfortable winter. In putting up stoves, look sharp that every thing is safe from fire on the one hand, and on the other to economize heat as much as possible. And here let us suggest, that air-tight stoves (or indeed every stove with a very great length of pipe,) have begun to be held in disrepute as fatal to chimnies. A gentleman informs us that he can tell whether there is an air-tight stove in any house by the looks of the chimney, which will have the marks of speedy decay. We have noticed the same thing ; for instance in the Episcopal Church in Montpelier the chimney (not an old one) actually came down. It is conjectured that in very slow combustion, as in air-tight stoves, or in other stoves with great length of pipe, the chimney remains cool comparatively, and therefore acts as a condenser to the smoke, forming pyroligneous acid, which is probably destructive to brick and mortar, when formed in sufficient quantity to trickle down the chimney and keep it constantly wet. If this theory is correct, the remedy is to evaporate the acid by heating the chimney or by keeping a strong draft through it. The subject is worthy of attention, for not merely is the saving of chimneys concerned, but through their decay dwellings are exposed to fire.

RICE MILK.—This dish is an excellent one, and very simply and quickly made. After washing a pint of rice in two different waters, boil it well with about half a pound of raisins from which the stems have been carefully picked. Pour off the water and mix a quart of rich milk with the rice. Let it boil for about five minutes, and after mixing with it four table spoonfuls of brown sugar, beat two eggs until they are light and pour them into the milk, stirring it all the time. After the rice and eggs are well mixed together, they should boil from three to five minutes. If they are not well stirred, the eggs will form a custard on the surface, which is not desirable.

CRUSHED BONES FOR WET LANDS.—It has been found that crushed bones are excellent manure for wet lands and boggy meadows. Break them up with an axe or sledge ; spread them and tread them into the surface of the soil. They contain much lime in combination with phosphorus and gelatine, which decompose slowly and thus afford nourishment to the grasses.

CHICKENS.—A disease called the gapes, so destructive among chickens, may be prevented, and if not too far advanced cured, by a slight mixture of assafœtida in their food. Four ounces, costing six cents per ounce, dissolved in water and mixed once a day in food, is enough for four hundred chickens.

DROPS.—No one perceives the rain drop after it reaches the earth ; but yet it produces its effect. Truths, constantly imparted, may apparently be of no avail ; but seem to sink in the bosom and expire. It is not so. Truth is never lost from whomsoever it comes, or whither it goeth. Like the rain drops it will be felt, though we cannot tell how or when or where.—Portland Tribune.

PRUSSIC ACID.—Cold water dashed over an animal poisoned with this acid causes its restoration almost immediately.

Don't give your boys the worst tools, and then scold because they cannot do as much as men.

TRUE humility, the basis of the Christian system, is the low, but deep and firm foundation of all real virtue.—Burke.

"YET, oh, my child, how keen must be
The pain in that man's heart,
To whom, with generous hand and free,
God doth his gifts impart;
Unless he strive, with earnest zeal,
To bless the human race,
And often at God's feet doth kneel,
To thank him for his daily weal,
And praise him for his grace?"

Farmers' Calendar.

SEED-TIME and harvest have passed, your grainaries and cellars and barns are filled. The loving-kindness of our heavenly Father has been abundant towards us; let us not be ungrateful!—yea, let us be thoughtful and joyful, remembering also to contribute according to our means to the comfort and joy of others. The children will rejoice in a good supply of books for the schools; the parson may be made glad by your attentions about these days, when your house is full, and his perhaps lean; and the poor you always have with you. Of course every parent will esteem it a privilege to give his influence for a good school-teacher. The teacher of your children should be your friend, and you should be his: for next to parents always, and sometimes even more than they, the teacher shapes the character of the children committed to him. Amid your joyful cares of children and friends, don't forget your creditors. Square up with the merchant, the mechanic, the minister, the doctor and the printer, before Jan. 1, 1849, and begin the new year a free and happy man. So be it with all our patrons, ancient and new: farewell till we meet again.

YARD-STICK ARISTOCRACY.—For the life of me, I cannot conceive how it is that our Yankee youths have got the foolish and censurable notion into their heads, that it is a degrading occupation to farm or work at a trade. They are the true gentlemen of the world, the farmer and mechanic! The young man who thinks there is more "respectability" in a yard-stick, than a plough-handle, has been very erroneously educated. Go to farming, young men! Raise corn to feed Europe with, and by-and-by be happy in a home of your own, with a beautiful wife and a group of fair children growing up like olive plants around your table. The life of a merchant's clerk is a dog's life; and the life of a merchant, all excitement, anxiety, anguish, fear, hope and apprehension, each following the other, and sometimes all upon him at once. Sleepless nights, days of care and thought, debts, notes, protests, stocks, all dance in his brain. He is without peace, and lives out not half his days. He deserves to be rich, for if any man earns his gold, it is the merchant. The farmer is your own happy philosopher.—Yankee Blade.

MEADOWS. Where they may be turf-bound, an improvement in product may be effected by harrowing the ground as soon as the frost is out of it, and sowing thereon a mixture composed of five bushels of ashes and one of plaster to each acre. If the stand of grass should be thin, it would be well to sow four or five pounds of timothy seed per acre and harrow it. Meadows may be restored to productiveness by such management, without incurring the labor and expense of re-plowing.

TO TAKE SPOTS FROM LEATHER GLOVES.—Suspend them in a jar over the strongest liquid ammonia, (hartshorn.) The fumes alone will remove the spots; be very careful not to let the liquid touch the gloves, or it will leave a mark even more unsightly than the spot it has removed.

INDUSTRY and Frugality are the parents of wealth.

Rates of Postage on Letters, Newspapers, &c.

LETTERS.—Single, or any number of pieces not exceeding one half ounce, 300 miles or less, 5 cents.

It over three hundred miles, 10 cents.

Drop letters, (not mailed,) 2 cents.

Each additional half ounce or part thereof, single postage.

NEWSPAPERS.—Of 1900 square inches or less, sent by publishers or editors, not exceeding 100 miles, or any distance in the State where they are published, 1 cent. Over one hundred miles and out of the State, 1 1-2 cent. If sent by others, 3 cents prepaid.

Newspapers over 1900 square inches, postage same as pamphlets.

PAMPHLETS.—Magazines and periodicals, any distance, for one ounce or less, each copy, 2 1-2 cents.

Each additional ounce or fraction, over 1-2 an ounce, 1 cent.

CIRCULARS.—Quarto post, single cap, or paper not larger than single cap, folded, directed and unsealed, any distance 3 cents.

HALF OUNCE LETTER, WHICH MAY BE SENT 300 MILES FOR 5 CENTS, OR ANY DISTANCE FOR 10 CENTS.

One and a half sheet of letter paper, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet do. with large or small envelope, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet foolscap, with small envelope, sealed with wafer.

One sheet letter paper with quarter eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Half sheet do. or light foolscap, half eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Sheet of letter paper may contain a dime and a half.

Half sheet of letter paper may contain a quarter of a dollar.

Sheet of letter paper with seven bank notes, sealed with wax; or

Three bank notes and the whole in an envelope.

FRANKING, ETC.

Postmasters may frank letters and packages, relating exclusively to post office business; but must in every case endorse over the signature the words "post office business."

All postmasters, whose compensation did not exceed $200 for the year ending 30th June, 1846, may send or receive free letters written by themselves, or on their own private business, not weighing over 1-2 an ounce.

It is the duty of postmasters to notify publishers when subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office; and this should be done by letter, franked as "post office business." The old practice of giving notice by returning the papers, subjects the publishers to postage, which they will not pay, and of course they do not get notice.

Postmasters may remit money for subscriptions to newspapers, free of postage, on franking their letter in proper form.

No Goods of ours are purchased upon a credit; hence they are obtained at decidedly better rates than if bought on time, for it is a well known fact that goods procured upon a credit are dear compared with those purchased with ready cash. Great pains are taken to examine the markets thoroughly, and being in them once a month during the business season, it enables us to obtain a knowledge which is very valuable—giving us advantage over purchasers who are but occasionally in the markets.

Particular attention given to supplying PEDDLERS.

Those wishing to purchase at wholesale are invited to call, as we can assure them that no pains shall be wanting to give them entire satisfaction, both in the assortment and in the prices asked, as our facilities for doing a jobbing trade are decidedly good.

[illegible]

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 1-4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising or setting, (as the case might be,) given in the Almanac, and also 2 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 23d of September. On that day according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 8 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 8 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 52m in the morning, and 5h 52m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon at his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 52m, leaving 5h 48m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 52m, which gives 5h 56m for the time of his setting on the 23d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked Sun South is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the first day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

The columns marked Sun's Declination, Sun's Semi Diameter, and Equation of Time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

On page 6 will be found a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for observation for determining longitude.

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon.

There will be, in 1849, four Eclipses, two of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I.—The first will be an Annular Eclipse of the Sun on the 22d of February; ☿ at 2h 40m in the evening. This Eclipse will be visible only to the north-western parts of North America, the north-eastern parts of Asia, and the North Pacific Ocean.

II.—The second will be a Partial Eclipse of the Moon on the 8th of March, visible at Montpelier, as follows.

| First contact with the Penumbra, 5h 22m, | } Mean Time, Evening. |
| First contact with the Shadow, 6h 35m, | |
| Middle of the Eclipse, 8h 5m, | |
| Last contact with the Shadow, 9h 35m, | |
| Last contact with the Penumbra, 10h 48m, | |

Duration of the Eclipse 3h. Magnitude (Moon's diameter=1) 0.74 on the Southern Limb.

III.—The third will be a Total Eclipse of the Sun on the 18th day of August, invisible at Montpelier; ☿ at 0h 43m in the morning.

This Eclipse will be visible from the greater part of the Indian Ocean, from the north-western part of Africa and the southern part of Australia.

IV.—The fourth will be a Partial Eclipse of the Moon on the 2d day of September, invisible at Montpelier; ☾ at 0h 28m in the evening.

Morning and Evening Stars.

The Planet Venus will be evening star till the 12th day of May—thence morning star till the end of the year.

The Planet Jupiter will be morning star till the 9th of February—thence evening star till the 27th of August, and thence morning star till the end of the year.

No good sleighing previous to the first of February. From Feb. 2 to Feb. 18 sleighing good, but no good sleighing afterwards. The broad lake closed over Feb. 13 and continued closed a few days, but the ice was at no time sufficiently strong to allow teams to cross.—The Line Boats went into winter quarters, Dec. 2, but the Saranac continued to run as a Ferry Boat to Port Kent and Plattsburgh till after the middle of December, after which the John Gilpin steamer ran between Burlington and Port Kent till the 9th of February. The lake was clear of ice and steamers again out on the 29th of March.

A FAIR OFFER. Dr. Franklin made the following offer to a young man. "Make," said he, "a full estimate of all you owe, and all that is owing to you. Reduce the same to a note. As fast as you can collect, pay over to those you owe. If you cannot collect, renew your note every year, and get the best security you can. Go to business diligently, and be industrious; waste no idle moments; be very economical in all things; discard all pride; be faithful in your duty to God, by regular and hearty prayer morning and night; attend church and meeting regularly every Sunday; and do unto all men as you would they should do unto you. If you are too needy in circumstances to give to the poor, do whatever else in your power for them cheerfully, but if you can, always help the worthy poor and unfortunate. Pursue this course diligently and sincerely for seven years; and if you are not happy, comfortable, and independent in your circumstances, come to me, and I will pay your debts."

LIVE FOR SOMETHING. Thou wilt breathe, move and live — pass off the stage of life and are heard of no more. Why? They did not a particle of good in the world; none were blest by them; none could point to them as the instruments of their redemption; not a line they wrote — not a word they spoke could be recalled, and so they perished, their light went out in darkness, and they were not remembered more than the islet of yesterday. Will you thus live and thus die, O man immortal? Live for something. Do good, and leave behind you a monument of virtue that the storms of time can never destroy. Write your name by kindness, love and mercy, on the hearts of the ten thousands you come in contact with year by year, and you will never be forgotten. No — your name, your deeds will be as legible on the hearts you leave behind, as the stars on the brow of evening. Good deeds will shine as brightly on the earth as the stars in heaven.

The results in the above Table are deduced from three observations made daily at sunrise, 1 P. M. and 9 P. M., amounting to 1095 in the year. The warmest day in 1847 was July 19, when the thermometer stood at 98° in the shade. July 9, it stood at 95°, and July 10, at 96°. The coldest was Feb. 16, when it stood at 14° below zero. Range of thermometer, 112°. The year 1847 was one half of a degree colder than the mean of the preceding 9 years, but was warmer than 1838 and 1843. The lake, opposite Burlington, froze over Feb. 15 and broke up April 23. Lake passable with teams on the ice from Feb. 16 to April 16. Lake not entirely clear of ice till May 10. Steamboats commenced running May 3, but were unable to reach St. Johns to the 6th—laid up Dec. 2. Blue Birds and Robins seen March 25, Song Sparrow 31,

Meadow Larks, April 25. White-billed Swallows 27, Martins, May 1, Barn Swallows, 4th, May beetles, 10, Currants and Gooseberries in blossom, 15th, Red Plum and Peach, 20, Plums and Cherries, 23, Crab Apples and Pears, 26, Common Apple, 29. Lake 4 inches higher on the 14th of May than it had been in the last 20 years. The fall of water in 1847, was greater than in either of the preceding 9 years, and was 67 inches more than the mean annual fall in those 9 years. Range of Barometer from 28.70 into 30.46=1.76.

TALK who will of the world as a desert of thral,;
 Yet—yet, there is bloom on the waste ;
 Though the chalice of life hath its acid and gall,
 There are honey-drops too for the taste.

Farmers' Calendar.

OLD AND FAITHFUL FRIENDS OF THE VERMONT REGISTER.—FOW more than thirty years have you stood by us to encourage and sustain our humble efforts to please, to instruct, to aid and encourage you. We trust we have not been useless servants—you have been noble friends. We salute you with a most respectful bow ; we tender you our heart in our hand, and reverently say—God bless you ! bless you in a wise beginning of the year—bless you in your duties and trials and laudable purposes—and crown this year and all the years of your life with His loving kindness.

Encourage and support your minister. Let your children understand that you are on the side of the school-master and school-mistress. Take at least one good newspaper, and two or three if you can ; and when they have been read, file them away carefully, along with every year's Register, that they may be bound and preserved. The best history of Vermont, since its organization as a State, is to be found in the files of the newspapers and registers.

GATES. Every field on the farm should be entered by a good self-shutting and self-fastening gate. Farmers who are too busy in summer to make them, or to get them, should see to it now. How long does it require to take down and put up a set of bars ? At least two minutes—which if repeated three times a day for a year, amounts to thirty hours, or three days of working time, which would yearly pay for a good gate. Or examine it in another point of view ; three times a day is over ten hundred times a year ; now is there any man between Halifax and California, who would take down and replace a set of bars over ten hundred times in succession, in payment for a farm gate ? Hardly—yet this is the price yearly paid by those who use bars that are constantly passed, and the gate is not obtained by it. Again, how much better is a well hung gate than one half hung ? or one with a good self-fastening latch, than one with a pin crowded into an auger hole ! Try it, by dragging a badly hung gate over the ground, ten hundred times in succession, securing it each time with a pin, and see if you do not think this labor would pay for good hinges and a latch.

TRUE HOSPITALITY.—I pray you, oh ! excellent wife, cumber not yourself and me to get a curiously rich dinner for this man and woman who have alighted at our gate ; nor a bed chamber made ready at too great a cost ; these things, if they are curious in them, they can get for a few shillings in any village ; but rather let this stranger see, if he will, in your looks, accents and behaviour, your heart and earnestness, your thought and will, that which he cannot buy in any village, which he cannot buy at any price in any city, which he may well travel twenty miles, and dine sparsely and sleep hardly, to behold. Let not the emphasis of hospitality lie in bed and board ; but let truth, and love, and honor, and courtesy, flow in all thy deeds.

INFORMATION. Dr. Franklin remarks, a man as often gets two dollars for the one he spends in informing his mind, as he does for a dollar he lays out in any other way.

EDUCATION is a better safeguard for liberty than a standing army. If we retrench the wages of the schoolmaster, we must raise the wages of the recruiting sergeant. [Edward Everett.]

THE glory of a good man is the testimony of a good conscience : have that and thou wilt have inward peace amidst troubles.

A wise mind never despises aught that flows from a feeling heart.

We murmur and droop should a sorrow-cloud stay,
 And note all the shades of our lot ;
 But the rich scintillations that brighten our way,
 Are bask'd in, enjoyed, and forgot.

Farmers' Calendar.

It is cold and bleak without—warm and cheerful within doors ; but hide not thyself in thy comfortable house, like the bear in his wintry den, until the ox and the cow and the horse and the sheep have well been provided for—nay, not so long as thou hast a single sick or poor neighbor suffering for the aid which thou canst well give out of thy good health and abundant store.

In all the contingencies of chance and variety of action, remember that thou art the maker of thy own fortune, and thy own sin.—Bishop Taylor.

ANYTHING can be done by him that earnestly desires what he ought. Secure but your affections and passions, and then no temptations will be too strong. A wise man, and a full resolution, and an earnest spirit can do anything of duty.—Ib.

If men knew what felicity dwells in the cottage of a virtuous man ; how sound he sleeps, how quiet his rest, how composed his mind, how free from care, how easy his position, how moist his mouth, how joyful his heart—they would never admire the noises, the diseases, the throngs of passions, and the violence of unnatural appetites, that fill the house of the luxurious, and the heart of the ambitious.—Ib.

WHOSOEVER is contented with poverty is rich. Not he who hath little, but he who desires more than he hath, is the poor man.—Ib.

A MAN must labor infinitely to get more than he needs ; but to drive away thirst and hunger, a man needs not to sit in the fields of the oppressed poor, nor lead armies, nor break his sleep.—Ib.

LOOKING-GLASSES.—As ladies are proverbially fond of looking-glasses, they should be made acquainted with a fact, but little known or attended to, that the beauty and truth of their reflected images very much depend upon the quality and color of the glass itself, which are easily detected by merely holding white paper edgewise to the glass ; and just so much as the reflected paper varies in color from the paper applied, in the same proportion are their complexions apparently tinged or blackened by it. Thus, many persons are continually imagining they "look ill," and, perhaps, from this circumstance really become so, from the habit of using a glass that thus unconsciously disfigures them.

DRESSING WOUNDS.—Nine times out of ten, a wound will heal quicker, if done up in its own blood, than in any other way. As for a burn, whatever will entirely exclude the air the quickest is the best. Cotton will do this. So will oiled silk, if stuck down at the edges by any kind of sticking salve. Put nothing on a burn to heal it. Nature will soon do that, when the air is excluded, and the pain will almost immediately cease.

STING OF A BEE. The most efficacious remedy I have ever found for the sting of a bee, is simple chalk. As soon as you are stung, apply as much of this substance as you can take up on your thumb nail, in a moist state, and permit it to remain until the pain subsides. After this application there will be no soreness, and no inflammation.

Germania Telegraph.

If you are about to leave a neighbor's house, don't stand stammering and fumbling, saying, "Well, I guess it's time I should be going." When you are ready, go at once.

If a person saws on you when up, he will most assuredly trample on you when down.

HAPPINESS consists not in having much, but in wanting no more than we have.

HE that can please nobody is not so much to be pitied as he that nobody can please.

THE idle levy a very heavy tax upon the industrious, when by frivolous visitations they rob them of their time.

GRACE does not run in the blood, but corruption does.

THOSE who look on mortality's ocean aright,
Will not mourn o'er each billow that rolls,
But dwell on the glories, the beauties, the might,
As much as the shipwrecks and shoals.

Farmers' Calendar.

"MARCH!" Aye—march straight on in the path of virtue, honor, patriotism, temperance, industry. Conquer first the enemies within—your lusts and passions; so may your undivided energies be directed against the foes from without, and all your path be crowned with victories.

TO COOK PARSNIPS. Persons who have never eaten parsnips cooked according to the following mode, have no idea what an excellent dish they are. Scrape the parsnips, wash and slice them lengthwise; boil in just enough water to cover them till thoroughly done. Then put in a piece of butter, with a little salt and pepper. Beat up an egg with a spoonful of flour, and pour over them. They are then ready to dish up. Parsnips are likewise very good, split once and roasted with pork in the dripping pan.—S. Planter.

PRESERVING BUTTER. The farmers in the parish of Udney, in the county of Aberdeen, Scotland, practice the following method of curing their butter, which gives it a great superiority over that of their neighbors:

Take two parts of the best common salt, one part of sugar, and one part of saltpetre: take one ounce of this composition for sixteen ounces of butter; work it well into the mass and close it up for use. The butter with this mixture appears of a rich marrowy consistence, and fine color, and never acquires a brittle hardness, nor tastes salty. Dr. Anderson says, "I have ate butter cured with the above composition, that has been kept three years, and it was as sweet as at first." But it must be noted that butter thus cured, requires to stand three weeks or a month before it is begun to be used; if it be sooner opened, the salts are not sufficiently blended with it; and sometimes the coolness of the nitre will then be perceived, which totally disappears afterwards.

SELECTING MEATS. In selecting Beef take that which has a coarse, loose grain, which easily yields to the pressure of finger or knife; which is a pulpy red, and has whitish fat. Ox Beef is best. If the lean is pulpy and the fat very yellow, it is bad Beef. If it is coarse grained and hard to break or cut, it is tough. Stall-fed has lighter fat than grass-fed beef.

If meat is frozen, lay it in cold water to thaw. A piece of ten pounds, or more, will require all night to thaw. Beef and Mutton improve by keeping, when cool weather. Meat is better for not being frozen, except fresh Pork. In selecting Veal, take that which is firm and dry, and the joints stiff, having the lean a delicate red, the kidney covered with fat and the fat very white. If you buy the head, see that the eyes are plump and lively, and not sunk in the head. If you buy the legs, get those which are not skinned, as the skin is good for jelly or soup.

In choosing Mutton, take that which is bright red and close grain, with firm and white fat. The meat should feel tender and springy on pressure. Notice the vein in the neck of the fore quarter, which should be a fine blue.—Miss Beecher's Domestic Receipt Book.

ANGER, like a hurricane upon the Ocean, destroys the repose of the heart, and rolls heavy surges of affliction over the soul.

A poor mechanic will be a poor man. To postpone doing right is equivalent to doing wrong.

LIFE without an object is a vagabond sluggard.

MATURE your plans well, and you will seldom fail of their accomplishment.

LOUIS PHILLIPPE left his umbrella at Paris—he had no use for it when the reign was over.

NONE are so fond of secrets as those who do not wish to keep them.

How thankless is he, who remembers alone
 All the bitter, the drear, and the dark !
 Though the raven may scare with its woe-boding tone,
 Do we need hear the song of the lark.

Farmers' Calendar.

TAKE a look at the fences: Jack Frost has been pulling up the posts, knocking off boards, and tumbling over the walls, just as likely as not. Then see the plows, harrows and all sorts of tools: examine these, and have all necessary repairs made at once. If your stock of tools is insufficient, go, without delay, and purchase more, and bear in mind while purchasing, that the best implements are always the cheapest.

SALTING MANURE. Mixing salt with stable and other manure has a great tendency to prevent the development of grubs and vermin, which are frequently bred in dung when carried unsalted to the fields.

Am. Agriculturist.

BEES. Give salt to bees by laying it on the corner of the board in front of the hive. They need it as much as cattle or other animals; and when not supplied, they are often seen in the mud around the door.—Boston Cultivator.

FRUIT TREES. A paint made of Soap, Sulphur and Salt is excellent for fruit trees.

ACCUMULATION OF MANURE. Seize every opportunity to collect materials for making manure, and suffer none that may be in your yard to be destroyed by the sun or wasted by the rains—a covering of earth will prevent the first, while a proper dish-like shaped yard will obviate the latter.

LIME. The following method of using lime stands so high in our estimation that we repeat it every year:—Break the stones small before putting into the kiln to be burnt, and not larger than a goose's egg; lay them in a hot state on the land, which should be in a half wrought condition; spread out the lime shells very evenly; the subsequent operations of ploughing and harrowing, not less than twice performed, will cover and distribute the lime, and the land will be benefitted by the moist heat and damp exhalations that will be evolved during the dissolution. This is by far the most preferable mode of using lime that is yet known.—British Farmers' Almanac.

GINGER SNAPS. One cup of molasses. Half a cup of sugar. Half a cup of butter. Half a cup of warm water—the butter melted with it. A small teaspoonful of pearlshab, dissolved in the water. Two table spoonsful of ginger. The dough should be stiff; knead it well, and roll into sheets, cut into round cakes, and bake in a moderate oven.

IMPORTANCE OF LIGHT TO HEALTH. We have lately seen it stated that there is a marked difference in the healthiness of houses, according to their aspect in regard to the sun. Those are decidedly the healthiest, ceteris paribus, in which all rooms are during some part of the day fully exposed to direct light. It is well known that epidemics attack the inhabitants of the shady side of a street, and totally exempt those on the other side.—Mer. Jour.

INTELLIGENCE to plan, industry to execute, and economy to preserve—prosperity follows.

IGNORANCE, idleness, and waste, are followed close in the rear by distress, poverty and want.

Don't you know you should'nt be out there, my son? Go into the back yard if you want to play marbles—it is Sunday.

Well, yes. But ain't it Sunday in the back yard, mother? said the boy.

THERE is nothing so much out of proportion as a great name and little merit.

MEN dote on this world as if it was never to have an end, and neglect the next as if were never to have a beginning.

THE wise man applauds him whom he thinks most virtuous; the rest of the world, him who is most wealthy.

We may utter farewell when 'tis torture to part,
But in meeting the dear one again,
Have we never rejoiced with wildness of heart.
Which outbalances ages of pain?

Farmers' Calendar.

You may plant potatoes in this month if you choose; we are inclined to early planting, from all we can learn. You may not wash and shear your sheep, even if the weather does appear to be clear and warm.

NOVEL EXPERIMENT WITH THE POTATO. I noticed in an eastern paper the manner of producing new varieties of potatoes from the ball, but I have never seen any directions for producing them from the tuber. This can be done—but Nature is the chief workman. Most farmers that raise the pinkeye potato, have noticed the pink or bluish color of the eyes extending in streaks and blotches over more or less of the surface of the potato. These blue spots, with an eye, can be made to produce a blue variety, perfectly distinct from the original pinkeye.

While digging pinkeyes in the fall of 1842, I noticed a large potato with a blue spot covering nearly one half of its surface. This potato I put away in the cellar for experiment in the spring, when I cut it as nearly as I could between the blue and the white, cutting out and throwing away the eyes on the edges in which the colors were mixed, then cutting each part into several pieces, and planting each color in a hill by itself. The result was, the white part produced thirteen white potatoes and one blue one; and the blue one produced ten blue ones. From these ten blue potatoes, I have made my whole crop, and for four years have seen not the least "shadow of turning" pink-eye again. By what freak of nature this result is produced, or by what formula in the science of vegetation it can be explained, others more skilled in the science perhaps can answer.—Ohio Cultivator.

DESTRUCTION OF MICE. A curious fact is mentioned of the extraordinary number of 28,071 mice having been taken or caught from September to January, in the Dean Forest, Gloucestershire, over an area of only 1,693 acres. The successful method adopted there was boring holes in the ground twenty inches deep, wider at the bottom than the top, which prevented them getting out when once in, and into which holes was dropped some food.

DRAINING. All wet lands should be drained—by such process their capacity for production is greatly increased, while the quality of the crops grown on them is much improved.

PLOWING WELL. No farmer, we think, who has ever remarked the inefficiency of the "cut and cover" mode of plowing,—that is, trying to throw over a slice of earth twice as wide as the plow will perform, will prefer it to the infinitely superior mode of drawing deep, straight, and narrow furrows.

A TRUTH. If there is any act which deserves deep and bitter condemnation, it is that of trifling with woman's affection. The female heart may be compared to a delicate harp, over which the breathings of early affections wander, until each tender chord is awakened to tones of ineffable sweetness. It is the music of the soul which is thus called forth—a music sweeter than the fall of the fountains, or the song of the Hourii in the Moslem's Paradise. But woe for the delicate fashioning of that harp, if a change pass over the love which first called forth its hidden harmonies. Let neglect and cold unkindness sweep over its strings, and they will break one after another, slowly perhaps, but surely. Unvisited, unrequited by the light of love, the soul-like melody will be hushed in the stricken bosom—like the murmurs of the Egyptian statue before the coming of the sunrise.

Earth praises conquerors for shedding blood ;
 Heaven, those that love their foes and do them good.
 It is terrestrial honor to be crowned
 For strewing men like rushes on the ground ;
 True glory 'tis to rise above them all,
 Without the advantage taken by their fall.

THOUGH the eye may be dimm'd with its grief-drop awhile,
 And the whiten'd lip sigh forth its fear,
 Yet pensive indeed is that face where the smile
 Is not oftener seen than the tear.

Farmers' Calendar.

A GREAT deal is gained by early weeding. When weeds first start they may be easily destroyed, and if the land has been recently ploughed and planted, it will be light and mellow, and the hoeing of it at an early period requires but little time, compared to what is necessary when the weeds have become large and almost formed a sward, and the earth has become compact and hard.—Another disadvantage in delaying weeding till late, is the hiding of the plants by the luxuriant weeds. In some cases the plants cannot be found without diligent search, and then, perhaps, the weeds cannot be removed without radically disturbing the plants, which, from their fragile forms, growing in the shade of tall weeds, can hardly stand alone.

Besides the great saving of labor in weeding early, there is a great advantage to the crops, for most all plants that stand in a good soil, free from weeds, will grow twice as fast for stirring the soil around them. When there are no weeds, plants will come up, grow a little and then remain almost stationary for weeks, when a little stirring of the soil around them would give them a start and cause a luxuriant growth. This is often shown by part of a row or piece of land being hoed while another part is left. So great a difference is sometimes produced by merely stirring the soil, that the casual observer has supposed that there was a difference in the manure, time of planting, or something else which he would regard as more important than the mere stirring of the soil.

We have an account of a trial between two cultivators who competed for the greater success under the same circumstances as to soil, manure, seed, &c. One thought to excel by hoeing his lot twice a week, aware of the great advantage of frequently stirring the soil; but he was much surprised to find that he had been beaten, and was anxious to learn the management of his competitor, which was his own plan carried to a greater extent, for he had hoed his lot every morning.

Farmers will find it profitable to prepare their lands, and arrange their plants so that most of the labor in destroying weeds, and stirring the soil, so essential to successful cultivation, may be done by animal labor. In this there will not only be a saving of expense, but a greater profit by a large crop, for by the use of a cultivator or plow between rows, the soil will be stirred deeper than by the hoe, and it may be done more frequently also. A good steady horse, in a well arranged field, in the hoeing season, will do as much as several men.

CURE FOR SLANDER.—Mr. Rowland Hill, on being told that it was expected he should take notice of some unhandsome things said of him, said he did not consider it necessary to enter into any vindication of himself; and, he added, "I have lived a great many years in the world, and have passed through much of evil report and good report, and I have arrived at this conclusion, that no man can possibly do me any harm except myself."—La Sere.

Young ladies who are accustomed to read news papers, are always observed to possess winning ways, most amiable dispositions, invariably make good wives, and always select good husbands—a fact.

THE machinery in England equals the labor of six hundred millions of men.

Good nature and education, say to the young—Reverence old age.

GATHERING HERBS. All such herbs as are gathered for drying should be cut or gathered just when they are beginning to come into flower, and should be dried in the shade.

THERE's two languages, squire, that's universal—the language of love, and the language of money; the gals understand the one, and the men the other, all the wide world over.—Sam Slick.

There are times when the storm-gust may rattle around,
 There are spots where the poison shrub grows,
 Yet are there not hours when nought else can be found,
 But the south wind, the sunshine, and rose?

Farmers' Calendar.

HAY to sell? We hope so: first rate Vermont hay is not long to be a drug in market, even in the most abundant seasons—if (as it is to be presumed will be the case,) the farmers choose to avail themselves of railroad facilities for the purpose of carrying hay to market. To do this, the hay must be neatly and compactly pressed into bales, suitable for handling. We commend the subject to the farmers for investigation and experiment.

Young hay-maker, be not ambitious. We cut this warning from a cotemporary:

Many a young man has ruined his constitution by too great zeal, and a reluctance to be outdone, even by his superiors in years, strength and skill. It was only a short time since that we saw conveyed to the grave yard, the emaciated remains of a young man whose constitution had been destroyed and health irremediably ruined in this way. Thousands have experienced the same fate, and by over exertion have too often made their first haying season their last. Youngsters, when they commence mowing, should begin with calmness and moderation, and strive to attain the character of good mowers, rather than to carry the foremost swath. We have seen many swift mowers, but rarely one who cut his grass well; hurry does not permit of perfection, and it is not unfrequently the case that individuals who "get over" their three, four or five acres a day, are, in reality, worth less to their employers than those that "mow" but one. By neglecting the essential points, and leaving a tall stubble, one may easily lose the price of his wages to his employer, even where the crop is light and the grass thin.

HARVEST DRINK.—Ten gallons of cold water, one gallon of molasses, one quart of vinegar, and half a pound of ginger, well stirred together, make a refreshing drink—and while upon this subject we will remark, that harvest hands should be generously fed.

CURE FOR ILL-TEMPER.—A sensible woman of the doctor's acquaintance, (the mother of a young family) entered so far into his views upon this subject, that she taught her children from the earliest childhood to consider ill-humor as a disorder which was to be cured by physic. Accordingly, she had always small doses ready, and the little patients, whenever it was thought needful, took rhubarb for the crossness. No punishment was required. Peevishness or ill-temper and rhubarb were associated in their minds always as cause and effect.

MODESTY.—Let a woman be decked with all the embellishments of art and nature—yet, if boldness is to be read in her face, it blots out all the lines of beauty.

TO PRESERVE BEEF STEAKS—As the warm season has arrived, when meat cannot be kept for more than a day or two in a fresh state, it will be of no inconsiderable benefit to many to be informed, that if fresh meat is rolled up in Indian corn meal, it will keep fresh for four or five days. The steak should be laid down in pieces from one to three pounds, and each piece covered entirely with meal.

TO KEEP STRIPED BUGS FROM VINES.—Soft Plaster of Paris on the plants when the dew is on, rubbing it on the under side of the leaves, and the bugs will not touch them. If the rains wash off the plaster, apply it again. A neighbor of ours has tried it with good success for ten years.

O, HAPLESSLY fate is the portion that's ours,
 And strange is the path that we take,
 If there spring not beside us a few precious flowers
 To soften the thorn and the brake.

TIME FOR CUTTING WHEAT. The appearance, or condition, indicating the proper time for cutting wheat, depends on the variety.—Thus, when the grain of red wheat can be squeezed between the thumb and finger, without any moisture being forced from it, cutting may always be safely commenced; for it is never better than when harvested in this state, and if cut later, the wheat is seldom so good in quality; besides serious losses are sometimes sustained, in consequence of high winds, when it is allowed to arrive at a riper state. The white varieties should stand somewhat longer than the red before they are cut.

With respect to the color of the straw, as a sign of maturity, experience has shown, that, if in a healthy state, the ear generally ripens before the straw; the yellowness of the chaff and upper parts of the straw indicates that the crop is fit to cut; and the uniform yellow color of the straw, shows that the crop has arrived at maturity, and, if suffered to stand in the field, the kernels are liable to be shaken out by the wind.—American Agriculturist.

TREATMENT OF HORSE MANURE. Fresh horse dung, when dried, contains about 23-4 per cent. of ammonia and other fertilizing salts; but when allowed to ferment, as it usually does in practice, it contains only about one per cent. of fertilizing salts, and loses besides, nearly 9-10ths of its weight. This gives some idea of the waste which generally attends the practice of neglecting this kind of manure on the farm. In order to prevent this waste, it is only necessary to throw the dung into a heap, under cover, and sprinkle a few handfuls of charcoal dust or plaster of Paris among it every few days, or if it becomes heated, to mix with it a few quarts of common salt.

GAPES IN CHICKENS. A writer in the Ohio Cultivator, recommends the following remedy for this disease in chickens: "Steep lobelia and red pepper in hot (not boiling) water, and mix the food with this liquor as strong as they will eat it, until the chickens gape for certain." It is both a preventive and a remedy. We tried it to see if it would kill some hopeless chickens, but they would live in spite of it, and now we have no trouble with this disease.

HOW TO MAKE GINGER SYRUP. Soak, for twenty-four hours, in warm water, one pound of West India ginger root; rub it well, and boil in one gallon of water till reduced to three quarts; strain it through a cloth, and to every pint of water put one pound of loaf sugar, and boil it to a good syrup, skimming it well. When cold, bottle it for use, and it will keep in a cool place, for any reasonable length of time; and a small quantity, mixed in a tumbler of fresh water, makes one of the most refreshing and healthful beverages that can be drunk during hot weather. It also has the double advantage of being easily made, and fit for immediate use. Another method, even less troublesome, is, to make a rich syrup of water and loaf sugar, and when cold enough to bottle, add to every pint of syrup, two tea-spoonfuls of the best tincture of ginger, which can be purchased at an apothecary's.—American Agriculturist.

PRUNING—August is a better time than July, or any other month in the year, for pruning when large limbs are to be cut off.—Bas. Cul.

MANY contend that the best time to cut heads grass is when it is in blossom, but it is mere theory. Cut when the seed is full in milk.

SOMEBODY says—"Some men think they are sober because they forswear ardent spirits. Many get fuddled with love, more get drunk with vanity, while passion trips up one's heels, and transforms him into a beast. Reason is your only teetotaler."

A good wife exhibits her love for her husband by trying to promote his welfare, and by administering to his comfort.

The wail of regret, the rude clashing of strife,
The soul's harmony often may mar;
But I think we must own, in the discords of life,
'Tis ourselves that oft waken the jar.

Farmers' Calendar.

The first duty of this month is a political one. Do that duty honestly and faithfully—do it from principle. Sell not your vote for an office; give it not away as a personal favor; withhold it not for any reason. To vote is a duty as well as a privilege; but to vote capriciously, or for any purpose other than to secure good government, is to violate this duty and pervert the privilege.

IMPROVED METHOD OF MAKING CHARCOAL. A mode of manufacturing this substance, in France, is to fill all the interstices in the heap of wood to be charred, with dry, powdered charcoal; then cover the whole mass with earth or sods, and burn it the usual way. By this means, much of the access of air is prevented, and a saving of ten per cent. in volume as well as weight, of charcoal, will be gained over the ordinary modes.—American Agriculturist.

HOW TO MANAGE A KICKING COW. Take a piece of rope about two feet in length, and tie or splice the two ends together so as to form a loop. Double up by bending the fore leg of the milking side of the cow and slip the loop over her knee. By this means she will necessarily have to stand on three legs and will not be able to kick.—Id.

FRENCH VEGETABLE SOUP. Take a leg of lamb, of moderate size, and four quarts of water. Of potatoes, carrots, cabbage, onions, tomatoes, and turnips, take a tea-cup full of each, chopped fine. Salt and black pepper to your taste.

Wash the lamb, and put it into the four quarts of cold water.—When the scum rises, take it off carefully with a skimmer. After paring and chopping the vegetables, put them into the soup. Carrots require the most boiling, and should be put in first; onions require the least boiling, and are to be put in last. This soup requires about three hours to boil.

POISONOUS PROPERTY OF BRINE. It is not to be wondered at that your pigs should be suffering, if, as you state, "a portion of brine got mixed with their wash," and they partook of the same. We have the authority of the late celebrated veterinarian, Mr. Youatt, for stating that "the brine in which pork or bacon has been pickled is poisonous to pigs;" and that "several cases are on record in which these animals have died in consequence of a small quantity of brine having been mingled with the wash, under the mistaken impression that it would answer the same purpose and be equally as beneficial as is the admixture of a small quantity of salt."—Albany Cultivator.

"WIFE," said a married man, looking for his boot-jack after she was in bed, "I have a place for all things, and you ought to know it."
"Yes," says she, "I ought to know where you keep your late hours."

THE total agricultural wealth of France, in agricultural, vegetable and animal produce, amounts to the enormous sum of three thousand one hundred and twenty million, six hundred and twenty-one thousand pounds.

COURTESY.—In order to render yourselves amiable in society, correct every appearance of harshness in behavior. Let that courtesy distinguish your demeanor, which springs not so much from studied politeness, as from a mild and gentle heart. Let your manners be simple and natural, and they will be engaging. Affectation is certainly deformity. By forming themselves on fantastic models, and vying with one another in every reigning folly, the young begin with being ridiculous, and end in being vicious and immoral.

SILENCE is one great art of conversation. He is not a fool who knows when to hold his tongue—and a person may gain credit for sense, eloquence and wit, who merely says nothing to lessen the opinion which others have of these qualities in themselves.

A SENSIBLE wife looks for her enjoyment at home—a silly one abroad.

EARTH is not all fair, yet it is not all gloom ;
 And the voice of the grateful will tell,
 That He who allotted Pain, Death, and the Tomb,
 Gave Hope, Health, and the Bridal as well.

Farmers' Calendar.

METHOD OF DETERMINING THE WEIGHT OF CATTLE. The following method of ascertaining the dead weight of cattle by measurement when alive, has been adopted to a considerable extent. It is found to be an expeditious mode, and if not to be implicitly depended upon, at least furnishes a very important assistance to the judgment of the dealer.

RULE. Take the girth of the beast by measuring round with a string or tape, close behind the shoulder blade, along the back, to that bone of the tail which is in a perpendicular line with the fore part of the buttock. Multiply the girth (in feet) by itself, and that product by the length, and then by 42. The last product to be divided by 100 will give the weight in Smithfield stones of eight pounds each. If stones of 14 pounds are required, the Multiplier will be 24 instead of 42.—Baxter's Library.

Now is the time to save seed for next Spring's garden ; so here take a good word on—

RAISING OF CABBAGE AND TURNIP SEED. The great object in raising cabbage or turnip seed, is to place the plants where there will be no danger of being impregnated with the farina of any other of the cabbage or turnip tribe. A few good plants of one variety, should be selected and planted in the spring, in an open spot by themselves, where they may run to seed. No more than one sort, let it be remembered, can be safely grown in the same garden.—American Agriculturist.

TO MAKE A PLEASANT COSMETIC SOAP. Shave a quarter of a pound of old castile, or palm-oil soap, into soft, hot water enough to cover it ; boil and stir it quite smooth ; turn it into an earthen bowl, and, while hot, stir in enough Indian corn or bean meal, to make a thick paste ; add an ounce of oil of almonds, and some oil of lavender, rose, or other agreeable perfume ; cover it closely in small China toilet boxes or jars, and put one on every washstand.—Id.

Good manners and compliments cost nothing, and yet for the want of them many get their heads broken.

HINTS shrewdly strown, mightily disturb the spirit where a bare-faced accusation would be too ridiculous for calumny.

Do not suppose that you cannot do an act of charity, because you are not as rich as some others ; do what you can.

AN ABSURDITY. To drink rum while water is so much cheaper and more healthy.

WIND puffs up empty badders ; opinion, fools.

TEACH YOUR CHILDREN MUSIC. You will stare at a strange notion of mine ; if it appears even a mad one, do not wonder. Had I children, my utmost endeavors should be to breed them musicians. Considering I have no ear, nor even thought of music, the preference seems odd ; and it is embraced on frequent reflection. In short, madam, as my aim would be to make them happy, I think it the most probable method. It is a resource which will last them their lives, unless they grow deaf ; it depends on themselves, not on others ; always amuses and soothes, if not consoles ; and of all fashionable pleasures is the cheapest. It is capable of fame without danger of criticism—it is susceptible of enthusiasm, without being oppressed ; and, unlike other mortal passions, is sure of being gratified even in heaven.—Horace Walpole.

If a point be so nice, that though we hope on the whole there may be no harm in engaging in it, we may at least be always quite sure there can be no harm in letting it alone.

A COQUETTE is a rose from which every lover plucks a leaf: the thorns are reserved for her future husband.

SHOULD Fate do its worst, and my spirit oppress'd,
 O'er its own shattered happiness pine,
 Let me witness the joy in another's glad breast,
 And some pleasure must kindle in mine.

Farmers' Calendar.

In our last Register we took occasion to drop a warning about air-tight stoves; now we give a few hints upon furnaces for heating houses. We have had some experience in this mode of warming houses, and feel warranted in remarking that a good furnace is economical and superior to stoves in warming rooms. To be good, it must be in the cellar, and the air to be heated and passed into your upper rooms must be fresh and pure, supplied by a pipe from the open air. To heat the air of the cellar, and convey that to your rooms to be breathed, is not only unpleasant but unhealthy: we warn you against that. Again: if possible let your fresh air pipe open into some spot sheltered from the winds or provide it with a valve to exclude part of the air when the wind is high, else you will occasionally get too much cold air; at the best, this difficulty will to some extent occur. Still again: for convenience sake use a very large stove for your furnace, so as to burn large wood: it is some trouble to keep a furnace in full blast, if by using small wood you are compelled to go into the cellar a dozen times a day! Finally, do not put a furnace in the same cellar with your vegetables, butter, cheese, &c.; your cellar will in that case be too warm. If you intend to set up a furnace, get an experienced hand to do it, or take a pattern from one well tried.

USE OF GREEN AND DRY WOOD. Some years ago I was led to ascertain the weight lost by wood in drying or seasoning. For this purpose I weighed green rock maple and beech, taken from the sapwood and from the heartwood, and from both together, and dried the specimens carefully in a warm oven, so as to be more free from water than common wood as ordinarily seasoned. The loss was from one fourth to one third of the weight. This loss was water. If the wood is burned while green, this water must be evaporated and thrown into the atmosphere, and a considerable part of the caloric of heat produced by the combustion of the wood must be in this way carried off, and be of no use in heating or warming.

The farmer will at a glance see that a cord of green wood must form a load of nearly two tons in weight, and he will probably conclude that his team has a much greater load than is commonly supposed. Timber three feet in diameter will have a cord of solid wood in every eighteen feet, and if 36 feet long, will weigh about five tons.

It is also obvious that in drawing green wood, the farmer must load and transport three barrels of water in every cord or 60 barrels in twenty cords, allowing that wood as commonly seasoned in a summer, has lost only two-thirds of its water. In drawing 100 cords of such dry wood there will be a saving, in loading and transporting, of 200 barrels of water. A barrel of water contains about five cubic feet, and weighs more than 300 pounds.

In the combustion of 20 cords of green wood, 60 barrels of water must be evaporated. Now, it takes six times as much heat to evaporate a pound of water, as to heat a pound from 50° of temperature to the boiling point. The economy in using dry wood is well understood by many. These views give adequate reason for it — Genesee Far.

He that is good, will infallibly become better—and he that is bad, will as certainly become worse; for vice, virtue, and time, are three things that never stand still.

It is estimated that 245,000 persons have been annually killed in battle for the last four thousand years, to say nothing of the wounded.

POPE says, in one of his letters to Swift, "I will enjoy the pleasure of what I give, by giving it alive, and seeing another enjoy it. When I die, I should be ashamed to leave enough for a monument, if there were a wanting friend above ground"

WE never knew the man disposed to scorn the humble, who was not himself the fair object of scorn to the humblest.

THEN say not the world is a desert of thrall,
There is bloom, there is light on the waste,
Though the chalice of life hath its acid and gall,
There are honey-drops too for the taste.

Farmers' Calendar.

ATTEND to the cattle and the children—shelter the first from the keen blasts of winter, and send the last to school. It is said that a Southern Member of Congress once called Daniel Webster's attention to a drove of jackasses, saying—"there goes a lot of your constituents, Dan." "Yes," said Webster—"they are going South to teach school." The retort was deserved, and it points to an important truth, too. New England is the teacher of the Union; her power is derived from her schools and colleges more than from all else put together. Then let no Vermonter neglect the education of his children, if he would be a true Yankee. Send them to school; encourage them by exhibiting an interest in the school yourself; and be faithful to them, by doing your best to obtain and support good teachers. A good education with good habits is a better legacy to your sons and daughters than heaps of dollars.

HOW TO REMOVE RUST FROM FINELY-POLISHED STEEL. Rub the spots with any kind of soft animal fat, and lay the articles by, wrapped in thick paper for two or three days; then, after cleaning off the grease with a piece of soft flannel, rub the spots well with powdered rotten stone and sweet oil, after which, the polish may be restored by rubbing with powdered emery on a soft leather; and the process may be finished with finely-powdered chalk, or magnesia.—Am. Agricult.

A NEW SPECIES OF POTATO—Mr. Edwin Bryant, in his tour to California, says that he was presented by one of the Kansas Indians with a root or tuber of an oval shape, about an inch and a half in length, and an inch in diameter. This root is called the prairie potato. Its composition is farinaceous and highly nutritious, and its flavor more agreeable than that of the finest Irish potato. "I have but little doubt," adds Mr. Bryant, "if this plant were cultivated in our gardens, it would be an excellent and useful vegetable for ordinary consumption; and, very probably, it would be so improved as to form a substitute for the potato."

HOW TO BE A MAN When Carlyle was asked by a young person to point out what course of reading he thought best to make him a man, he replied in his characteristic manner:

"It is not by books alone, or by books chiefly, that a man is in all points a man. Study to do faithfully whatsoever thing in your actual situation, then and now, you find either expressly or tacitly laid down to your charge—that is, your post; stand in it like a true soldier. Silently devour the many chagrins of it,—all situations have many, and see you aim not to quit it, without doing all that is your duty."

PUNCH says, "It may be proper to state that the distinguished personage known among the ancients by the name of Cupid, has recently changed his name to Cupidity; and will hereafter devote his attention to matters of money as well as love affairs."

The same philosopher remarks that "the milk of human kindness is not to be found within the pail of fashionable society."

SCOLDING. A stream of scolding, as long as from sun to sun, never yet had any other effect on children than to render them wholly regardless of what is said to them. If you wish to make your children troublesome, scold them occasionally. If you wish to make them bad, scold at them a little harder, louder, and more frequently. If you wish to ruin them, and relinquish all hope of conquering them, scold continually, and you will be sure to gain your object.

TRUE Modesty blushes for every thing that is criminal—false Modesty is ashamed of every thing unfashionable.

It is said that there are some folks who write, talk and think so much about virtue, that they have no time to practice it.

TRUTH is the picture, the manner is a frame that displays it to advantage.

NEWSPAPERS.—A good newspaper in a family is equal to three months' time in a school each year. Go into a family where a well conducted newspaper is taken, and into those who "cannot afford it," and mark the difference in the intelligence of parents and children, and be convinced.

Rates of Postage on Letters, Newspapers, &c.

LETTERS.—Single, or any number of pieces not exceeding one half ounce, 300 miles or less, 5 cents.

If over three hundred miles, 10 cents.

Drop letters, (not mailed,) 2 cents.

Each additional half ounce or part thereof, single postage.

NEWSPAPERS.—Of 1900 square inches or less, sent by publishers or editors, not exceeding 100 miles, or any distance in the State where they are published, 1 cent. Over one hundred miles and out of the State, 1 1-2 cent. If sent by others 3 cents prepaid.

Newspapers over 1900 square inches, postage same as pamphlets.

PAMPHLETS.—Magazines and periodicals, any distance, for one ounce or less, each copy, 2 1-2 cents.

Each additional ounce or fraction, over 1-2 an ounce, 1 cent.

CIRCULARS.—Quarto post, single cap, or paper not larger than single cap, folded, directed and unsealed, any distance, 3 cents.

HALF OUNCE LETTER, WHICH MAY BE SENT 300 MILES FOR 5 CENTS, OR ANY DISTANCE FOR 10 CENTS.

One and a half sheet of letter paper, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet do. with large or small envelope, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet foolscap, with small envelope, sealed with wafer.

One sheet letter paper with quarter eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Half sheet do. or light foolscap, half eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Sheet of letter paper may contain a dime and a half.

Half sheet of letter paper may contain a quarter of a dollar.

Sheet of letter paper with seven bank notes, sealed with wax; or

Three bank notes and the whole in an envelope.

FRANKING, ETC.

Postmasters may frank letters and packages, relating exclusively to post office business; but must in every case endorse over the signature the words "post office business."

All postmasters, whose compensation does not exceed $200 for the year ending 30th June, 1847, may send or receive free letters written by themselves, or on their own private business, not weighing over 1-2 an ounce.

It is the duty of postmasters to notify publishers when subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office; and this should be done by letter, franked as "post office business." The old practice of giving notice by returning the papers, subjects the publishers to postage, which they will not pay, and of course they do not get notice.

Postmasters may remit money for subscriptions to newspapers, free of postage, on franking their letter in proper form.

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 1-4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising or setting, (as the case may be,) given in the Almanac, and also 3 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 23d of September. On that day according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 8 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 8 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun is 5h 52m in the morning, and 5h 52m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon at his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 52m, leaving 5h 48m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 52m, which gives 5h 56m for the time of his setting on the 23d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked Sun South is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or, in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example, when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon mark.

The columns marked Sun's Declination, Sun's Semi-Diameter, and Equation of time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

On page 5 will be found a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for observation in determining longitude.

LABOR.—Why, man of idleness, labor rocked you in the cradle, and has nourished your pampered life; without it, the women's silks and wool upon your back would be in the silk worm's nest, and the fleeces in the shepherd's fold. For the meanest thing that ministers to human want, save the air of heaven, man is indebted to toil; and even the air, by God's wise ordination is breathed with labor. It is only the drones that toil not, and infest the hive of activity like masses of corruption and decay. The lords of the earth are the working men, who can build or cast down at their will, and who retort the sneer of the "soft-handed," by pointing to their trophies, wherever art, science, civilization and humanity are known. Work on, man of toil! thy royalty is yet to be acknowledged, as labor rises onward to the highest throne of power.

When the rich Quaker was asked the secret of his success in life, he answered, "Civility, friend, civility." Some people are uncivil, sour, morose, crabbed, crusty, haughty, roally clownish and impudent. Run for your life! "Seest thou a man wise in his own conceit? There is more hope of a fool than him."

The results in the above table are deduced from three observations made daily at sunrise, 1 P. M., and 9 P. M., amounting to 1098 observations in the year. The warmest day in 1848 was June 18, the mean temperature of which was 80°. The greatest heat in the shade was 92°, and it rose to that height on the 12th, 21st, and 22d of July, and on the 11th and 13th of August. The coldest day was January 10, the average of which was -11°. The greatest cold was January 11, in the morning, being -35°, or 23° below zero. Range of thermometer, 117°. The year 1848 was almost a half a degree warmer than the mean of the preceding 10 years, but was more than half a degree colder than 1844. Range of the barometer from 30.39 in. (Jan. 19) to 28.91 in. (Feb. 6) equal to 1.48 inch. The fall of water (31.38 in.) was about an inch less than the average of the preceding 10 years. E. Allen Steamer out March 29. You will conquer ; try—keep trying.

As the Californian gathers the glittering gold from sand, to be purified by the refiner, so we gather, as best we may, from heaps of rubbish, the ore for you to improve by separating the dross from the pure metal.

No winter food will enable cows to give so good milk and yield so good butter as carrots. For horses they are nearly equal to the same bulk of oats, and for working cattle carrots may be occasionally substituted for ground feed when mixed with cut hay.

SNOW BALLS ON HORSES' FEET.—Lately travelling in a cutter, the horse's feet collected balls of snow which annoyed and fatigued excessively. He could not touch the ground by two or three inches ; and his labor, probably increased three-fold,—was so great, that after ascending a long slope, he stopped of his own accord, nearly exhausted. On our return, I had his hoofs cleared out, and soft soap well rubbed in. The consequence was that no more balls collected, and he came home in fine spirits. On a journey, to soap the hoofs twice a day may be best in some cases, but once a day in ordinary times, would be a great relief.—Albany Cultivator.

TO BOIL MEAT.—Some persons advise that meats for boiling should be put into cold water, and heated together with the water. Liebig gives a different mode, viz : That they should be put into boiling water, in the same manner as directed for vegetables. The reason given is, that if put into cold water, the juices of the meat, on which the flavor depends, will be gradually solved, and go to enrich the soup instead of being retained in the meat. All authorities recommend the use of hard instead of soft water for meat, unless soup is to be made.

DON'T STAND STILL.—If you do, you will be run over. Motion—action—progress—these are the words which now fill the vault of heaven with their stirring demands, and make humanity's heart pulsate with a stronger bound. Advance, or stand aside ; do not block up the way and hinder the career of others ; there is too much to do now, to allow of inaction any where or in any one. There is something for all to do ; the world is becoming more and more known ; wider in magnitude, closer in interest ; more loving and more eventful than of old. Not in deeds of daring ; not in the ensanguined field ; not in chains and terrors ; not in blood and tears, and gloom ; but in the leaping, vivifying, exhilarating impulses of a better birth of the soul. Reader, are you doing your part of this work ?

PAORASE language is to conversation what ten inch spikes would be to veneering—splitting, shivering, and defacing it. It is in bad taste, offensive to a majority, and gratifying to no one.

HONOR AND GAIN.—Every man may be rich, if he is willing to pay the fearful price of honor, honesty, the world's contempt, and the displeasure of God. Is it worth the sacrifice? A wise man has said—"Breaking your faith may gain you riches, but never will get you glory," and those who truly appreciate manly virtue, "look to the heart within the breast, and not the coat that covers it."

FALTER not—but upward rise,
 Put forth all your energies;
 Try—keep trying—
 Every step that you progress
 Will make your future efforts less:
 Try—keep trying—
 On the truth and God relying,
 You will conquer; try—keep trying.

SIGNS OF A POOR FARMER.—He grazes his mowing late in the spring. Some of his cows are much past their prime. He neglects to keep the dung and ground from the mils of his buildings. He sows and plants his land till it is exhausted, before he thinks of manuring. He keeps too much stock, and many of them are unruly. He has a place for nothing, and nothing in its place. If he wants a chisel or a hammer, he cannot find it. He seldom does anything in stormy weather, or in an evening. You will often, perhaps, hear of his being in the bar-room talking of the hard times. Although he has been on a piece of land twenty years, ask him for grafted apples, and he will tell you that he could not raise them, for he never had any luck. His indolence and carelessness subject him to many accidents. His plow breaks in his hurry to get in his seed in season, because it was not housed; and in harvest, when he is at work on a distant part of his farm, the hogs break into his garden, for want of a small repair in his fence. He always feels in a hurry, yet in his busiest day he will stop and talk with you till he has wearied your patience. He is seldom neat in his person, and generally late at public worship. His children are late at school, and their books are torn and dirty. He has no enterprise, and is sure to have no money; or, if he must have it, makes great sacrifices to get it; and as he is slack in his payments, and buys altogether on credit, he purchases everything at a dear rate. You will see the smoke come out of his chimney long after daylight in winter. His horse stable is not daily cleansed, nor his horse curried. Boards, shingles, and clapboards are to be seen off his buildings, month after month, without being replaced, and his windows are full of rags. He feeds his hogs and horses with whole grain. If the lambs die, or the wool comes off his sheep, he does not think it is for want of care or food. He is generally a great borrower, and seldom returns the thing borrowed. He is a poor husband, a poor father, a poor citizen, a poor neighbor, and a poor christian.—Baltimore Farmer.

HORSE POWER.—The Scientific American says, "what is generally considered as constituting a horse power is a power sufficient to raise one hundred and thirty pounds one hundred feet in one minute."

Our lusts are the cords which bind us to earth; fiery trials are sent to consume them.

Love, like the ivy, is sure to find something to cling to.

We are apt to love those who let us look into their hearts, if their hearts are worth looking into.

COFFEE A DISINFECTANT.—It may be well to remind people, in these times, that the odor of roasting coffee is the most powerful disinfecting agent. Take a red hot shovel with a few kernels of coffee upon it, and it will remove entirely the most offensive odor arising from decaying animal or vegetable matter, or from any other source; a fact worth knowing where the cholera prevails. A gentleman, who has thoroughly tested this quality in coffee, assures us that there is no mistake as to the virtues ascribed.

Gold and silver are metals quite too heavy to be carried to heaven, but, in good hands, they may pave the way to it.

HE that will believe only what he can fully comprehend, must have a very long head, or a very short creed.

ONE reason why the world is not reformed faster, is, because every man would have others take a start, never thinking of himself.

SINFUL pleasure is like a bee—honey in its mouth, but a sting in its tail.

WOMAN'S smile is the sunlight of the social system.

PONDEROUS barriers you may meet,
 But against them bravely beat ;
 Try—keep trying ;
 Nought should drive you from the track—
 Or turn you from your purpose back,
 Try—keep trying ;
 On yourself and God relying,
 You will conquer—try—keep trying.

INDUSTRY not only develops the outward and visible elements of civilization, but those vast capacities and divine energies that lie folded in the human mind, and the elements of strength that exist in man's physical organization. Exercise is as necessary to the development of man's mental and physical powers, as air is to the preservation of his existence. Without the genial and vital aliment of the one, life would become extinct; and without the invigorating influence of the other, weakness would unnerve the muscle, and imbecility degrade the mind. The blacksmith's arm lifts the sledge, and as he day by day, with patient toil, plies it to the yielding metal, it grows strong by the vigor of its labor. The farmer, as he goes forth with the diversified and pure labors of his occupations, feels the healthy strength of invigorated muscles. The clerk weakens with inaction at the desk, and the mechanic grows strong with the active and vigorous exercise of the plane at the bench. But there is higher and diviner development dependent upon exercise or labor, than that of mere bodily strength. The soul—immortal mind—with all its exalted susceptibilities, holy aspirations, wondrous powers and glorious destiny, can only expand itself and unfold its God-like attributes under the creative influence of constant activity. That "image of God" can only develope and reflect the glory of its infinite and eternal prototype, by the use of the heaven-appointed agency—labor. Then, as mind is the noblest creation of the Deity, so is labor the most honorable destiny of man.

EARLY POVERTY A BLESSING.—An English judge being asked what contributed most to his success at the bar, replied, "Some succeed by great talent, some by miracle, but the majority by commencing without a shilling."

WEALTH, like the dropping well at Knaresborough, has the most petrifying properties. It hardens the heart, it deadens the affections, it narrows the sympathies, it chills the current of benevolence, it raises artificial and unnecessary barriers between the necessitous and the affluent—between the suffering and the successful; it banishes the memory of past services, breaks up the bonds of brotherhood, converts the living, breathing man into stone.

METHOD OF DISTINGUISHING IRON FROM STEEL.—Drop a little weak aquafortis on the metal; let it remain for a few minutes, and then wash it off with water. If it is steel, the spot will be black; but if iron, the spot will be whitish grey.

I HATE to see a thing done by halves. If it be right, do it boldly, if it be wrong, leave it undone.—Gilpin.

NEVER, under any circumstances, assume a responsibility you can avoid consistently with your duty to yourselves and others.

VENTILATION.—In airing a room, both the upper and the lower parts of the window should be opened, as the bad and heated air, from its lightness, will pass out at the top, and the fresh, cool air come in at the bottom.

TRUE beauty is that which is fair without striving to appear so.

ONE eye witness is better than ten hearsays.

A READINESS to take offence is a sign of a narrow mind or bad temper.

THERE are three sights most detestable—a proud priest giving his blessing—a knavish hypocrite saying his prayers, and a false patriot making an harangue.

INDUSTRY.—“There is more pleasure in sweating an hour than in yawning a century.”

You will conquer if you try—
 Win the good before you die;
 Try—keep trying;
 Remember—nothing is so true,
 As they who dare will ever do;
 Try—keep trying;
 On yourself and God relying,
 You will conquer—try—keep trying.

SHEEP.—To establish and preserve a sound flock, and to have good wool, a few simple rules are to be observed; and the man who has not the love of his business, and the resolution to carry them out, instead of excusing himself by resort to various subterfuges and prevarications, had better at once acknowledge himself fitter to be managed than to manage himself. These rules may be (we mean for the country generally, and without going into the refinements of this branch of husbandry,) defined to consist in—

1. Nursing your lambs well when they first come into the world, just as calves and colts should be.

2. Let your sheep be maintained in good heart (we don't mean fat) at all seasons while they live, and

3. Do not suffer them to live longer than they can feed with industry and effect. And to these three rules, we may add a

4th. Select the best for breeders, put them aside, and don't let the butcher even look over the fence where they are.—J. S. Skinner.

FENCE POSTS.—A practical farmer informs the Hartford Times, that in taking up a fence that had been set fourteen years, he noticed that some of the posts remained nearly sound, while others were rotted off at the bottom. On looking for the cause, he found that those posts that were set limb part down, or inverted from the way they grew, were sound. Those that were set as they grew were rotted off. This fact is worthy the attention of the farmers.

IMPROVED FENCE.—The friend of improvement in everything, I deem it my essential duty to suggest to those who have lands to enclose, the propriety of making trial of a species of fence of which I have recently had a description, and which is said to be both cheap and efficient. The posts are made of common clay, struck in moulds of the desired size, and burnt in kilns, the same as bricks. These posts are perforated with holes of the size of a common pipe stem, and are either three or four in number, as required, and are made before burning, or in the mould. The posts are set in the soil, after receiving a coat of coal tar. Wires are then passed through the holes, from post to post, properly secured, and coated with coal tar or paint, to preserve the surface from atmospheric action, and prevent rust. This fence is cheap, looks well, and is very durable.—Germantown Telegraph.

QUEER CALCULATIONS.—The editor of the Yankee Blade says: "It would be a curious sight to see all the babies in the United States, under five years of age, together; they would make a pretty little collection of 2,400,000. What a squalling there would be should they all be spanked at the same time, and what a great heap of sugar plums it would take to quiet them!"

SOME one, looking at a rich man, said "Poor man, he toiled day and night until he was forty, to gain his wealth, and he has been watching it day and night, ever since, for his victuals and clothes."

WHEN you go a fishing be sure and "take a bite" before you start; for you may not get one after.

As oak is not felled with one blow.

God has made no one absolute. The rich depend on the poor, as well as the poor on the rich. The world is but a magnificent building; all the stones are gradually cemented together; there is no one that subsists by himself alone.—Feltham.

THE chief use of an old bachelor is, to count one in the census.

A fox is like a cork-tree—his outside is all that there is of value about him.

"I would if I could"—
 Though much it's in use,
 Is but a fallacious
 And s'uggish excuse ;
 And many a person,
 Who could if he would,
 Is often heard saying,
 "I would if I could."

RENOVATION OF OLD APPLE TREES.—The following information received from a gardener, who for many years largely supplied the London market with fruit, may probably be new to many of our readers:—It is generally found that after an apple tree has borne for a certain number of years, it becomes comparatively unproductive. It has been usual in such cases to remove the old tree and replace it by a younger one. This may be obviated by regrafting the old tree ; and according to the testimony of the gardener above mentioned, the older the stock, the better the quality of the fruit. The plan he adopted was the following:—The ends of branches were sawn off where they were about the size of a man's wrist, or rather less, and two or more scions inserted in each, according to circumstances. By this means, in the course of three years he obtained a large full-bearing tree. The principal difficulty was to protect the new grafts from damage in high winds. This was overcome by ingrafting one half of the tree at one time, and leaving the other to form a shelter ; and completing the other half when the grafts were sufficiently grown to return the shelter. It may be added, that this precaution did not supersede the usual appliances for giving the scions support by means of poles attached to the branches. It may also be remarked that the productive powers of apple trees are frequently impaired by the want of sufficient attention in gathering the fruit. The greatest care should be observed in removing the apple, that the bearing spur be not injured thereby.

OXEN.—Oxen should be taught to plow without a driver. Much expense is saved by this, and the cattle will travel faster and better without a driver at their heads than with one. The off-ox must be used to go in the furrow, and there only. Therefore it is not wise to shift and put the nigh-ox on the off-side. Cattle are never broken so well as when each one is taught to have his own place.

SHRUB FRUIT.—Your crops of currants, gooseberries, and raspberries will improve if you dig up the old plants once in three or four years, and plant young bushes.

BUTTER.—It is an opprobrium to American farming that we make so little good butter. The Shakers say that a cask made of red oak staves is preferable to any other ; and it will add to the flavor to work in a little sugar at the last working over—say a table spoonful to four or five pounds of butter.

The best way to get help in the world, is to show that you mean to help yourself.

FEMALE MODESTY.—Modesty in a young female is the flower of a tender shrub, which is the promise of excellent fruit. To destroy it, is to destroy the gem of a thousand virtues, to destroy the hope of society, to commit an outrage against nature. The air of the world is a burning breath that every day blasts this precious flower.

The little value Providence sets on riches, is seen by the persons on whom they are frequently bestowed.

GILDED roofs do not keep out sleepless nights.

A STERLING character—one who thinks for himself, and speaks what he thinks—is sure to have enemies.

"COME, John," said a school-boy,
"I wish you would try
To solve this hard problem;
Now don't you deny;"
But John, at this moment,
Was not in the mood;
And yawningly answered,
"I would if I could."

PLANTING POTATOES.—If your land be rich and warm, and your potatoes are beset with vigorous sprouts, an inch or more in length, they may be planted as late as the 15th of this month, with a prospect of a tolerable crop. The ridge, or drill system of planting potatoes on moist, low ground, gives double surface, double light and heat, double air, double protection against rain, double depth of mould and drainage, and is altogether superior to the flat-surface mode of planting.

CULTIVATION OF BUCKWHEAT.—This valuable grain may be sown any time from the middle of this month to the 10th of July, with a certainty of maturing its seeds. The soils most congenial to buckwheat are those of a light sandy texture, rather dry and warm. Many have failed in the cultivation of this grain in consequence of carelessness and lack of attention in managing it. The soil should not only be replete with soluble, extractive matters, capable of nutriment to the plants, but of such a texture as to admit of its being reduced by the plough and harrow, to a perfectly fine tilth. On clayey soils, this crop has been rarely known to succeed. The most congenial medium is upland green sward, inverted in June. Purity of seed also is another important consideration that demands attention. It should be of good quality as to fulness and soundness, and sown at the rate of about a bushel to the acre. Rolling the surface of the soil, after sowing, will be found highly beneficial, as it not only tends to compress the soil around the seed, and thus promote its germination, but greatly facilitates the labor of harvesting—an operation requiring great care in order to prevent the loss of seed.

WEEDING AND HOEING FIELD CROPS.—This should be attended to as soon as the season and the growth of the crops will admit. In weeding or hoeing your corn, see that all the grubs are dug up and killed, and the hills replanted, wherever they have been destroyed. Plaster, poudrette, wood ashes, or oyster-shell lime may be scattered around the plants at this hoeing or the next.

THE GARDENER TOAD.—The late lamented Mr. Bennett of Woburn, was deemed somewhat eccentric, but he often had excellent reasons for his peculiarities. Being one of the most successful and enthusiastic horticulturists, he carefully petted a family of frogs in his garden, until he boasted of having seven generations living. The venerable parent was a curiosity. He kept them for their services in devouring bugs and flies; which they did most industriously. Give them a cool and fixed shelter in a corner, and they will pay rent.

GOLD is the God of the world. Only whisper the word, and its worshippers fall down on their knees. Breathe it in the valley, and it is heard at the mountain-top. Tell where it can be found, and the millions rush to the spot faster than they would go to heaven.

If you attempt to reconcile persons to any truth, you must treat them as men treat a one-eyed horse—turn the blind side toward an object, that they may go forward without starting.

ONE bad example spoils many good precepts.

BE careless of life, but careful of health.

Thou hast seen many troubles, travail stained pilgrim of the world, but that which hath vexed thee most, hath been the looking for evil.
And though calamities have crossed thee, and been heaped upon thy head, yet ills that never happened, have chiefly made thee wretched.

Tipper.

If pride leads the van, beggary brings up the rear.

At the door of a mansion,
In tattered rags clad,
Stood a poor woman, begging
A morsel of bread ;
The rich man scarce heeded,
While trembling she stood ;
And answered her coldly,
" I would if I could."

CUTTING GRASS AND CURING HAY.—This must depend on the kind of grass cultivated. Timothy affords nearly double the quantity of nutriment, if cut after the seed has formed, instead of while in flower, and it is then much more relished by horses and a portion of the stock. This grass, therefore, should never be cut for them, except when the seed is formed. The proper time for harvesting, is between the milk and dough state, when it will nearly ripen after cutting. Orchard grass, on the other hand, although possessing two-sevenths more nutritive value for hay in the seed, yet it is more tender, and much preferred by stock, when cut in the flower, and as it continues to grow rapidly afterwards, it should always be cut at that time. Even a few days will make an important difference in the value of grass, when cut for hay. The kind of grass, and the stock to which it is to be fed, cannot, therefore, be too closely noted, to detect the precise moment when the grass will best subserve the purpose for which it is intended.

Clover, when intended for hay, should be cut early. Nothing is gained by permitting it to stand. When cut in its green state and properly cured, it makes an excellent feed for horses, sheep and young stock generally ; but it is greatly lessened in value by long standing. It should be cut when in bloom, or at latest, before the seed has ripened.

In England, from which country we may derive many and valuable lessons in practical agriculture, clover is seldom if ever spread as with us, the more judicious farmers of that country believing it far better and more economical on the whole to cure it in the cock, than to expose it by spreading, to the wasting influences of the sun and winds. Most persons are aware that herbs, intended for medicinal purposes, are comparatively of little value unless cured in the shade. That the sun abstracts much of the goodness from this species of hay, when exposed for any considerable length of time, is beyond a doubt. By drying, much of the foliage, as well as the blossoms becomes detached and lost and as this constitutes, where the growth is rank, much the most valuable part of the crop, its loss is a matter of considerable importance, and should be guarded against by all means possible to be devised.

MANKIND IN THE THIRTEENTH CENTURY.—They had neither looked into heaven nor earth, neither into the sea nor the land, as has been done since. They had philosophy without scale, astronomy without demonstration. They made war without powder, shot, cannon or mortar; nay, the mob made their bonfires without squibs or crackers. They went to sea without compass, and sailed without the needle. They viewed the stars without telescopes, and measured altitudes without barometers. Learning had no printing-press, writing no paper, and paper no ink. The lover was forced to send his mistress a dead board for a love-letter, and a billet doux might be of the size of an ordinary trencher. They were clothed without manufacturers, and the richest robes were the skins of the most formidable monsters. They carried on a trade without books, and correspondence without posts ; their merchants kept no accounts, their shop-keepers no cash-books.

ARE you happy? Make others so. Are you rich? Distribute to the poor. Are you contented? Cheer the lone pathway of your neighbors. In no other way can you subserve the designs of your being, and pass through life with true feeling and real felicity.

WHEN prosperity was well mounted, she let go the bridle, and soon came tumbling out of the saddle.

CUCUMBERS.—When a cucumber is taken from the vine, let it be cut off with a knife, leaving about the eighth of an inch of the cucumber remaining to the stem upon which it grew, then slit the stem with a knife from its end to the vine, leaving a particle of the cucumber to each division, and as many slits or divisions as are made in it there will be new cucumbers as large and fine as those that grow in the natural way.—Mass. Cultivator.

TRANSPLANTING CABBAGES, &c.—A year or two ago we noticed an article from one of our agricultural journals, recommending the following method of transplanting cabbages, &c., which, after a fair trial, we have found to succeed better than any other method with which we are acquainted.

First, with a crow-bar make holes in the ground three or four inches in diameter, and perhaps a foot deep, where you wish to have the plants stand. Then procure a bucket of water and a dipper, and have your plants ready for setting out. Fill one of the holes made as above directed, with water, and into this put a plant ; hold the plant upright with the left hand, and with the fore finger of the right hand work off the soil around the hole, until the water within is so thickened that the plant will stand of itself. This is all that is necessary to be done. The work may be performed in this way about as easily and expeditiously as in any other, and the growth of the plants will not be so much retarded. Last year we set out several hundreds of plants in this way, and we do not recollect of losing one. By this method the plants may be set out with safety in a fair day.

SICKLY PLUM TREES.—The Pennsylvania Cultivator says that salt freely applied to the surface of the ground around the tree, over an area as wide as the extent of the branches—strong brine applied as a wash to the trunk and limbs, and pulverized salt introduced into the trunk of the tree by boring into its centre, and then plugging it up—all or either of them are said to be certain means of restoring plum trees that are in a sickly or enfeebled state—trees that are troubled with the curculio bug—or trees that have evidence of disease and asp, black warts—into a healthy and luxuriant condition. The plum is naturally a marine tree, and it is surprising how much salt it will assimilate and thrive upon. Try it.

THE only class of men in the world who are not in the habit of disparaging their neighbors, are the assessors of taxes ; for it is well known that they never "understate" any body in the slightest degree.

A CHINESE widow being found fanning the tomb of her deceased husband, and being asked the cause of so singular a mode of showing her grief, accounted for it by saying, that he had made her promise not to marry again while the mortar of the tomb remained damp, and as it dried but slowly she saw no great harm in aiding the operation.

ORDER is the unity of the mind, the health of the body, the peace of the city, the security of the state. As the beams to a house, as the bones to the system of man, so is order to all things.—Southey.

SOME Christians are so much absorbed in thoughts of a future life, that they let the present run to weeds.

FORGIVENESS is the most refined and generous point of virtue that human nature can attain to. Cowards have done good and kind actions ; but a coward never forgave—it is not his nature.

In nothing consists the true dignity of man more than self-government.

BUT if we may credit
 What good people say,
 That where a strong will is,
 There's always a way ;
 And whatever ought to be,
Can be and should,
 We never need utter,
 " I would if I could."

HOW TO ENLARGE VEGETABLES.—A vast increase of food may be obtained by managing judiciously, and systematically carrying out for a time the principles of increase. Take, for instance, a pea. Plant it in very rich ground ; allow it to bear the first year, say half a dozen pods ; remove all others, save the largest, the following year, and retain of the produce three pods only ; sow the largest the following year, and retain one pod ; again select the largest, and the next year the sort will by this time have trebled its size and weight. Ever afterward sow the largest seed, and by these means you will get peas, or anything else, of a bulk of which we at present have no conception.

SETTING EVERGREEN TREES.—Our readers are reminded that this class of trees may as well be set soon after planting is over, as at any season. It is essential that a clump of earth should be taken up with the roots. The trees will not live, not one in a hundred, when they are taken up without earth around the roots, as apple trees are. Long roots are not needed, but the roots that are removed with the evergreen tree must not be left bare. In taking up pines from the forest, it is best to select such as are used to the sun, for if they have grown wholly in the shade they will not stand a fair chance in the open country. And as a sod is wanted to keep some earth on the roots, the open grounds are the best resort for trees of this kind. If grass grows around them the soil is easily kept on the roots. It is hardly worth while to select large trees for removal. Five or six feet in height is enough. Such trees are much more likely to live, and the labor of transplanting is comparatively light. A spade is wanted that is sharp, and that will cut the roots about twelve inches long on each side of the trunk.

NEW CURE FOR BOTS.—Give the horse some molasses and milk, then put about a half pound of tea in one quart of water and draw it as you would for the table, and when partly cool give it to him, and it will soon relieve him.

I CANNOT praise a fugitive and cloistered Virtue, unexercised and unbreathed, that never sallies out to seek her adversary, but slinks from the race where an immortal garland is to be run for, amid dust and heat.—Milton.

BE not discontented with a humble lot ; out of the meanest hovel thou canst get a sight of Heaven.

THE poor man has not many marks for fortune to shoot at.

FORTUNE is more equally balanced than the world thinks ; to the rich, it gives fear—to the poor, hope.

THE rich oftener want an appetite and rest, than the poor want food and a bed to lie on,

A FOOL who has made his fortune is a pig embarrassed by his fat.

WHAT we are afraid to speak before men, we should be afraid to think before God.

A PHYSICIAN advertised, that by general request, he had removed near the church-yard, and trusted that his removal would accommodate the friends of his patients.

WORDS hurt more than blows, and heal more than balsam.

COOPER once slurred a certain governor by attributing the disease in potatoes to the "mortification they felt at seeing so small a member of their family in the gubernatorial chair."

A PERSON who undertakes to raise himself by scandalizing others, might as well sit down on a wheelbarrow and undertake to wheel himself.

So away with every doubt—
Firm your Will fix—Fear cast out ;
Try—keep trying :
Only care to choose the Right—
All you do, do with your might ;
Try—keep trying :
On yourself and God relying,
You will conquer—try—keep trying.

MANURES.—Take proper care of your stable manure, and see that it is not thrown out of a “hole in the wall,” there to lie, and mix with snow, as well as to have all the virtue washed out of it, not by the rain, but by the dippings of the roof. Erect some kind of a shed over your manure heaps, if it is nothing more than a rude covering made of posts set in the ground, with a roof formed of poles and slabs, thatched with boughs or straw. If you have manure, or muck, in your vicinity, that can be dug at this season without exposure to wet, cart, or sled it into your yard, or fields, in order that it may be tempered by the genial influences of the frost.

TO BAKE APPLES.—Take sour apples—those of a keen acid—and to every square tin filled with them, pour over a tea-cup full of sugar. Bake them slowly till done. Eat them with cream and the juice which cooks from them. Nobody knows much of baked apples who has not eaten them in this way. No quince, pear, peach or plum preserves, equal this simple dessert.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES.—The griddle on which cakes are baked should never be touched with grease. Firstly, because it imparts a rancid taste to the cakes. Secondly, if a cooking stove be used, it fills the kitchen, if not the whole house, with a smell of burnt grease—to say nothing of the parade, and boasting to one’s neighbors, by betraying what we are to have for breakfast. Wash the griddle with hot soap suds ; scour with dry sand, and when heated for use, rub it well with a spoonful of fine salt and a coarse cloth. It will then be ready to receive the cakes. After each cake is removed, the salt rubbing must be repeated. If the first does not succeed, try it again, and you will ever after follow this advice of an old housekeeper.—Am. Agricult.

CORN AND PORK.—Experiments show that one bushel of Western corn, fed to hogs, will on an average produce 10 pounds of pork. One experiment produced 12 1-2 pounds, and another 8 1-2 pounds.

THE HEART.—The little I have seen of the world, teaches me to look upon the errors of others in sorrow and not in anger. When I take the history of one poor heart that has sinned and suffered, and represented to myself the struggles and temptations it has passed through ; the brief pulsations of joy ; the feverish inquietude of hope ; fear ; the pressure of want ; the desertion of friends ; the scorn of the world that has little charity ; the desolation of the soul’s sanctuary, and threatening vices within—health gone—happiness gone—even hope, that remains the longest, gone. I would leave the rising soul of my fellow man with Him from whose hand it came.—Longfellow.

THE LIFE OF AN EXQUISITE GENTLEMAN.—He gets up leisurely ; breakfasts comfortably ; reads the paper regularly ; dresses fashionably ; lounges fastidiously ; eats a tart gravely ; talks insipidly ; dines considerably ; drinks superfluously ; smokes elegantly ; lives uselessly ; dies reluctantly ; is buried lugubriously ; and is missed by nobody.

HALF of our griefs are imaginary. Before you have recourse to arsenic, try what virtue there is in an emetic. Instead of your business being deranged, it may have turned out to have been nothing but your stomach.

"MANKIND are very odd creatures. One half censure what they practice, and the other half practice what they censure. The rest always say and do as they ought."—Poor Richard.

MONEY is the largest slaveholder in the world.

WHAT we are afraid to speak before men, we should be afraid to think before God.

WHEN fortune beams around you,
 When hearts with pleasure leap ;
 And hopes and joys surround you—
 Forget not those who weep !
 When friendship's smiles invite you
 To bless and to be blest ;
 When every charm delights you—
 Oh, think of the distress !

SWILL COOKERY.—Every farmer will want some sort of an apparatus to cook the food or swill for his hogs. Some set a kettle in brick, in a corner of the hog-house, which makes a very convenient apparatus. We have tried, in our day, all sorts of contrivances, steamers and boilers, of different patterns, shapes and sizes, but have never found anything so convenient as Mott's Patent Agricultural Furnace. It is a large kettle, fixed on to a stove. The whole is movable, and can be placed where most needed. They are of various sizes, from fifteen gallons to eighty or more. They are useful for a great many purposes. We have used one now for three years, and find it well worth the cost.

We have recommended this article before, to those in want of such fixtures, and have found no one as yet who ever procured one that regretted having made the purchase.—Maine Farmer.

STORING PUMPKINS AND SQUASHES.—Considering the expense and difficulty of keeping pumpkins and squashes, we generally found it more profitable to feed them out as fast as they ripened. For this purpose, we kept an extra number of animals through the months of September and October, and when the pumpkins, &c., were consumed, we either finished fattening them on grain, or disposed of them to the drover, or butcher.

Pumpkins require much room in storing, and, in spite of the best care, often decay rapidly ; besides, as soon as the weather gets cold, they are of such a watery substance, that, if fed in any considerable quantity, they are liable to scour the stock and give them the cholera. It is the same if fed raw with the turnip, beet, and other roots. Our advice, therefore, is, if you have not the proper conveniences for cooking vegetables, get rid of them as fast as you can do so profitably, during the mild autumnal months.—American Agriculturist.

If you have good squashes, stew them, spread very thin on plates and dry them. Thus served they will keep year after year, and make pies of the very best sort.

A GEM.—In a letter written in 1828, Lamartine thus beautifully and religiously explains his motives for entering political life :—
 “ When the Divine Judge shall summon us to appear before our consciences at the end of our brief journey here below, our modesty, our weakness, will not be an excuse for our inaction. It will be of no avail to reply, we were nothing, we could do nothing, we were but as a grain of sand. He will say to us, “ I placed before you, in your day, two scales of a beam, by which the destiny of the human race was weighed ; in the one was good, in the other was evil. You were but a grain of sand no doubt : but who told you that that grain of sand would not have caused the balance to turn on my side ? You have intelligence to see, a conscience to decide, and you should have placed this grain of sand in one or the other ; you did neither ; you let the wind drift it away. It has not been of any use to you or your brethren.”

Young men who hang around corners are qualifying themselves to hang in a very different way.

So long as we are among men, let us cherish humanity, and so live that no man may be either in fear or in danger of us.

When a lie gets into the world, you may batter it about the head until life is apparently extinct, but next day you will meet it as fresh and vigorous as ever.

If your friend is made of honey, do not eat him all up.

When golden gales betide you,
 As if by Heaven decreed,
 And plenty stands beside you—
 Forget not those who need!
 When pleasure's cup seems endless,
 Oh, prove it without end,
 By being to the friendless
 In every hour a friend!

PARENTAL TEACHING.—If parents would not trust a child upon the back of a wild horse without bit or bridle, let them not permit him to go forth into the the world unskilled in self-government. If a child is passionate, teach him, by gentle and patient means, to curb his temper. If he is greedy, cultivate liberality in him. If he is selfish, promote generosity. If he is sulky, charm him out of it, by encouraging frank good humor. If he is indolent, accustom him to exertion, and train him so as to perform even onerous duties with alacrity. If pride comes in to make his obedience reluctant, subdue him, either by counsel or discipline. In short, give your children the habit of overcoming their besetting sins. Let them acquire from experience that confidence in themselves which gives security to the practiced horseman, even on the back of a high-strung steed, and they will triumph over the difficulties and dangers which beset them in the path of life.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.—"Men talk in raptures," says Witherspoon, "of youth and beauty, wit and sprightliness, and a hundred other shining qualities; but after seven years' union, not one of them is to be compared to good family management, which is seen at every meal, and felt at every hour in the husband's purse."

A CURIOUS FACT IN BUTTER MAKING.—According to Professor Johnstone, the time and frequency of milking have a great influence on the amount of butter yielded by milk. If a cow be milked only once a day, he says, the milk will yield a seventh part more butter than an equal quantity of that which is obtained by two milkings in the day. When the milk is drawn three times a day, it is more abundant, but still less rich. It has also been remarked, that the morning's milk is of better quality than that obtained in the evening.

How many fond mothers and frugal housewives keep their pretty daughters and their preserves for an extra occasion—some "big bug" or other, till both turn sour. This seems to us marvellously poor economy.

LIFE'S CHANGES.—To-morrow, those that are now gay may be sad; those now walking the avenue of pleasure may be the subjects of sorrow; those on the mountain summit may be in the valley; that rosy cheek may have the lily's hue; the strong may falter; death may have come.

STRAW FOR BONNETS.—Direction for cutting straw, to adapt it for the manufacture of straw bonnets, hats, &c.: Cut wheat or rye straw while in full blossom, or as the blossoms begin to fall. Scald it a few hours after it is cut, (the head being first cut off,) in boiling water, about a quarter of a minute, then spread and dry it in the sun; take care that neither rain or dew fall upon it. It will cure in three days sunshine. Then keep it in a dry place." To split the straw after it is properly cured so as to reduce it to a proper texture, it is only necessary to fit the point of a penknife in a piece of board leaving about the eighth or a fourth of an inch above the board, then pulling the straw against it. Straw of any size can be made.

Peb and ink are more effective, in the present age, than powder and ball ever were.

DOING GOOD.—He is indeed the wisest and happiest man, who, by constant attention of thought, discovers the greatest opportunities of doing good, and with ardent and animated resolution breaks through every opposition that he may improve those opportunities.

Be courteous; manners are something with every body, and every thing with some.

Rates of Postage on Letters, Newspapers, &c.

LETTERS.—Single, or any number of pieces not exceeding one half ounce, 300 miles or less, 5 cents.

If over three hundred miles, 10 cents. Drop letters (not mailed) 2 cts. Over 1-2 ounce and not exceeding 1 ounce, double postage; over 1 ounce and not exceeding 2 ounces, quadruple postage; and so on, double postage for every ounce, or fraction of an ounce, beyond the first ounce.

NEWSPAPERS sent by publishers or editors, not exceeding 100 miles, or any distance in the State where they are published, 1 cent. Over one hundred miles and out of the State, 1 1-2 cent. If sent by others, prepaid, the same.

PAMPHLETS.—Magazines and periodicals, any distance, for one ounce or less, each copy, 2 1-2 cts. Each additional oz. or frac. over 1-2, 1c. Circulars, handbills and advertisements, folded, directed and unsealed, any distance, 3 cents.

HALF OUNCE LETTER, WHICH MAY BE SENT 300 MILES FOR 5 CENTS, OR ANY DISTANCE FOR 10 CENTS.

One and a half sheet of letter paper, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet do. with large or small envelope, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet foolscap, with small envelope, sealed with wafer.

One sheet letter paper with quarter eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Half sheet do. or light foolscap, half eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Sheet of letter paper may contain a dime and a half.

Half sheet of letter paper may contain a quarter of a dollar.

Sheet of letter paper with seven bank notes, sealed with wax; or

Three bank notes and the whole in an envelope.

CALIFORNIA AND OREGON.—On a single letter to Oregon or California, 40 cents. Newspapers to do., 4 1-2 cents; and to be prepaid unless sent from the publication office.

FRANKING, ETC.

Postmasters may frank letters and packages, relating exclusively to post office business; but must in every case endorse over the signature the words "post office business."

All postmasters, whose compensation does not exceed $200 for the year ending 30th June, 1847, may send or receive free letters written by themselves, or on their own private business, not weighing over 1-2 an ounce.

FORM OF FRANK.

Ripton, Vt.
Sept. 1, 1849.

Free.
J. Smith, P. M.

It is the duty of postmasters to notify publishers when subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office; and this should be done by letter, franked as "post office business." The old practice of giving notice by returning the papers, subjects the publishers to postage, which they will not pay, and of course they do not get notice.

WRITING ON NEWSPAPERS OR WRAPPERS.

"P. O. DEPT., Washington, D. C., Aug. 11, 1845.

Sir:—Any memorandum upon transient newspapers, or upon the wrappers of the same, subjects the same to letter postage.

In determining the amount of postage you are to charge upon such papers, you are to be governed by the weight, according to the provisions of the law of March 3, 1845. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. MEDILL, 2d Ass't. P. M. Gen."

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 1-4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising or setting, (as the case may be,) given in the Almanac, and also 3 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 23d of September. On that day according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 8 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 8 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 52m in the morning, and 5h 52m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon at his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 52m, leaving 5h 48m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 52m, which gives 5h 56m for the time of his setting on the 23d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked Sun South is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or, in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example, when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon mark.

The columns marked Sun's Declination, Sun's Semi-Diameter, and Equation of time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

The results in the above table are deduced from three observations made daily, at sunrise, 1 P. M., and 9 P. M., amounting to 1095 observations in the year. The warmest day in the year was July 13th, the average heat of which was 87°. The greatest heat in the shade was 100° on both the 12th and 13th of July; which was greater than had occurred in the preceding 12 years.—The coldest day was Feb. 18th, the average of which was 7°, or 7° below zero. The greatest cold was in the morning of Feb. 17th, when the Thermometer was 17° below zero. Range of the Thermometer 117°—the same as in 1848. The year of 1849 was about half a degree colder than the average of the preceding 11 years. Range of the Barometer from 30.56 in. (Jan. 19) to 29.00 in. (Dec. 23) equal to 1.56 inch. The fall of water was about 6 inches less than the average of the preceding 11 years, and was less than in any one of those years. The fall of snow was little more than half the usual quantity. The broad Lake froze over Feb. 7, was passable Feb. 10,—crossing became unsafe March 20—ice broken up April 4—Line steamers commenced running April 9,— went into winter quarters Dec. 8. There were only 34 days of tolerable sleighing, 13 in Jan., 13 in Feb., and 8 in Dec. Robins were first seen March 14, Blue Birds 26. Sleighing commenced Dec. 24 and sleighs continued to run till March 13,—80 days, and during the greater part of the time the sleighing was good. The broad part of the lake was not frozen over during the winter, an event which has not occurred more than two or three times in the last 35 years. The Line Boats went into winter quarters Dec. 8, and commenced running again April 15. Boats have been able to cross the Lake from Burlington to Port Kent all winter.

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon.

There will be in 1851, four Eclipses, two of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I.—A Partial Eclipse of the Moon, on the 17th day of January, invisible at Montpelier, 8 at 11h 52m in the morning.

II.—An Annular Eclipse of the Sun, on the 1st day of February, invisible at Montpelier, 8 at 1h and 12m in the morning. This Eclipse will be visible from the southern part of Africa, Australia, and the Indian Ocean.

III.—A Partial Eclipse of the Moon on the 13th of July, visible at Montpelier, as follows :

ECONOMY IN RAISING WHEAT.—As the country improves with the introduction of labor-saving machines, quite a revolution is taking place in the management of fallows for wheat. Instead of following the old practice of ploughing twice or thrice, re-inverting the sod and affording a fine opportunity for the grass to grow, the theory now obtaining is to plough once and deep, and after work being performed by the harrow and wheel cultivator.

IRON CHIMNEYS.—Mr. Andrew Clark of Jersey City, has invented and put in use iron chimneys, in the place of those of brick. They are of iron, cylindrical in form, seven inches inside diameter, and weigh about fourteen pounds per foot, at a cost of five cents a pound. The cylinder is enclosed in a chamber, from which, by means of registers, a current of warm air may be thrown into and warm upper apartments of the house. A contrivance is also added for the evaporation of water to give a healthful moisture to the air. The cost of each chimney complete, with the registers and fixtures, $108, there being three stacks.

THE TRUE FARMER, A SCIENTIFIC MAN.—Agriculture, from various reasons, has not taken its proper place among the arts and sciences—has not been held in that esteem, nor wielded that influence which was rightly its due. Among these causes the most prominent is, that the profession of a farmer has not been held by himself and others of the importance which belongs to it. The knowledge, energy and skill necessary to a successful prosecution of this apparently simple, yet in fact, complicated pursuit, have either been undervalued or not duly appreciated, and men have fled from its drudgery to that more severe, less useful, calling for less intellectual culture and effort, but ranking higher among the uppermost classes of community. The honest farmer who has, by skillful and industrious foresight, made the "wilderness to blossom as the rose," and gathered around him all the comforts, and most of the real refinements of life, misled by this idea, instead of teaching his sons to follow and honor his example, teaches them to be ashamed of the calling of their father, and that honor, and influence, and refinement, are only to be found in professional life.

Save in those byways of our land, where agricultural newspapers are not needed, and where book farming is scouted as wasteful and mistaken economy, the idea that knowledge and the teachings of science are unnecessary and useless to the farmer, is an exploded one, becoming daily more and more obsolete, and its dark domains more circumscribed, so that they cannot long escape the light, now of almost universal diffusion.—Rural New Yorker.

TO GUARD THE LUNGS WHILE THRASHING.—The following may be depended upon as a perfectly safe and convenient mode of guarding the lungs, while thrashing, as I have tested it for many years, and never knew it to fail :—Take a piece of fine sponge, about two inches thick in the centre, and about four inches broad ; cut out a little in the centre, so that it will fit the nose and mouth, leaving it about three fourths of an inch thick over the end of the nose and mouth ; moisten it well and squeeze it out, so as to prevent its dripping ; fasten a string to the outer edge of the sponge, on each side of the face, and tie it back of the head, and one can work in a perfect smother for hours, I might say days, without any of those disagreeable sensations that are always experienced without such precaution. This will not obstruct the breath one tenth part so much as a piece of gauze will when drawn over the face. I would rather give one dollar per day, for a good sponge, than to tend a threshing machine without it.—American Agriculturist.

The envious man is unwise, who cannot enjoy life and prosperity because others do.

No denunciation is so eloquent as the silent influence of good example.

Reprove others, but correct thyself.

Idleness—the sure pilot-fish of crime and shame.

As grieved as man could be,
And after a while as he pondered there,
"I'll give it all up," said he.

WHAT FARMERS OUGHT TO KNOW.—A farmer ought to understand the leading principles of chemistry. The soil he plods among at the plow tail, is not a mere inactive mass, sticking to his shoes when wet, and choking him with dust when dry. It is a vast laboratory, full of many and strange materials, always in action, warring, combining, changing perpetually; to-day receiving accessions from the heavens; to-morrow, pouring them into the wide sea, to be again supplied to other lands. The earth is all but a living creature; and he whose business has been slanderously said to be but "of the earth earthy," should surely understand the soil's nature, its elements, its liking, and its diseases.

The farmer should understand physiology. Under his care, he has the noblest forms of creation—the ox, the horse, the sheep. Can he spend a life among them, and not know the heart beats, how the nerves thrill—where lie the muscles—what are the principles of action—and the seats of disease—how the fat grows—and how the bones are formed? Can he be a breeder who has never studied the peculiarities of races? Can he be anything but an empiric who undertakes to feed and fatten cattle, without knowing of what the food is composed, and what parts of the body require this or that element?

The farmer should have a knowledge of medicine, and of the elements of surgery; for though, in this respect, when applied to human ailments, it may prove that "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing," yet many a fine animal is allowed to become dog's meat, because its owner could not distinguish between a fever and inflammation, set a bone, nor bandage a wound.

The farmer should be a botanist. The primeval curse of mother earth was, that she should bring forth thorns and thistles; and many other noxious weeds besides, have since been added to her progeny.—How serious the loss of crops, from such plants as Canada thistles, turkey weeds, and a host of others, let those tell who have been the sufferers. Many books have been written on such things, many plans have been given for eradicating them; but unless the farmer can distinguish them—unless he knows their character, histories, and modes of growth, how unaided he does go to the task! Besides, botany, in all its shapes, is the natural science of the countryman. How does the seed germinate? How does the tender leaf unfold itself? How is the blossom impregnated and the fruit formed? What will injure, what improve each plant? All these are questions which every farmer should have studied and ascertained. And can any one be content to spend a life in ignorance of the names and characters of the trees and flowers that are so gorgeously spread around him, painting his woods and fields with their thousand hues, and rendering this outward world a mass of beauty?

The farmer should be—or shall we say, should wish to be—a naturalist. No one has so many opportunities of observing and noting the habits and peculiarities of birds and insects. In some cases, this knowledge may be of inestimable service. It must always be a pursuit of pleasure, and cannot fail to refine and improve the mind and sensibilities, both toward the inferior creation, and towards man.—American Agriculturist.

Politeness is like an air cushion—there may be nothing in it, but it eases our jolts wonderfully.

He that would live at peace and at ease,
Must not speak all he knows, nor judge all he sees.
Some grow mad by studying much to know;
But who grows mad by studying good to grow?

Now just at the moment a spider dropp'd,
With its silken cobweb clue,
And the king in the midst of his thinking stopp'd
To see what the spider would do.

MANAGEMENT AND PROFIT OF FOWLS.—Since the exhibition of fowls last November, there has been a great interest shown in regard to the different breeds of hens and their management. It is a subject of more or less interest to every reader of your paper. Most persons are trying to obtain the largest hens. I think that small hens are much more profitable as layers. They will lay more eggs than those of the large breeds, and they can be kept at half the expense of those that are extremely large. My object is to obtain the hens that will yield the most eggs according to the expense. I have purchased a pair of Poland Top knots, from which to raise stock for next year.—They weigh about seven pounds to the pair.

I will now give you an account of my management the past winter. I kept twenty-five hens and a protector, of the native breed. My pullets that were hatched in April commenced laying in November, and those hatched in May began to lay in December. I have not kept an account of the number of eggs they laid during the winter. The first week in January they laid ninety-one eggs. In the first two weeks in February, they laid one hundred and ninety-two eggs. I sold the eggs at fifteen cents per dozen, and during the winter the cost of keeping the hens was only equal to two-fifths the value of the eggs.

I give my hens corn and cob meal every day mixed in milk or hot water. I kept corn, barley, and oats by them all the time ; I also kept by them ashes, lime, and oyster shells. Raw meat was given to them every day ; I kept all the egg-shells during the summer, and gave them to the hens in the winter. I keep my hens in a house twenty by fifteen feet, with a large window in the south side. I find no difficulty in making my hens lay in winter ; most people fail by neglecting to supply animal food, as a substitute for the numerous insects which they devour in summer.

Hens should be let out a few hours every day when the ground is bare. The best layers should be selected as breeders, and the protector changed every year. Grain should be kept by hens at all times during the year. The principal reason that some farmers find no profit in keeping hens, is because they only half feed them ; therefore they are always in mischief, scratching for food. When farmers plant corn, they should give their hens a good supply, and they will not scratch it up. If hens are well managed, they afford more net profit than any other stock. Young hens should always be kept over as they will lay better in winter than old hens.—Vermont Aurora.

NOAH B. HARDY.

HOW TO GET RID OF A NEIGHBOR'S HENS.—If you are troubled with your neighbor's hens, the best way is not to shoot them, and send in the dead bodies, but quietly feed them around your stable with your own, and then shake out extra straw in some empty barrel or by-place. An acquaintance of mine in this way collected some dozens of eggs at a slight expense, thereby getting all the profit of the poultry without the trouble of housing or keeping them through the winter. Try it. It is too good a business to last long. By this plan you will effectually get rid of the hens, and besides this, and the saving of the eggs, you will save your friend, and save having one more enemy. A little planning is as good as hard work.

Love well, whip well.

MARRYING a woman for her beauty only, is like eating a bird for its singing.

A rich rogue is like a fat hog.

HUNGER never saw bad bread.

An ounce of wit that's bought,
Is worth a pound that's taught.

'Twas a long way up to the ceiling dome,
And it hung by a thread so fine,
That how it would get to its cobweb home,
King Bruce could not divine.

THE ROLLER.—The Roller is an instrument of great use in husbandry, though scarcely known in many places. Those who have used it, generally testify, with one sentiment, concerning its utility. Rollers are made in various ways, but the best and cheapest way to make them, is to take the body of a tree, from six to seven feet long, made as near a perfect cylinder as possible. The circumference should be so large that the roller will be very heavy. If the log is not large enough, it can be enlarged by putting three or four hoops around it, and then pin narrow pieces of plank to them, so narrow as to ply into a circle.

Grain ought to be rolled immediately after the seed is sown. The practice of rolling grain when it is just springing up, is doubtless injurious. It deranges the roots, and checks its growth a week or a fortnight. The benefits of rolling are many. It renders a loose soil more compact and solid, which encourages the growth of plants, by making the earth more close around all the roots. Neither need we fear of making the earth too compact, for no roller that can be drawn by a common team, will have that effect. In the next place, rolling keeps in the moisture, and hinders drought from penetrating. This effect is of great moment. In a dry season it may be the means of saving a crop, especially where the soil is light. In the third place, it puts the ground in a condition which will very much facilitate the mowing for hay. All the small stones, which often trouble very much the mower's scythe, are crushed into the ground; all the little ridges are levelled, the sods are flattened, and the field is made perfectly smooth.

Then, we say in conclusion, let every farmer have a roller on his farm. Don't grudge the expense of getting one. In a single year, in gaining on those fields that have been rolled, you will be amply paid for the cost of the roller.

EVIL thoughts are worse enemies than lions and tigers, for we can keep out of the way of wild beasts, but bad thoughts win their way everywhere. The cup that is full will hold no more; keep your head and heart full of good thoughts, that bad thoughts may find no room to enter.

Be on your guard, and strive and pray,
To drive all evil thoughts away.

DREAMY LIFE.—Would'nt you call a man a fool who should spend all his time fishing up oysters, with the expectation of finding a pearl? But is he really more unwise than hundreds, who, with their hands in their pockets, and cigars in their mouths, are waiting for something to turn up or turn over, that will throw them at once into business and fortune. They may wait until doomsday, and longer, if possible, before their fond expectation will be realized. If there is a kind we abominate, it is a lingering, waiting, lazy, dreamy sort of existence, over which angels and true men weep with unfeigned sorrow.

WERE we to ask a hundred men, who from small beginnings have attained a condition of respectability and influence, to what they imputed their success in life, the general answer would be—"it was from being early compelled to think for and depend on ourselves."

Chambers.

NOTHING is humbler than ambition when it is about to climb.
THE discontented man finds no easy chair.

HOW TO ENLARGE VEGETABLES.—A vast increase of food may be obtained by managing judiciously, systematically carrying out for a time the principle of increase. Take, for instance, a pea. Plant it in very rich ground, allow it to bear the first year, say half a dozen pods only, remove all others save the largest single pea of these. Sow it the next year, and retain of the produce three pods only; sow the largest one the following year, and retain one pod; again select the largest, and the next year the sort will have trebled its size and weight. Ever afterwards sow the largest seed, and by these means you will get peas, or anything else, of a bulk of which we at present have no conception.

CLEANING TREES.—Trees and vines which are kept the cleanest, bear the best; like the human body, the pores of their skin become clogged with dirt, and retain gases which should escape. Trees, the bark of which has been scraped and scrubbed, become more thriving, and more vigorous.

PREPARATION FOR SPRING WHEAT.—Mr. Q. C. Rich, Chairman of the Committee on Field Crops for the Addison County, Vt., Agricultural Society, makes the following remarks in reference to the cultivation of wheat:

"Wheat and Corn, we think, will be admitted to be the two most important grains grown in this county. Winter and Spring wheat has paid a fair profit for the outlay the past season, (1849,) particularly winter, which has not been better in twenty years. The best preparation is a clover lay, but in case you have none, we would recommend plowing your land early in June, and sowing from one to two and a half bushels of Buckwheat per acre, to be turned under the last of August or first of September. The rapid decomposition of the vegetable matter warms the soil and makes it more friable—causes the wheat to vegetate, grow, and get a stronger growth—the roots to strike deeper than they would had you applied manure, or summer fallowed, as was the usual practice. The Black Sea (a spring variety,) is the only kind sown to any extent at this time. When it was first introduced into the county, three-fourths to one bushel was considered sufficient to seed an acre; but now many are using two bushels; one and a half is believed to be preferable."

GET THE BEST IMPLEMENTS.—Mr. Editor:—There is a species of mongrel economy practiced by some farmers, which cannot be too severely deprecated. If they are under the necessity of purchasing a plow, scythe, rake, hoe or cultivator, instead of searching out the best and most perfectly finished, they inquire for a cheap or medium priced article, in order to economise their cash! Now, my experience in purchasing farming implements indicates exactly an opposite course. I inquire for the best, and purchase it. I would no more spend my money for a cheap plow, or harrow, or cheap wagon—which are always much the dearest in the end—than I would for a cheap school teacher, or a cheap minister. Buy only the best articles; this is the true economy, and all will find it so.—Germantown Telegraph.

A good part of the following suggestions on strawberry culture are applicable to the month of May ; but the weeding is still appropos, and should be extended to every branch of cultivation :

STRAWBERRY CULTIVATION.—Those who know anything about the magnificent strawberries, and the immense quantity of them raised on a bed about 30 feet by 40, for several years past, in the garden formerly owned by me in King street, may like to know the process by which I cultivated them.

I applied about once a week, for three times, commencing when the green leaves first began to start, and making the last application just before the plants were in full bloom, the following preparation—of nitrate of potash (salt petre is nitrate of potash,) glauber salts, and sal soda, each one pound, of muriate of ammonia, one quarter of a pound, dissolved in 30 gallons of rain or river water ; one third was applied at a time, and when the weather was dry, I applied clear soft water between the times of using the preparation—as the growth of the young leaves is so rapid, that unless well supplied with water the sun will scorch them. I used a common watering pot, and made the application towards evening. Managed in this way, there is never any necessity of digging over the bed, or setting it out anew. Beds of 10 years old are not only as good, but better than those of two or three years old. But you must be sure and keep the weeds out. C. A. H.

TO KILL WEEDS AND WORMS—SALT.—The virtues of common salt as a manure and an exterminator of weeds and worms, are but little understood. In England, on a sandy soil, 45 tons of manure and 5 1-2 bushels of salt to the acre, produced 95 bushels of wheat weighing 59 pounds to the bushel : the manure was dug in and the salt sown with the seed. Out of 33 experiments with different proportions and different manures, this was the most successful. On grass lands, the English farmers use from 6 to 16 bushels salt per acre ; for clover, 6 to 12 ; for potatoes, 20 bushels of salt and 20 loads of manure. From 5 to 10 bushels per acre is enough to kill vermin, and would be an advantage to almost any crop. To kill weeds and old turf, 20 to 40 bushels per acre ; this will kill all vegetation for a time, but a new and superior turf will soon spring up. The greatest carrot crop has been produced by 20 bushels salt and 20 tons manure per acre on a soil in which silica, and stones and gravel composed six tenths, and carbonate of lime and magnesia about two tenths. Salt and soot is a great manure for carrots. Salt and lime mixed, form a valuable manure, very powerful ; for universal application, slack the lime in a solution of salt equal to the strength of sea water, or weak brine—or two parts of lime to one of salt. This must be done and the material kept in the shade, or covered with sods, for two or three months before use ; 35 to 60 bushels to the acre may be used. We give this from English experiments, stated in Johnson's Encyclopedia of Agriculture.—Now that salt and lime can be had at moderate rates in Vermont, it is time for farmers to experiment—moderately to begin with. For asparagus, manure and salt, the latter freely and frequently applied, work admirably ; but asparagus is a native of the salt marshes.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.—We are authorized to say that a discovery has been made that carrot tops form the staple in a complete substitute for woad—an indispensable and valuable material in the manufacture of almost every variety of colored cloths. The manufacture of this substitute is extremely simple. In 1849, the experiment was tried with complete success in Connecticut, and a patent has been secured. Carrot tops will be worth much more for this purpose than for feed, and will pay for the crop, leaving the carrots as profit. Such is the prospect; and if it is realized, the carrot will be a tip-top crop. The root is worth more than oats for horses, and is besides first rate for cows. Don't despise the carrot. To cultivate the carrot, choose a good loam,—apply twenty loads of manure to the acre on the sod, and plow in; then apply twenty loads more of well rotted manure and harrow until the surface soil is fine and well mixed. Sow your seed (with a seed sower,) in drills at least one foot apart—some say two feet to allow the use of the cultivator in keeping out the weeds.—When the carrots are well up, thin out so as to leave none but the strongest plants, and these from six to nine inches apart in the drills. This will allow full tops and large roots, and make it comparatively easy work to keep out the weeds.

TO CURE THE SCRATCHES IN HORSES.—Wash the affected parts thoroughly with warm soap suds; rub them with a cob; and then apply beef brine. One application will usually affect a cure. If you will well rub the parts that are usually affected, every day, with a cob, you will seldom need to do anything more.—American Agriculturist.

STIRRING THE SOIL DURING DROUGHT.—Since the introduction of the horse and hand cultivators, our farmers and gardeners have discovered that stirring the ground frequently during the drought prevents plants from being stunted and injured; while some operators, from false reasoning, fear that the disintegration of the surface and consequent exposure to the sun and air will dry the soil still more.

The atmosphere during the hottest days contains a large amount of moisture, but from the dilation from heat we cannot observe the fact unless we present a cold surface, (a pitcher of ice water,) when we readily observe the moisture of the atmosphere condensing on the outside and forming drops sufficiently large to run down the sides of the vessel, and often to wet the table on which it is placed. No one could doubt that if each square foot of surface of the soil could be made to receive daily as much moisture as we see collecting in a few hours on the surface of a cold pitcher, that the plants contained in soil so wetted would be sustained. The immediate surface of soil from the washing of rains and other causes becomes compact and smooth, and does not present as large an amount of surface as when well stirred and roughened. After disintegration the atmosphere can readily enter the soil, and on meeting with the colder particles below the surface, is robbed of the moisture it contains, while the increased absorbent quality of the soil, by being rendered pulverulent, takes up each dose of moisture, as received, and makes room for the reception of a new quantity. It is for this reason that frequent hoeing is found to prove so beneficial to plants, and it is also from similar causes that under-drained and sub-soiled land suffers less from drought than land plowed but ten or twelve inches deep. All garden crops should have their soil frequently disturbed during dry weather, and in addition to the displacement of weeds, which is very desirable, the gardener will find that his plants can then supply themselves with moisture. The permanent benefit so readily observable in soils which have been long used for gardening purposes, arises in part from the free admission of carbonic acid and ammonia from the atmosphere into the soil, and the retention of such portions of the carbon as may not have been appropriated to the use of the plants. We find our soil, which has been manured with compost containing large amounts of carbonaceous matter, arising from the liberal use of swamp muck and charcoal dust, to be less annoyed by drought than any other, and those parts of the soil which have received liberal doses of common salt are the last to part with their moisture. Salted land, when disintegrated, receives moisture from dews and retains it more tenaciously than other soils, and where the soil, in addition to plenty of carbonaceous matters and salt, has the advantages of under-drains and thorough sub-soil plowing, it nearly or quite defies the effects of droughts.

PLANTS IN POTS.—Your camellia does not bloom because it did not set any flower buds last spring when it made its growth for the season, and it probably did not form buds then, from want of proper soil or water at that time. It is precisely during the two or three weeks while it is growing that it requires especial care. At that time, plenty of water, air and sun, and twice a week some guano water, will give you an abundance of flowers next year.—Horticulturist.

CURE FOR A RING WORM.—The editor of the P'ough, the Loom and the Anvil, furnishes the following receipt which he says is an infallible cure of the ring worm :

"Heat a shovel to a bright red—cover it with grains of Indian corn, press them with a cold flat iron. They will burn to a coal, and exude an oil on the surface of the flat iron, with which rub the ring worm, and after one or two applications it will be kilt as dead as Julius Cæsar.

But up the insect went once more,

CURRENTS AND GOOSEBERRIES.—There is not a more beautiful shrub growing, than the currant, properly propagated; and the same may be said of the gooseberry. But to put out a parcel of old roots, thrown into the street by a more intelligent neighbor, is but a poor way, and will as poorly repay the cost and trouble. Cultivators who pay any attention to the subject, never allow the root to make but one stock, or, as the English say, "make them stand on one leg,"—thus forming a beautiful miniature tree.

To do this, you must take sprouts of last year's growth, and cut out all the eyes, or buds in the wood, leaving only two or three at the top; then push them about half the length of the cutting, into mellow ground, where they will root, and run up a single stock, forming a beautiful symmetrical head. If you wish it higher, cut the eyes out again the second year. I have one six feet high. This places your fruit out of the way of hens, and prevents the gooseberry from mildewing, which often happens when the fruit lies on or near the ground, and is shaded by a superabundance of leaves and sprouts. It changes an unsightly bush, which cumbers and disfigures your garden, into an ornamental dwarf tree. The fruit is larger and ripens better and will last on the bushes, by growing in perfection, until late in the fall.

The mass of the people suppose that the roots make out from the lower buds. It is not so;—they start from between the bark and wood, at the place where it is cut from the parent root.—Vermont Chronicle.

Perhaps this can be done early in September as well as any month, taking shoots of this season's growth.

NEW MODE OF RAISING WHEAT.—An experiment has been tried in Iowa, and recorded in the Prairie Farmer, by J. A. Rosseau, where two bushels of wheat and one of oats were mixed and sown together in the fall, on one acre. The oats shot up rapidly, and were, of course, cut down by the frost. They however furnished a warm covering for the earth, and when the snow fell among the thick stalks and leaves, they kept it from blowing away. This covering prevented the winter-killing of the wheat, and the oats yielded a rich top-dressing for the crop the following spring. The result was, an abundant crop, while land precisely similar alongside of it, and treated in the same manner, with the exception of omitting the oats, was utterly worthless.

CULTURE OF THE PLUM.—"An old digger," in the Horticulturist says:—"Plum trees like a moist soil. I have found that covering the ground four inches deep with old spent tan-bark, is a good way of preserving the moisture, and keeping the trees in health. I scatter fresh lime thickly over the surface of the tan every year, as soon as the green fruit begins to fall. This kills every curculio that attempts to enter the ground. The tan prevents the weeds from growing, keeps the roots cool, and insures me a good crop of plums. I spread it as far as the roots extend, and it wants renewing or adding to, once in three or four years.

A change of fortune hurts a wise man no more than a change in the moon.

He that is warm thinks all are so.

A MOTIVE TO VIRTUE.—Allowing the performance of an honorable action to be attended with labor, the labor is soon over, but the honor is immortal; whereas, should even pleasure wait on the commission of what is dishonorable, the pleasure is soon gone, but the dishonor is eternal.

If a man could have his wishes he would double his troubles.

Steadily, steadily, inch by inch,
Higher and higher he got,
And a bold little run at the very last pinch
Put him into his native spot.
So much for trying again!

DO NOT MIX YOUR POTATOES.—Perhaps it may not be known to every person who raises potatoes to sell, that in the New York markets, there is one half difference in the price. This is not always owing to the superiority of one variety over another, but the fancy or preference of the buyer for his favorite kind. Some are partial to the pink-eyes—some to the kidneys, while others prefer the Carter, the black, Diceman's seedling, blue noses, lady's fingers, &c., all which have their excellencies, and when brought to market by themselves will always be sure to find a ready sale; but when mixed one with other, many house keepers will not buy them at all. We had many orders last spring for particular kinds of potatoes, and, in many instances had much trouble. In one or two cases, we were obliged to sort out the kinds wanted, in the hold of a vessel. We cannot too earnestly enjoin upon all growers of this estimable vegetable to cultivate each variety on a separate piece of ground, or to sort them at the time of digging, which will be attended with very little additional expense, but will well compensate them for the trouble.—Albany Cultivator.

WHATEVER you do, do it willingly. A boy that is whipped at school never learns his lesson well. A man that is compelled to work, cares not how badly it is performed. He that pulls off his coat cheerfully, strips up his sleeves in earnest, and sings while he works, is the man for me.

A cheerful spirit gets on quick—

A grumbler in the mud will stick.

KEEP notes of remarkable events on your farm. Recording even your errors will be of benefit. Good fences make good neighbors.

LOVELINESS.—It is not your neat dress, your expensive shawl, or your golden fingers, that attract the attention of the men of sense.—They look beyond these. If you are trifling and loose in your conversation—no matter if you are as beautiful as an angel—you have no attraction for them. It is the true loveliness of your natures that wins and continues to retain the affections of the heart. Young ladies sadly miss it, who labor to improve their outward looks, while they bestow not a thought on their minds. Fools may be won by gew gaws and fashionable showy dresses; but the wise and substantial are never caught by such traps. Let modesty be your dress. Use pleasant and agreeable language, and though you may not be courted by the fop and the sap, the good and truly great will love to linger in your footsteps.

EXPERIMENTS WITH LIQUID MANURE.—The English Royal Agricultural Society have been investigating the properties of liquid manures, such as urine, water from sewers, &c. It is there decided that the soil itself retains and holds all the qualities of the manure, and that therefore liquids are the best kind of manure which can possibly be obtained. It was also alleged by Professor Way that lime should be sown on soil previous to the manure being put upon it.

NEVER be cast down by trifles. If the spider breaks his thread twenty times, twenty times will he mend it again. Make up your minds to do a thing, and you will do it. Fear not if troubles come upon you; keep up your spirits, though the day may be a dark one.

Troubles never stop forever,

The darkest day will pass away.

It was among the loveliest customs of the ancients to bury the young at morning twilight ; for as they strove to give the softest interpretation to death, so they imagined that Aurora, who loved the young, had stolen them to her embrace.

THE more business a man has to do, the more he can accomplish.

And Bruce of Scotland braced his mind,
 And gossips tell the tale,
 That he tried once more as he tried before,
 And that time did not fail.
 So much for trying again!

VALUE OF CORN COBS.—A friend, who had read an article in some paper, recommending corn cobs, ground or unground, as a valuable and excellent feed for stock, undertook to test the truth of the statement for himself. He had a large quantity on hand, and after providing himself with the proper vessel, (a half-hogshead tub,) he filled it with cobs, and then added a solution of salt and water. In this steep the cobs were suffered to remain, till they had imbibed a sufficiency of the fluid to make them soft. In this condition they were then fed out to the stock, at the rate of half a peck to a full-grown cow or ox, in the morning, and the same at night. He remarked that all his animals were extremely fond of the cobs; that they consumed a much less quantity of hay and grain than before he commenced giving them this feed; neither did they require salt in its natural state. He has also ground several bushels of cobs, and finds the meal an excellent article for making mush.

I have used corn and cob meal, ground fine, with and without oats, for horses, the last 12 or 14 years, and I think it an excellent feed. It keeps a horse loose in his bowels, his hair lies smooth, and makes a great improvement in his looks. I also use the meal with wheat or oat chaff, to feed horses. When I first came to live in the neighborhood, I was ridiculed by the neighbors who said my horses would all die before spring; but when spring came, they were fatter, and in far better condition than theirs. I found that they took my advice after this, and fed the same as myself, making a great saving in feed.—American Agriculturist.

EARLY RISING.—One of the most celebrated writers of England was asked how it was that he wrote so much, and yet from ten in the forenoon was at leisure through the day. "Because I begin to write at three o'clock in the morning," was the reply.

Most confidently do I believe that he who from his youth is in the habit of early rising, will be much more likely to live to old age, more likely to be a distinguished and useful man, and more likely to pass a life that is peaceful and pleasant. I dwell upon this point because a love of the bed is too frequently a besetting sin of students, and a sin which acquires the strength of a cable.

By relying on our own resources, we acquire mental strength; but when we lean on others for support, we are like an invalid who, having accustomed himself to a crutch, finds it difficult to walk without one.

THAT is a pretty good thought of one of our poets—

"Woman is the heart of the family,

If man the head."

WHEN the heart is right, the head seldom goes astray.

THE man who says—"Let me wait a little, when I have something to spare, I will relieve the poor"—will never relieve them.

A WIFE who loses her patience must not expect to keep her husband's heart.

OLD boys have their playthings as well as young ones; the difference is only in the price.

OLD customs are rooted in and upheld by ignorance. Men cling to them because they are old, when, could they trace them to their origin, they would be ashamed to recognize them.

AMERICA is now one of the chief supports of England. It is stated that the money sent by Irish emigrants to their starving relatives equals the whole of the Irish poor rates. Some two millions of people in England are supported by the American trade.

FIVE thousand graves were made, during the past season, at Sacramento city.

Pay goodly heed, all ye who read,
And beware of saying, "I can't,"
'Tis a coward, and apt to lead
To idleness, Folly, and want.

Try again !

HOW TO PRESERVE HEALTH.—Medicine will never remedy bad habits. It is utterly futile to think of living in gluttony, intemperance and every excess, and keeping bodily health by medicines. Indulgence of the appetite, and indiscriminate dosing and drugging, have ruined the health and destroyed the life of more persons than famine, sword and pestilence. If you will take advice, you will become regular in your habits, eat and drink only wholesome things, rise and retire very regularly. Make a free use of water to purify the skin, and when sick take counsel of the best physician you know, and follow nature.

INDUSTRY.—A celebrated divine has said, "If it were not for industry, men would be neither so healthful nor so useful, so strong nor so patient, so noble nor so untempted. There is no greater tediousness in the world, than want of employment. Time passes over the active man lightly like a dream, or the feathers of a bird ; but the idler is like a long sleepless night to himself, and a load to his country.

A WORD TO LITTLE GIRLS.—Who is lovely ? It is the little girl who drops sweet words, kind remarks, pleasant smiles, as she passes along—who has a kind word of sympathy for every girl or boy she meets in trouble, and a kind hand to help her companion out of difficulty—who never scolds, never contends, and who never teases her mates, nor seeks in any other way to diminish, but always to increase their happiness. Would it not please you to pick a string of pearls, drops of gold, diamonds, precious stones, as you pass along the street ? But those are the true pearls and precious stones, which can never be lost. Take the hand of the friendless. Smile on the sad and dejected. Sympathize with those in trouble. Strive everywhere to diffuse around you sunshine and joy. If you do this, you will be sure to be beloved.

DEATH.—I have lived to see that this world is full of perturbations ; and I have long been preparing to leave it, and gathering comfort for the awful hour of making up my account with God, which I now apprehend to be near. And though I have, by his grace, loved him, in my youth, and feared him, in my age, and labored to have a conscience void of offence towards him, and towards all men ; yet, if thou, Lord, shouldst be extreme to mark what I have done amiss, how shall I abide it ? Where have I failed, Lord, show to me ; for I plead not my righteousness, but the forgiveness of my unrighteousness, through his merits, who died to purchase pardon for penitent sinners. And since I owe thee a death, Lord, let it not be terrible, and thou choose thy own time ; I submit to it. Let not mine, O Lord, but thy will be done !—Richard Hooker.

THE FARMER'S CREED.—We believe in small farms and thorough cultivation.

We believe in large crops, which leave the land better than they found it. We believe in going to the bottom of things, and therefore deep ploughing.

We believe that the best fertiliser of the soil is the spirit of industry, enterprise and intelligence, without which toil, lime, marl, plaster, bones, and green manures will be of little use.—N. Y. Independent.

NEVER keep your cattle short ; few farmers can afford it.

Most men abuse courtiers and affect to despise courts, yet most men are proud of the acquaintance of the one and would be glad to live with the other.

THE foot of the owner is the best manure for the land.

CULTIVATE your own heart aright; remember that "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

This institution was established in 1828, and has done, and continues to do, a very successful business.

It has been managed with skill and economy, and has clearly demonstrated the utility, safety and cheapness (to members) of the plan of mutual insurance, as adopted and practised by the Directors of the Vermont Mutual. The advantages of the plans of business and principles of this company (as claimed by its friends) over others are

1st. The members are allowed to retain the money in their own hands until needed to meet the losses, which not only makes the Company safer, but makes it mutual—members being required only to pay their proportion of losses which happen while they are members.

2d. The rates charged for insurance upon the different kinds of property are arranged and adjusted upon data derived from actual results in a business of 23 years.

3d. There are local agents in each town, who are better qualified to judge of the value of property to be insured, than traveling agents of other Companies: hence over insurance is avoided and the members have at hand a reliable person to whom they can apply for any information they may desire in relation to insurance.

4th. The Directors annually make out and submit to the members a report in detail, showing each item of the expenses of the Company—the amount of each loss, the kind of property lost, and by whom sustained: thus enabling the members to see what has become of the money which they have been called upon to pay.

5th. It is safer than any other Company, as it has a capital of $321,589 to meet losses.

The expense of insurance, we may add, is made mutual, as it costs a person who lives remote from the office, no more than one who lives in Montpelier, as the postages to and from the office are paid by the Company, and the assessment forwarded each year by the members of the Legislature.

Vt. Mutual Live Stock Insurance Company,

For the purpose of insuring LIVE STOCK against loss or damage from disease or accident, which has become so popular and beneficial in the old countries, and has of late years been introduced into this country with flattering success.

THIS institution commenced business in January, 1850,—and has been very successful. By the Report of the Secretary, made to the Legislature, in conformity to the Charter of the Company, it appears that the Company had issued 335 policies to Sept. 30, 1850, insuring the amount of $396,900 00—that 7 policies had terminated—two in loss and five not taken—leaving 328 in force at that date, and $390,150 00 at risk of the Company. The loss, ($1000,) and expenses were paid, leaving net assets, Sept. 30, 1850, $107,949 54; thus showing the affairs of the Company to be in a very healthy condition. This institution is under the control of an excellent board of managers, composed of men of caution and experience, and we advise all who may wish to avail themselves of the advantages of Life Assurance, to make an examination of the plans of this Company.

Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company,

For the purpose of insuring "dwelling-houses, out-buildings, and personal property therein." In February last, the Company commenced business, and during the nine months following, about FOURTEEN HUNDRED policies have been issued, insuring over ten hundred thousand dollars of Farm property, and the Company has now on hand a large cash fund for the prompt payment of losses. The farmers of the State are averse to insuring in connexion with hazardous property and sharing the heavy burdens of its losses—they are therefore adopting the sensible motto of insuring in their own Company for their own benefit. The Legislature of 1850 have amended the Charter of this Company, so as to insure in a second distinct class, denominated the Merchants & Mechanics' Class all other kinds of property not insurable in the first, or farmer's class—each class paying its own losses.

Rates of Postage on Letters, Newspapers, &c.

LETTERS.—Single, or any number of pieces not exceeding one half ounce, 300 miles or less, 5 cents.

If over three hundred miles, 10 cents. Drop letters (not mailed) 2 cts. Over 1-2 ounce and not exceeding 1 ounce, double postage; over 1 ounce and not exceeding 2 ounces, quadruple postage; and so on, double postage for every ounce, or fraction of an ounce, beyond the first ounce.

NEWSPAPERS sent by publishers or editors, not exceeding 100 miles, or any distance in the State where they are published, 1 cent. Over one hundred miles and out of the State, 1 1-2 cent. If sent by others, prepaid, the same.

PAMPHLETS.—Magazines and periodicals, any distance, for one ounce or less, each copy 2 1-2 cts. Each additional oz. or frac. over 1 1-2 cts. Circulars, handbills and advertisements, folded, directed and unsealed, any distance, 3 cents.

HALF OUNCE LETTERS, WHICH MAY BE SENT 300 MILES FOR 5 CENTS, OR ANY DISTANCE FOR 10 CENTS.

One and a half sheet of letter paper, sealed with wax or wafer.
One sheet do. with large or small envelope, sealed with wax or wafer.
One sheet foolscap, with small envelope, sealed with wafer.
One sheet letter paper with quarter eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.
Half sheet do. or light foolscap, half eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.
Sheet of letter paper may contain a dime and a half.
Half sheet of letter paper may contain a quarter of a dollar.
Sheet of letter paper with seven bank notes, sealed with wax; or
Three bank notes and the whole in an envelope.

CALIFORNIA AND OREGON.—On a single letter to Oregon or California, 40 cents. Newspapers to do., 4 1-2 cents; and to be prepaid unless sent from the publication office.

FRANKING, ETC.

Postmasters may frank letters and packages, relating exclusively to post office business; but must in every case endorse over the signature the words "post office business."

All postmasters, whose compensation does not exceed $200 for the year ending 30th June, 1847, may send or receive free letters written by themselves, or on their own private business, not weighing over 1-2 an ounce.

FORM OF FRANK.

|----------------|-----------------|
| Sept. 1, 1849. | J. Smith, P. M. |

It is the duty of postmasters to notify publishers when subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office; and this should be done by letter, franked as "post office business." The old practice of giving notice by returning the papers, subjects the publishers to postage, which they will not pay, and of course they do not get notice.

WRITING ON NEWSPAPERS OR WRAPPERS.

"P. O. DEPT., Washington, D. C., Aug. 11, 1845.

Sir:—Any memorandum upon transient newspapers, or upon the wrappers of the same, subjects the same to letter postage.

In determining the amount of postage you are to charge upon such papers, you are to be governed by the weight, according to the provisions of the law of March 3, 1845. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. MEDILL, 2d Asst. P. M. Gen."

Webster's Quarto Dictionary in District Schools

THE Legislature of Massachusetts have provided for supplying each School District in the commonwealth with a copy, at the expense of the State. It is very extensively introduced in the District Schools of other States as a work of reference, for the use of teachers and pupils.

Charles Shedd Esq., Commissioner of Schools in the county ofrafton, N. H., has recently favored the publishers with the following testimony of a teacher in that county.

"I have had the privilege of having had Webster's Quarto Dictionary in my school the past term, and its beneficial effects have exceeded my most sanguine expectations. Could parents witness the astonishing progress made by scholars in learning the derivation of words, their pronunciations and definitions, they would not hesitate to purchase a copy for every District.

THE NEW POSTAGE LAW.

—o—
AN ACT to reduce and modify the rates of postage in the United States, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That from and after the 30th day of June, eighteen hundred and fifty-one, in lieu of the rates of postage now established by law, there shall be charged the following rates, to wit : For every single letter in manuscript, or paper of any kind upon which information shall be asked for or communicated, in writing, or by marks or signs, conveyed in the mail, for any distance between places within the United States not exceeding three thousand miles, when the postage upon such letter shall be prepaid, three cents, and five cents when the postage thereon shall not have been prepaid ; and for any distance exceeding three thousand miles, double those rates. For every such single letter or paper, when conveyed wholly or in part by sea, and to or from a foreign country, for any distance over twenty-five hundred miles, twenty cents ; and for any distance under twenty-five hundred miles, ten cents, (excepting, however, all cases where such postages have been or shall be adjusted at different rates by postal treaty or convention already concluded or hereafter to be made ;) and for a double letter there shall be charged double the rates above specified ; and for a treble letter treble those rates ; and for a quadruple letter quadruple those rates ; and every letter or parcel not exceeding half an ounce in weight shall be deemed a single letter, and every additional weight of half an ounce or additional weight of less than half an ounce, shall be charged with an additional single postage. And all drop letters, or letters placed in any post office, not for transmission but for delivery only, shall be charged with postage at the rate of one cent each ; and all letters which shall hereafter be advertised as remaining over or uncalled for in any post office shall be charged with one cent in addition to the regular postage, both to be accounted for as other postages now are.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That all newspapers not exceeding three ounces in weight, sent from the office of publication to actual and bona fide subscribers, shall be charged with postage as follows, to wit : All newspapers published weekly only shall circulate in the mail free of postage within the county where published, and that the postage on the regular numbers of a newspaper published weekly, for any distance not exceeding fifty miles out of the county where published, shall be five cents per quarter ; for any distance exceeding fifty miles, and not exceeding three hundred miles, ten cents per quarter ; for any distance exceeding three hundred miles and not exceeding one thousand miles, fifteen cents per quarter ; for any distance exceeding one thousand miles and not exceeding two thousand miles, twenty cents per quarter ; for any distance exceeding two thousand miles, and not exceeding four thousand miles, twenty-five cents per quarter ; and for any distance exceeding four thousand miles, thirty cents per quarter ; and all newspapers published monthly and sent to actual and bona fide subscribers shall be charged with one fourth the foregoing rates ; and all such newspapers published semi-monthly shall be charged with one half the foregoing rates ; and papers published semi-weekly shall be charged double those rates ; tri-weekly, treble those rates; and oftener than tri-weekly, five times those rates. And there shall be charged upon every other newspaper, and each circular not sealed, handbill, engraving, pamphlet, periodical, magazine, book, and every other description of printed matter which shall be unconnected with any manuscript or written matter, and which it may be lawful to transmit through the mail, of no greater weight than one ounce, for any distance not exceeding five hundred miles, one cent; and for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce, one cent; for any distance exceeding five hundred miles and not exceeding one thousand five hundred miles, double those rates; for any distance exceeding one thousand five hundred miles and not exceeding two thousand five hundred miles, treble those rates; for any distance exceeding two thousand five hundred miles and not exceeding three thousand five hundred miles, four times those rates; for any distance exceeding three thousand five hundred miles, five times those rates. Subscribers to all periodicals shall be required to pay one quarter's postage in advance; in all such cases the postage shall be one half the forgoing rates. Bound books and parcels of printed matter not weighing over thirty-two ounces shall be deemed mailable matter under the provisions of this section. And the postage on all printed matter other than newspapers and periodicals published at intervals not exceeding three months, and sent from the office of publication to absolute and bona fide subscribers, to be prepaid; and in ascertaining the weight of newspapers for the purpose of determining the amount of postage chargeable thereon, they shall be weighed when in a dry state. And whenever any printed matter on which the postage is required by this section to be prepaid shall, through the inattention of postmasters or otherwise, be sent without prepayment, the same shall be charged with double the amount of postage which would have been chargeable thereon if the postage had been prepaid; but nothing in this act contained shall subject to postage any matter which is exempted from the payment of postage by any existing law. And the Postmaster General, by and with the advice and consent of the President of the United States, shall be, and he hereby is, authorized to reduce or enlarge, from time to time, these rates of postage upon all letters and other mailable matter conveyed between the U. States and any foreign country, for the purpose of making better postal arrangements with other governments, or counteracting any adverse measures affecting our postal intercourse with foreign countries; and postmasters at the office of delivery are hereby authorized, and it shall be their duty, to remove the wrappers and envelopes from all printed matter and pamphlets not charged with letter postage for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is upon or connected with any such printed matter, or in such package, any matter or thing which would authorize or require a charge of a higher rate of postage thereon. And all publishers of pamphlets, periodicals, magazines, and newspapers which shall not exceed sixteen ounces in weight, shall be allowed to interchange their publications reciprocally, free of postage: Provided, That such interchange shall be confined to a single copy of each publication; And provided, also, said publishers may enclose in their publications the bill for subscription thereto, without any additional charge for postage; And provided further, That in all cases where newspapers shall not contain over three hundred square inches, they may be transmitted through the mails by the publishers to bona fide subscribers at one fourth the rates fixed by this act.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Postmaster General to provide and furnish to all deputy postmasters, and to all other persons applying and paying therefor, suitable postage stamps, of the denomination of three cents, and of such other denominations as he may think expedient, to facilitate the prepayment of the postages provided for in this act; and any person who shall forge or counterfeit any postage stamp provided or furnished under the provisions of this or any former act, whether the same are impressed, or printed on, or attached to, envelopes or not, or any die, plate, or engraving therefor, or shall make, or print, or knowingly use or sell, or have in his possession, with intent to use or sell, any such false, forged, or counterfeited die, plate, engraving, or post-stamp, or who shall make, or print, or authorize or procure to be made or printed, any postage stamps of the kind provided and furnished by the Postmaster General as aforesaid, without the special authority of the Post Office Department, or who, after such postage stamps have been printed, shall, with intent to defraud the revenues of the Post Office Department, deliver any postage stamps to any person or persons other than such as shall be authorized to receive the same by an instrument of writing, duly executed under the hand of the Postmaster General and the seal of the Post Office Department, shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of felony, and be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and the expenses of procuring and providing all such postage stamps and letter envelopes, as are provided for or authorized by this act, shall be paid, after being adjusted by the Auditor of the Post Office Department, on the certificate of the Postmaster General, out of any money in the Treasury arising from the revenues of the Post Office Department.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of every postmaster to cause to be defaced, in such manner as the Postmaster General shall direct, all postage stamps attached to letters deposited in his office, or delivered, or to be sent by mail; and if any postmaster sending letters in the mail with postage stamps attached shall omit to deface the same, it shall be the duty of the postmaster to whose office such letters shall be sent for delivery to deface the stamps, and report the delinquent postmaster to the Postmaster General. And if any persons shall use, or attempt to use in prepayment of postage, any postage stamps which shall have been before used for like purposes, such persons shall be subject to a penalty of fifty dollars for every such offence, to be recovered in the name of the United States in any court of competent jurisdiction.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That lists of letters remaining uncalled for in any post office, in any city, town, or village where a newspaper shall be printed, shall hereafter be published once only in the newspaper which, being issued weekly or oftener, shall have the largest circulation within the range of delivery of said office, to be decided by the postmaster at such office, at such times and under such regulations as the Postmaster General shall prescribe, and at a charge of one cent for each letter advertised. And the postmaster at such office is hereby directed to post, in a conspicuous place in his office, a copy of such list, on the day or day after the publication thereof; and if the publisher of any such paper shall refuse to publish the list of letters as provided in this section, the postmaster may designate some other paper for such purpose. Such lists of letters shall be published once in every six weeks, and as much oftener, not exceeding once a week, as the Postmaster General may specially direct: Provided, That the Postmaster General may, in his discretion, direct the publication of German and other foreign letters in any newspaper printed in the German or any other foreign language, which publication shall be either in lieu of, or in addition to, the publication of the list of such letters in the manner first in this section provided, as the Postmaster General shall direct.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That to any postmaster whose commissions may be reduced below the amount allowed at his office for the year ending the thirtieth day of June, eighteen hundred and fifty-one, and whose labors may be increased, the Postmaster General shall be authorized, in his discretion, to allow such additional commissions as he may deem just and proper: Provided, That the whole amount of commissions allowed such postmaster during any fiscal year, shall not exceed by more than twenty per cent. the amount of commissions at such office for the year ending the thirtieth day of June, eighteen hundred and fifty-one.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That no Post Office now in existence shall be discontinued, nor shall the mail service on any mail route in any of the States or Territories be discontinued or diminished, in consequence of any diminution of the revenues that may result from this act. And it shall be the duty of the Postmaster General to establish new Post Offices, and place the mail service on any new mail routes established, or that may hereafter be established, in the same manner as though this act had not passed.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That there shall be paid to the Post Office Department, in further payment and compensation for the mail service performed for the two Houses of Congress and the other Departments and officers of the Government in the transportation of free matter, the sum of five hundred thousand dollars per year, which shall be paid quarterly, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated; and the moneys appropriated to the Post Office Department by the twelfth section of the act "to establish certain post routes, and for other purposes," approved March third, eighteen hundred and forty-seven, and remaining undrawn in the Treasury, shall continue subject to the requisition of the Postmaster General for the service of the Post Office Department, notwithstanding the same may have remained so undrawn for more than two years after it became subject to such requisition.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That there is hereby appropriated, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of five hundred thousand dollars, to supply any deficiency that may arise in the Post Office Department.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That it shall be in the power of the Postmaster General, at all post offices where the postmasters are appointed by the President of the United States, to establish post routes within the cities or towns, to provide for conveying letters to the post offices by establishing suitable and convenient places of deposit, and by employing carriers to receive and deposit them in the post office; and at all such offices it shall be in his power to cause letters to be delivered by suitable carriers, to be appointed by him for that purpose, for which not exceeding one or two cents shall be charged, to be paid by the person receiving or sending the same, and all sums so received shall be paid into the Post Office Department: Provided, The amount of compensation allowed by the Postmaster General to carriers shall in no case exceed the amount paid into the treasury by each town or city under the provisions of this section.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, it shall be lawful to coin at the Mint of the U. States and its branches, a piece of the denomination and legal value of three cents, or three-hundredths of a dollar, to be composed of three-fourths silver and one-fourth copper, and to weigh twelve grains and threeeighths of a grain; that the said coin shall bear such devices as shall be conspicuously different from those of the other silver coins, and of the gold dollar, but having the inscription "United States of America," and its denomination and date; and that it shall be a legal tender in payment of debts for all sums of thirty cents and under. And that no ingots shall be used for the coinage of the three cent pieces herein authorized, of which the quality differs more than five thousandths from the legal standard; and that in adjusting the weight of the said coin, the following deviations from the standard weight shall not be exceeded, namely, one-half of a grain in the single piece, and one pennyweight in a thousand pieces.

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations, all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 1-4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising or setting, (as the case may be,) given in the Almanac, and also 3 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 23d of Sep. tember. On that day, according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 8 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 8 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 52m in the morning, and 5h 52m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon at his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 52m, leaving 5h 48m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 52m, which gives 5h 56m for the time of his setting on the 23d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked Sun South is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or, in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example, when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon mark.

The columns marked Sun's Declination, Sun's Semi-Diameter, and Equation of time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

The results in the above table are deduced from three daily observations, made at sunrise, 1 P. M. and 9 P. M., amounting to 1095 observations in the year. The warmest day in the year was June 19th, the mean heat of which was 81.75. The greatest heat in the shade was 93°, on the 19th of June. The coldest day was Feb. 5, the average of which was 6°, or 6° below zero. The greatest cold was in the morning of Feb. 6th, when the thermometer was 18° below zero. Range of the thermometer 111°. The year 1851 was about 1-4° warmer than the mean of the preceding 12 years. Range of the thermometer from 30.49 in. (Feb. 5,) to 28.80 in. (Dec. 23,) equal to 1.69 in. The fall of water (in rain and snow) 37.51 in. was about 5 1-2 inches more than the average annual fall in the preceding 12 years, and was more than fell in any one of those years, excepting 1847. The fall of snow, 108 inches, was considerably more than the usual average. The broad Lake, opposite to Burlington, was not frozen over during the year. Sail boats were out, as occasion required, during the whole winter. The steamer Saranac, commenced running between Burlington and Plattsburgh, March 25. The Line Boats commenced running through the Lake April 15, and went into winter quarters Dec. 9. There were 84 days of tolerable sleighing, viz: 31 in January, 28 in February, 13 in March and 12 in Dec. Robins, Blue Birds and Sparrows were first seen March 29, Barn Swallows May 2, Frogs heard and Martins seen April 26, Currants in blossom May 13, Red Plum May 19, Plums and Cherries May 20, Liberian Crab Apple June 2, Common Apple, June 4. Lake highest May 29, being 1 foot 10 inches below extreme high water mark—lowest January 1, being 5 feet 10 inches below high water. Change of level of the lake in the year, 4 feet. July 18th, 19th and 20th severe rain storm. Fall of water 3.62 inches. Crops on the intervalles along the streams nearly ruined—railroads and other roads much injured. Remarkable storm Oct. 26th and 27th, commenced with rain and closed with a fall of 5 inches of snow—depth of water from rain and melted snow, 3.78 inches.—Dec. 23d, severe snow storm all day, with very high wind. Fall of snow 20 inches, much drifted, and roads nearly impassable.

SINCERITY is like travelling in a plain beaten road, which commonly brings a man sooner to his journey's end than bye-ways, in which men often lose themselves.

HAVE the courage to prefer ease to elegance; to get out of bed when you ought to do; to acknowledge your altered opinions upon conviction; and to confess your fear of God.

Would ye learn the bravest thing that man can ever do ?

Would ye be an uncrowned king, absolute and true ?

Would ye seek to emulate all we learn in story ?

O! the moral, just, and great, rich in real glory ?

Would ye lose much bitter care in your lot below ?

Bravely speak out when and where 'tis right to utter "No."

BEGIN RIGHT.—Whatever ye do, do with your might ; but remember that strength and zeal may be mis spent, if you do not begin right.

MATERIALS FOR MANURE.—You should gather all the substances on your farm that can be made into manure and carefully compost them, so as to be converted into mould, which, permit us to assure you, is to the elements of fertility, what the blood is to the human system, the life-spring and source of vitality. Without there be mould in the soil, or something identical in constitution, no soil can be fertile, notwithstanding all the inorganic elements were therein present :—without the nutritive principle, infertility is inevitable.—Mould, or animal and vegetable matter, in a state of decay, is as indispensable to a good soil, as flesh is in the concocting of a good pot of soup.

Upon this subject Professor Dana, whom we look upon as one of the genuine lights of Agricultural science, says :—

"Mould is truly manure. If the mould of soil were separated from the earthy portions of the soil, it wou'd deprive that soil of the power of growing crops. Here, then, we come to a broad distinction between the soil and manure. The soil is the earth on which plants grow,—the mould is the manure of that soil. The soil is the earthy,—the mould, that is the carbon and salts, together with the elements of water, are the vegetable part of arable land."

We repeat :—The making and preserving of dung heaps should be the first object—the first duty of every farmer, as without putrescent manures, land cannot be preserved in a state of fertility.

CATTLE YARDS.—Have as many loads of rough materials hauled as will cover your cattle yards 12 inches in depth ; fashion these basin-shaped, so as to prevent the escape of the urine. Occasionally spread plaster over your yards, after the cattle are confined therein ; adding as you can, other rough materials from time to time : and our word for it, by next spring, all such materials will have been made into the most enriching fertilizers which you could desire.

MILCH COWS.—In addition to the scanty fare of the pastures, milch cows should receive generous measures of succulent food, and hay at night,—and warm stabling for their winter accommodation.

Young Stock should be provided with additional food for nights, as it is important to bring them into winter quarters in good condition,—equally so it is, to keep them so.

Corn-stalks, properly cured, cut into half-inch pieces, and steamed, make excellent provender for cattle, and when mixed with bran or meal, make a good meal for milch cows.

SELLING CORN.—Don't sell your corn in the ears ; but shell it.—The cobs, when ground into meal, make a nourishing food for milch cows and other cattle.

"NEVER be critical upon the ladies," was the maxim of an old Irish Peer, remarkable for his homage to the sex ; "the only way a true gentleman will ever attempt to look at the faults of a pretty woman, is to shut his eyes."

ALL the world is complaining of the want of friends ; and yet scarcely anybody gives himself the trouble of bringing the necessary dispositions to gain and preserve them.

Temptations are a file which rubs off much of the rust of self-confidence.

Fix your mind closely and intently on what you undertake—in no other way can you have a reasonable hope of success.

Praise makes a wise man modest, a fool arrogant.

Learn to speak this little word in its proper place—

Let no timid doubt be heard, clothed with sceptic grace.

Let thy lips, without disguise, bold'y pour it out ;

Though a thousand dulcet lies keep hovering about.

For be sure our hearts wou'd lose future years of woe,

If our courage could refuse the present hour with "No."

KEEP HORSES CLEAN, CURRYING &c.—The experiment has often been tried, of the benefit to horses from being well combed and kept clean. It has been found that horses neglected as to cleanliness, will not be so well conditioned for either fatness or strength, though they may have abundance of food. Frequent combing and rubbing not only produce a healthy state of the skin, which is very conducive to a correct state of the bowels, but add essentially to the appearance and activity of the animal.

FEEDING OXEN.—Working oxen ought to be fed regularly, and worked uniformly. Have the yoke of sufficient length, and the bows to fit. Oxen that are worked constantly ought to have at least two quarts of meal each day, and be salted often.

PLOWING.—I haer, in his popular work on Agriculture, says :—"In performing the operation of plowing, it is requisite

1st. That the lines traced by the plow should be perfectly straight, and parallel with one another ; the furrow slices all equal, and uniformly turned up, so that they may not overlap each other, or form any inequality on the surface of the ground.

2d. That the plow advance at a regular uniform depth, and on a line parallel to the surface of the soil ; that is to say, that it does not, as is the case when it is not well guided, sometimes cut thick and at other times thin slices.

3d. That the plow empty the furrow as completely as possible, so that the earth may not fall in again after the plow has passed, and that the portion of the soil not yet raised, but which has just been divided by the plowshare, may form not an acute, but a right angle with the bottom of the furrow on which it borders.

And further, that the divided slices be always of the same breadth, that they likewise preserve the depth which it is desirable to give them."

The fulfilment of these desirable ends is secured to a certain extent by taking care that the plow is properly constructed ; but it also depends in a great measure on the skill of the plowman who requires to understand the use of the instrument. The success which will attend the growth of the crops, very much depends upon the skill, and faithful performance of duty on the part of the plowman.—See page 16.

It is not what we earn that makes us rich, but what we save ; it is not what we eat, but what we digest, that makes us fat ; it is not what we read, but what we remember, that makes us learned.

MAN after death retains every sense which he had in this world, and leaves nothing behind him but his terrestrial body.

SUCH as a man is in the world as to his spirit, such does he remain to eternity, only with this difference, that his state becomes more perfect, if he has lived well, because then he is not clogged with a material body, but lives spiritual, in a spiritual body.

MAN of himself, continually inclines to the lowest hell, but, by the Lord he is continually withdrawn.

MAN is at first natural, then he becomes rational, and at length spiritual.

A MAN-ANGEL is one who is in the affections of good, and a man-devil is one who is in the affections of evil.

We can be truly happy but in proportion as we are the instruments of promoting the happiness of others.

A man cannot run away from himself. His evil genius will follow him, whithersoever he may turn his footsteps.

Earnestness of purpose is the sine qua non to a man's well-being.

When Temptation's form would lead to some pleasant wrong—
 When she tunes her hollow reed to the syren's song—
 When she offers bribe, and smile, and our conscience feels
 There is nought but shining guile in the gifts she deals—
 Then, oh ! then let courage rise to its strongest flow ;
 Show that ye are brave as wise, and firmly answer " No."

MORE ABOUT PLOWING.—The width of the sod or furrow-slice must be regulated according to the nature of the soil, and the object to be attained by the plowing. The greater the tenacity of the soil, the narrower should these slices be cut, for when they are too broad, it is impossible to break and divide them properly with the harrow. From a light or sandy soil, on the other hand, wide slices may be cut without any inconvenience ; because the harrow always has sufficient power over such soil to pulverize it completely.

The greater the depth of the furrows, the less should be their width, both because the plow would have too great resistance to overcome, and because if the pieces of earth or sods cut out of them, are broad and thick, they cannot be turned over so completely as they ought to be.

If the object in view is only to bring the stubble, or to turn up the turf of land that is lying fallow, in order to facilitate its decomposition, plowing in wide slices is admissible, and in some respects preferable.

Two or three inches in the width of a slice, makes a great difference in the quantity of work done in a day by the plow.

When the object is to divide a tenacious soil minutely, the proper breadth for the slice is six or seven inches, but where the soil is light, an equal advantage will be gained by making the slice a foot wide.

Supposing the rate of progress, or in other words, the pace at which the cattle or horses move, to be equal in both cases, twelve hours are spent in plowing a field with furrows seven inches wide, while only seven hours would be required to plow it if the furrows were twelve inches wide.

LONG AND ROTTEN MANURES.—Were we not guided by experience, perhaps we should be led to imagine there would not only be a saving of the ammoniacal salts, phosphates, &c., by applying manure fresh to the soil, but that all soil would be equally benefited by being thus treated. Not so. The chemical action of the manure will be equally efficacious on light and heavy soils, but this is more than counteracted by injurious mechanical action. While unfermented dung will prove beneficial to our clays, half rotten dung will be efficacious to soils of a medium texture, and rotten dung to our light ones. Decomposed farm yard manure is no better adapted for every soil than one man is adapted for every profession.—Agr. Gazette.

Man has two minds, one exterior and the other interior ; the former is called natural, but the latter spiritual ; the natural mind is opened by the knowledge of worldly things ; but the spiritual mind is opened by the knowledge of heavenly things.

In order to man's being a man, his will and understanding should act in unity.

The life of man admits of no change after death, for it remains the same that it was in the world, and is in no respect changed, inasmuch as an evil life cannot be changed into a good one, nor vice versa, because they are opposites, and conversion into an opposite is extinction.

The Lord is the light which illuminates the understandings of angels and men.

The Lord is essential good and truth.

Without contentment there is no joy of aught, there is no profit, no pleasure in anything.

While seeking daily bread to sustain animal life, we must not neglect the claims of the higher, better life, which it is our duty and privilege to cultivate.

Hearts that are too often given, like street merchandize,
 Hearts that like bought slaves are driven in fair freedom's guise,
 Ye that poison soul and mind with perjury's foul stains—
 Ye who let the cold world bind in joyless marriage chains,
 Be true unto yourselves and God, let rank and fortune go ;
 If Love light not the altar spot, let Feeling answer "No."

FARM WORK FOR APRIL.—Spring grain should be put in as early as the ground will permit. Sandy loam may be ploughed very soon after the frost is out. No manure should be applied to fields in grain, because it is apt to make the straw grow too rapidly at the time when the head is filling. The straw bursts open when it is made too fast, and the grain is spoiled. If any manure is applied, as it sometimes is, on land in wheat, it should be well rotted manure—for this works early, and its force is partly spent before the sultry weather comes on.

If you have never been lucky with plaster, sow two bushels per acre, with your spring grain, and harrow it in. Two bushels may cost you fifty cents. Plaster always draws moisture from the atmosphere, and it will aid your grass seed sown among your grain.

Winter manures should be overhauled as soon as the frost is out.—Throw them up as light as possible, and let not the cattle have a chance to tread down the heaps—for the admission of air is important to hasten decomposition. If you have time, overhaul it twice, before planting. For manure ought always to ferment in the heap before it is spread in the field—and there is no danger of its heating too much between the first of April and the tenth of May.

Land that is laid to grass should be laid even, and a roller is a good thing for the present crops as well as for the scythe in all its future operations. Rollers operate on the surface only, and do not render the soil so heavy as a harrow does.—Mass. Ploughman.

DISAPPOINTMENTS.—The best of people will now and then meet with disappointments, for they are inherited by mortality. It is, however, the better philosophy to take things calmly and endeavor to be content with our lot. We may, at least, add some rays of sunshine to our path, if we earnestly endeavor to dispel the clouds of discontent that may arise in our bosoms. And, by so doing, we the more fully enjoy the bountiful blessings that God gives to his humblest creatures.

EVERYWHERE endeavor to be useful, and everywhere you are at home.

THE happiness of life, like the light of day, consists not in one brilliant flash, but in a series of mild, serene rays.

WEAR your learning, like your watch, in a private pocket ; and do not pull it out, and strike it, merely to show that you have it.

A MAN will do right to direct his own conduct by that of a pistol ball ; to hit his mark, he must apparently aim much higher.

DISTASTE for life is characteristic of those persons who have the most abused the sources of life and happiness.

THE thing to be done at all should be begun now, and in earnest—at the present time, and on system. Good resolutions weaken as they generalize, like the circles on the lake.

CELESTIAL love from the Lord continually flows into man, and nothing else hinders and impedes its reception but the lust of self-love and the love of the world, and the falsities thence derived.

BE thankful that your lot has fallen on times when, though there may be many evil tongues and exasperated spirits, there are none who have fire and faggot at command.

ALWAYS tell the truth ; you will find it easier than lying.

It is remarkable that of all knowledge, the most important, the knowledge of ourselves, is the most universally neglected.

The Chinese have an axiom, and a beautiful truism it is, too, that when one person is idle a single day, without just cause or necessity, some one must suffer by it.

Men with godly spirits blest, willing to do right,

Yet who stand with wavering breast, beneath Persuasion's might,
When companions seek to taunt judgment into sin ;

When the loud laugh fain would daunt your better voice within,
Oh ! be sure you'll never meet more insidious foe ;

But strike the coward to your feet, by Reason's watchword, "No."

DIG YOUR GARDEN DEEP.—If the subsoil is not suitable to bring to the top, which is often the case, trench it by keeping an open space on the top, while you dig and pulverize the subsoil. This operation should be carried to the depth of two feet at least. Many roots will penetrate beyond that depth, if the soil is prepared. The greatest advantage follows deep digging in dry seasons, and trench draining is necessary to success, in wet locations.

The most important points in preparing ground for successful gardening, are, manure well and dig deep.

PLANTING A YOUNG ORCHARD.—Every man who owns a farm, owes it to himself, to his posterity, to society, to have a good orchard of choice fruits. If he is too far from market to sell his fruit, he can use them in feeding his stock. Cooked apples, mixed with meal, will fatten hogs as well as corn ; cooked apples mixed with meal and chopt straw, form with water, one of the best slops that was ever given to a milch cow to encourage the secretion of milk : a mash formed of a peck of cooked apples, one half gallon of oats, or chop, and a peck of cut hay or straw, makes a sustaining meal for a trooper's or ploughman's horse—it acts as a very gentle aperient, tends to loosen the hide, and lubricates the hair, gives tone and energy to the muscular secretions, and encourages a healthy elaboration of fat—and above all else, good apples, whether cooked, or uncooked, are among the greatest delicacies, the most grateful, healthful, luxuries of the table.—Therefore, if you have no orchard, plant one, and thereby fulfil the duties required of you by your God and country.

MULCHING.—If young fruit trees do not thrive, mulch them by a forkfull of cut grass, straw, or leaves to each tree. By mulching trees, they are placed in a condition similar to trees in the forest. They are protected from the scorching sun and parching drought ; and they are kept nearer a state of equilibrium of temperature during the various changes from heat to cold, and the reverse ; of course there will be a more uniform growth, and less liability to disease in trees, and imperfection in fruit.

There are diversions of charity, consisting of the various delights and pleasures of the bodily senses, which are of use for the recreation of the spirits. Man's nature, in his recreations or diversions, is determined by his affection of charity. The affection of use, the same as it is in the inner man, remains within them all ; and during its repose, is gradually renovated. Diversions break or terminate the cares of business ; for the Lord flows into them from Heaven, and implants in them an interior sense of pleasure, of which they who are not in the affection of charity are totally unconscious. But he who is in this affection, inspires his diversions with a fragrance or sweetness which is imperceptible to any but himself. They who are not in diversions from the affection of charity, have none of these things, for their spiritual minds are shut.

Adversity is the trial of principle. Without it a man hardly knows whether he is an honest man.

Life's smallest miseries are, perhaps, its worst ; great sufferings have great strength to bear them.

Love is like a fire in the will and like a flame in the understanding.

Little opportunities of doing good are neglected by many who are waiting for an occasion to perform great acts of charity.

If parents would render their children happy and wealthy, they should early inculcate in them a desire for and a knowledge of, labor, both manual and mental.

Ah, how many thorns we wreath, to twine our brows around,
 By not knowing when to breathe this important sound.
 Many a breast has rued the day when it reckoned less
 Of fruits upon the moral "Nay" than flowers upon the "Yes."
 Many a sad repentant thought turns to "long ago,"
 When a luckless fate was wrought by want of saying "No."

CURE FOR POTATO ROT.—John T. Snyder, of Franklin, Bergen co. N. J., describes a remedy as follows:—"At the period when the potato rot usually commences, scatter a handful of ashes around the vines on each hill and it will effectually prevent the disease. The application should be made as late as possible."

SILENT INFLUENCE.—It is the bubbling spring which flows gently, the little rivulet which runs along, day and night, by the farm house, that is useful, rather than the swollen flood, or the warring cataract. So with the acts of our lives. It is not by great deeds, like those of the martyrs, that good is to be done; it is by the daily and quiet virtues of life—the christian temper, the meek forbearance, the spirit of forgiveness, in the husband, the wife, the father, the mother, the brother, the sister, the friend, the neighbor, that good is to be done.

PLASTER.—Mr. S. Hale, of Keene, N. H., says—"Plaster is used very generally on the Connecticut river meadows in this county with good effect. It is supposed to exhaust the land by increasing the crop. Land thus exhausted can be restored by the use of ashes. In Keene, which is situated in a valley, once the site of a lake, it has been often tried without benefit. The soil is sandy, formed by the disintegration of the rocks on the surrounding hills. Some of these contain sulphate of iron, most of them a greater or less proportion of lime."

Mr. Dean, of Manchester, Vt. writes—"Plaster, ashes and lime are the best fertilizers for our lands. Plaster is worth $10 per ton; ashes and lime, 16 cents per bushel. Twenty bushels of the latter applied once in three years is my method."

Mr. Wells writes from Northampton, Ms.—"Plaster is used here to some extent on warm lands, and would be much more used were it not for the expense, as it costs $9 to $10 per ton. Bone dust has lately been introduced, and has proved very beneficial, although the quantity as yet used is small. If lime could be had at a price which would justify its use, it would add much to the products of our lands."

Those who are incapable of shining but by dress, would do well to consider that the contrast between them and their clothes turns out much to their disadvantage.

It is the liberty of the selfish man to make all others subservient to himself. The upshot of which is, that all become slaves to him, and he becomes slave to himself, because he has no power in the free volition, or in the equilibrations of a rational mind, to control the burblings forth of his own ungovernable passions—which, however controlled by external restraints, such as the fear of the loss of life, of honor, of wealth, or of power, are but the pent fires of a furious volcano, that ever and anon break forth in burning and desolating lavas! "Who soever committeth sin is the servant of sin."

He is a great simpleton who imagines that the chief power of wealth is to supply wants. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, it creates more wants than it supplies.

Self-knowledge is said to be the way to virtue; it would be more correct to say, that virtue is the way to self-knowledge. A pure mind like a diamond, is clouded by the slightest defilement, and does not see till after its purification how many specks and stains still disfigure its holes and corners.

No man has the right to expect a good fortune, unless he goes to work and deserves it.

How strong is a kind word! It will do what the harsh word, or even a blow, cannot do.

Depreciate no one—an atom has a shadow.

Few have learnt to speak this word when it should be spoken,
 Resolution is deferred, vows to virtue broken.
 More of courage is required this one word to say,
 Than to stand where shots are fired in the battle fray.
 Use it fitly, and ye'll see many a lot below,
 May be schooled and nobly ruled by the power to utter "No."

RENOVATION OF MOWING LANDS—I sometime since visited the dairy farm of Mr. C. Hunter, adjoining the Blockley Asylum, near Philadelphia, where I witnessed just the plan which you must pursue. A meadow, say ten acres, had become hide bound; this he ploughed up by means of a Scotch plough—small furrows of course—in Autumn, and in the Spring planted corn in four feet rows, keeping the crop clean as a garden. This land was ploughed in reaches or ridges of 10 furrows so soon as the corn was removed, and upon these Mediterranean wheat was sown and harrowed in by means of a set of small seed-harrows, the two horses walking in the furrows, when twice was sufficient. As soon as the wheat was harvested, four furrows were struck up the open furrows of the ridges, to form a road for the dung cart to pass on, and upon these the dung from the cattle yard was deposited in heaps, four to a load, until the whole field was apportioned off. When the dung had all been carried on, the remainder of the land was ploughed, the open furrows being left deep and well defined, and then the dung from the heaps was carefully spread over all as a top dressing, and after a harrowing with the abovesaid seed harrows—the horses again walking in the furrows—the best kinds of mowing grass seeds were sown with an abundant allowance, upon which was sprinkled a pound per acre of turnip seed, when a slight harrowing finished the whole of the labor; with the land enriched, its bowels clean, and plentifully stowed with another meal.

I was shown the adjoining meadow from which a crop of hay had been carried, of unprecedentedly stout and excellent growth; with the dairy of about forty cows feeding on the aftermath, that had been treated in precisely the same manner, and was assured that nothing could be found equal to the mode adopted. Here now, so far from there being a loss, a gain of a crop had been made during these two years—first, a crop of corn of most remarkable growth, worth quite the fee-simple of the land in many parts of the country; second, a crop of wheat, 'the best in those parts'; third, a crop of turnips, which were drawn and fed to the dairy cows and young stock, before and during winter; while the crop of hay the next year was three times as much in quantity and good in quality as it had before been. And with the old sward perfectly decomposed—an amount of vegetable matter, as has been ascertained, of about sixteen tons per acre—and a plentiful dressing of farmyard dung given to the turnips and grass seed, it was calculated, that the gain would be doubled for the remainder of the lease.

AMBITION is like a wild horse, which prances unceasingly until it has thrown off its rider.

THERE is nothing like a fixed, steady aim. It dignifies your nature and insures your success.

GRATITUDE is the music of the heart, when its chords are swept by the breeze of kindness.

THOUGH we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us, or we find it not.

IN whatever you engage, pursue it with a steadiness of purpose, as though you were determined to succeed.

If we are convinced that this or that is a virtue, we are incomplete, unfaithful, and self-contradictory, until we have made it ours.

Idleness is hard work for those who are not used to it, and dull work for those who are.

If fortune with a smiling face strew roses on your way,
When shall we stoop to pick them up? To-day, my love, to day.
But should she frown with face of care, and talk of coming sorrow,
When shall we grieve, if grieve we must? To-morrow, love, to-morrow.

CURE FOR SMUT IN WHEAT.—A correspondent of the Gennese Farmer thinks he has discovered an entirely new remedy for smut in wheat. His idea is worth considering, though it may not prove all that he claims for it.

I am an old farmer, and I have been in the business of cultivating wheat for more than thirty years, and I have heretofore raised a large quantity of smut. I have tried all the preventives that I have seen recommended in the Farmer, without an entire cure; but for the last ten years I raised no smut. I will now state my former practice, when I did raise smut, and my present practice, and I hope other farmers will try the experiment, and I think they will give up the practice of steeping their seed wheat in any solution whatever; neither will they need a sieve to separate the large seed from the small; if it is ripe and sound it will not bring smut.

I formerly harvested my seed very green, or in other words, before it was fully ripe, and made use of the same for seed, I always raised plenty of smut. At length my bump of caution whispered to me, "You cut your seed wheat too green," and from that time I have selected the part of my wheat field that ripens evenest, and let it stand until it is dead ripe, and until the heads appear weather beaten, and I have raised no smut since I have followed the above rule.

Some seasons my wheat does not ripen even, and if I find a green head when I am cutting my seed wheat, I throw it out; for I am fully of the opinion that a small unripe grain of wheat, if it vegetates at all, will bring smut. Such a grain contains but a very small particle of vitality, and a strong solution of salt, vitriol or lime will sometimes destroy that vitality, so that the grain does not vegetate; and here is where farmers are mistaken—they suppose they destroy the smut when in fact it is the unripe, sickly grain which produces smut, that they destroy.

DISINFECTING AGENT.—Rooms in which, from any cause, there arises an unpleasant odor, may be freed of the obnoxious effluvia, by placing a few kernels of coffee on a hot shovel, and allowing the aroma, or smoke, to be freely disseminated. It will dispel effectually the most powerful odor arising from putrid animal or vegetable matter. It has been much used and with excellent success, in localities infected by cholera.

A PURE mind can derive more enjoyment from this world, and from the senses, than an impure mind. This is true even of the lowest senses.

A CORRECT taste is ever the concomitant of a chaste mind; for as a celebrated author has justly observed, "our taste commonly declines with our merit."

The proper element of man is constant activity. The waters of life are like those of the Bethesda pool—it is only when they are agitated that they are healthful.

In times of national disorder, great men rise to the summit of affairs as certainly as the large lumps come to the top when you shake a sugar bowl.

Birds of Paradise always fly against the wind, and heavenly-minded souls move against the current.

Let your inclination be to those who advise, rather than to those who praise your conduct.

Things which men call the causes of their melancholy are often the effects of it.

If those who've wronged us own their faults, and kindly pity pray,
 When shall we listen and forgive? To-day, my love, to-day.
 But if stern justice urge rebuke, and warmth from memory borrow,
 When shall we chide—if chide we dare? To-morrow, love, to-morrow.

ANNOTTA DYE.—This beautiful summer color is one of the readiest known to the good house-wife; but as there are some who have to make it, we will give them the simple direction. First, be careful to procure the article pure, as it is one very subject to adulteration. Cut it into small pieces and boil it in soft water with an equal weight of pearlash, in a copper boiler, say one pound to four gallons of water. Rinse the articles to be dyed, in clean water, and then dip them in the dye and air them and then let them boil some time; take out and rinse. The quantity of annotta used must be regulated entirely by the depth of color required. A little experience will soon teach that.—[Am. Agriculturist.

TO KEEP UP A SASH.—To keep up a window sash at any desired height, bore a few holes into each side of the sash or of the window frame, and insert in them common bottle corks, allowing them to project about one-fifteenth of an inch. The elasticity of the corks, and their pressure, will accomplish the desired object.

PRUNING.—Spring is not the most favorable time for pruning fruit trees, as the wounds do not heal so readily, and decay is more likely to ensue. Very small limbs may be removed at any time; but if it is necessary to cut away large limbs, the latter part of summer or autumn is to be preferred.

RECIPT FOR CHAPPED HANDS.—Melt together equal parts of tallow and white wax; to this add as much olive oil as will give it the consistence of shaving cream, when cold. A few drops of the oil of roses will greatly improve it.

CHEAP BLACKING FOR HARNESSES.—Melt two ounces of mutton suet with six ounces of bees' wax; add six ounces of soft soap, and one ounce of powdered indigo; melt and mix well, and add a gill of turpentine. Lay it on with a sponge, and polish with a brush.

A loving heart incloses within it-self an unfading and eterna' Eden.

Our wishes are but the idle blossoms of the tree of human life, seldom bearing fruits.

NONE go to heaven but those who have a taste for it on earth.

GOLD is but a poor legacy in comparison with immortal thought. The one is human, worthless; the other divine, invaluable.

SOME there are who gaze intently into the well of truth, but only in hopes of seeing their own image reflected in it.

THE more tender and delicate the blossoms of joy, the purer must be the hand that will cull them.

THE chief source of human discontent is to be looked for, not in the real, but in our fictitious wants: not in the demands of nature, but in the artificial cravings of desire.

SIN is a kind of insanity. So far as it goes, it makes a man an irrational creature: it makes him a fool. The consummation of sin is ever, and in every form, the extreme of folly. And it is that most pitiable folly which is puffed up, with arrogance and self-sufficiency.

As a general thing, the less a man reads the more loquacious he is. Put a dozen ignoramuses in a room, and they will wrangle all night about the "constitutionality of a saw mill."

ALWAYS be good natured. A few drops of oil will do more to start the most stubborn machinery than all the vinegar in the world.

THE blossoms of bayberry blast grain in their vicinity. Bad temper.

ALWAYS get hold of your night-cap before you blow the candle out.

If those to whom we owe a debt, are harmed unless we pay,
 When shall we struggle to be just? to-day, my love, to day.
 But if our debtors fail our hope, and plead his ruin thorough,
 When shall we weigh his breach of faith? to-morrow, love to-morrow.

FALL PLOUGHING.—Stiff clay lands intended for fall cultivation, are always improved by fall and winter ploughing; provided they are not ploughed when either too wet or too dry. If they need liming, lime, or marl, could not well be applied at a better time than just after they are ploughed. When applied, it should be harrowed in; such an application will make the lime or marl tell in the next year's crop.

ORCHARD TREES.—Examine these, cut off all dead limbs into the sound wood, make a smooth surface to the wound, and paint it with a mixture made of equal parts of beeswax, rosin, and tar; then brush the bark of the tree with a hard brush, and paint with a mixture of soft soap, salt and sulphur, but not too much salt. If the trees are covered with moss or ross, they should be scraped with an iron scraper, before the mixture is put on.

If not recently manured, or cultivated with a manured crop, you should treat your orchards to a dressing this fall. Unfair fruit, and unproductive trees, are the natural results of impoverished soils. A half-fed infant will be pany and diminutive, so will an apple:—neither can be vigorously grown, without pabulous food.

COOKED CORN MEAL will go further by 30 per cent., in fattening hogs, than will the unground and uncooked whole grain—and a saving of 15 or 20 per cent. may be effected by boiling the whole corn.

FATTENING HOGS.—Hogs fatten much better in weather moderately warm, than they do in cold; and for this reason; that in cold weather, more of the food is required to keep up the heat of their bodies, so that all abstracted in that way is a tax upon flesh and fat.

CHARCOAL, ashes, rotten wood and salt should at all times during the periods of fattening, be accessible to the hogs.

PATIENCE is very good, but perseverance is much better. While the former stands as a stoic under difficulties, the latter whips them out of the ring.

THE activities of an evil love gnaw as a deathless worm, and burn as a quenchless fire.

IF EVER, under Divine Providence, there was any mortal man entitled to stand forth, and be regarded, in all coming ages, as the peculiar type of civil and political freedom, or the great and wise advocate of all human enfranchisement, it was George Washington!

WHENEVER evil goes forth in any of its corresponding activities, it comes, more or less immediately, into bonds: while, nevertheless, the yearnings of its infernal desires are increased in the ratio of the restraining weights which are made to impend upon them—as smothered fires burn with a more intense heat.

LIFE in time is a probation for life in eternity. Whatever principles a man acts from in this mundane sphere determine his form and quality in that spiritual and celestial empyrean which is his soul's proper home. Consequently, all true elevation or depression of human character must be measured on the scale that marks the intervals between the upper and nether extremes of man's spiritual and celestial or sensual and animal natures. And whatever develops and strengthens by exercising the ruling passions of the one, must be formatively and actively evil; and whatever develops and strengthens by exercise, the ruling affections of the other, must be actively good.

If love, estranged, should once again her genial smile display;
When shall we kiss her proffered lips? To-day, my love, to-day.
But, if she would indulge regret, or dwell with by-gone sorrow,
When shall we weep—if weep we must? To-morrow, love, to-morrow.

STORING WINTER CABBAGES.—Such cabbages, at the extreme north, as you wish to keep good through the winter and early spring, may be pulled up by the roots, and arranging them in rows, with their heads downward, resting on the surface of the ground, so that their stalks will stand upright in the air; then they may be covered with straw and earth, so as to preserve them from rain and frost. Should the weather be unusually warm, the earth and straw should be opened to let in the air.

FIND A MODEL.—People seldom improve when they have no other model but themselves to copy.

VINEGAR FROM BEETS.—Good vinegar is an almost indispensable article in every family, many of which purchase it at a considerable annual expense; while some use but a very indifferent article; and others, for want of a little knowledge and less industry, go without. It is an easy matter however, to be at all times supplied with good vinegar, and that too, without much expense. The juice of one bushel of sugar beets, worth twenty-five cents, and which any farmer can raise without cost, will make from five to six gallons of vinegar, equal to the best made of cider or wine. Grate the beets, having first washed them, and express the juice in a cheese press, or in many other ways which a little ingenuity can suggest, and put the liquor into an empty barrel; cover the bung-hole with gauze and set it in the sun and in twelve or fifteen days it will be ready for use.—[Farmer and Mechanic.

IGNORANCE is content to stand still with her back to the truth; but error is more presumptuous, and proceeds in the same direction.

Most of the miseries of life result from our straying from the path which leads to content.

THE man that minds his own business has got a good steady employment.

THERE is no word in the great vocabulary of universal language which is so dear to the human heart as Freedom! The chords of the soul which vibrate to its sound, go down the deepest, spread the widest, and thrill the longest. The amount of human suffering and endurance to which the love of it prompts, would be utterly incredible, if the voice of history and all outward observation did not find an echo in the inmost recesses of every human breast—bearing incessant living testimony to the eternal truth, "Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also!" Certain it is, there is nothing for which all true men will peril more, or strive harder, than to gain their liberties or secure their rights. The very stuff of their immortal nature is woven, in every filament, from the fundamental principle, that "man is made to act in freedom according to reason."

YOUNG men are in general, but little aware how much their reputation is affected in the views of the public by the company they keep. The character of their associates is soon regarded as their own. If they seek the society of the worthy, it elevates them in the public estimation, as it is an evidence they respect others. On the contrary, intimacy with persons of bad character always sinks a young man in the eye of the public.

Be ashamed of nothing but your own errors.

One animal well fed is of more value than two poorly kept.

WHEN the heart is pure there is hardly anything which can mislead the understanding in matters of immediate personal concernment.

THE love of the beautiful, though natural in some degree to all, like other faculties of the mind, requires cultivation to insure its growth.

For virtuous acts and harmless joys the minutes will not stay ;
 We've always time to welcome them, to-day, my love, to-day.
 But care, resentment, angry words, and unavailing sorrow,
 Come far too soon, if they appear to-morrow, love, to-morrow.

HORSE SHOENING.—The following exceedingly sensible remarks are from the pen of Mr. Miles, Veterinary Surgeon to the Queen of England's Life Guards, and author of several valuable veterinary works. We recommend them most particularly to the notice of every person who has that valuable, and almost indispensable animal, the horse, in his charge. That class of persons very justly called by Surgeon Miles, as "assinine smiths," are invited to give their attention.

"The shoes of the horse should be of equal thickness throughout, with a flat ground surface, as those with high heels, which assinine smiths make in imitation of their own, are dangerously absurd. The toe, which ought to be raised, is thus lowered, and nature's plan reversed, which elevates the point in order to avoid obstructions. The web should be wide, and of the same width throughout, instead of being pinched in, because the Vulcan operator likes to see the shoe well set off at the heels. This is both unphilosophical and detrimental ; it deceives the eye of man, and injures the feet of the horse.—The outer edge of the foot rests on the inner edge of the shoe, and the remaining width of the web projects beyond the hoof ; so that the master who thinks his horse has a good open foot, only has to be proud of a bad open shoe, which both conceals deformities underneath, and invites with open arms a bad road to come and do its worst. The heels are made bare just where the navicular joint is most exposed ; and if that be inflamed, what must the agony be when the unprotected foot treads on a sharp flint ? The horse falls suddenly lame, or drops as if he had been shot—phrases in much too common use to require explanation ; and small is the pity which the suffering animal meets from man, who, first having destroyed the use of his victim's feet, abuses him because he cannot go ; and imputes "grogginess" to him as a crime, as if he were in liquor like a groom, and not in agony."

COLD BEDROOMS.—A person accustomed to undress in a room without a fire, and to seek repose in a cold bed, will not experience the least inconvenience, even in the severest weather. The natural heat of the body will very speedily render him even more comfortably warm than the individual who sleeps in a heated apartment, and in a bed artificially warmed, and who will be extremely liable to a sensation of chilliness as soon as the artificial heat is dissipated. But this is not all—the constitution of the former will be rendered more robust, and far less susceptible to the influence of atmospherical vicissitudes than that of the latter.—Journal of Health.

He who does his best, however little, is always to be distinguished from him who does nothing at all.

LET the domestic circle be the scene of woman's ministrations, her infant group the subjects for whom she legislates, and home the sphere where her influence is exerted by a well ordered life and godly conversation.

THERE are always two parties in the case of bargains—the gainer and the loser ; and while the one is delighted with the advantage he has obtained, he rarely thinks of the necessities which have forced the other party to accept the highest offer.

EVERY deed that is performed, every word that is spoken, is either on the side of the True or false. It may be but an atom in the scale, yet it is an atom for Right, or so much added to Wrong.

EVERY soul may, in its fullness of time, find the true object of its undying desires, and its vague longings may for ever be satisfied.—Rest, O, mortal, in this sublime faith of thy eternal destiny, and let it purify thy present life, and solace thee under the manifold afflictions that darken around thy mortal life.

This institution was established in 1828, and has done, and continues to do, a very successful business, having issued from Nov. 1, 1850, to Nov. 1, 1851, 4342 Policies, and increased the premium notes $103,168.

It has been managed with skill and economy, and has clearly demonstrated the utility, safety and cheapness (to members,) of the plan of mutual insurance, as adopted and practiced by the Directors of the Vermont Mutual. The advantages of the plans of business and principles of this Company, (as claimed by its friends) over others, are:

1st. The members are allowed to retain the money in their own hands until needed to meet the losses, which not only makes the Company safer, but makes it mutual—members being required only to pay their proportion of losses which happen while they are members.

2d. The rates charged for insurance upon the different kinds of property are arranged and adjusted upon data derived from actual results in a business of 24 years.

3d. There are local agents in most towns, who are better qualified to judge of the value of property to be insured, than travelling agents of other Companies: hence over insurance is avoided and the members have at hand a reliable person to whom they can apply for any information they may desire in relation to insurance.

4th. The Directors annually make out and submit to the members a report in detail, showing each item of the expenses of the Company—the amount of each loss, the kind of property lost, and by whom sustained; thus enabling the members to see what has become of the money which they have been called upon to pay.

5th. It is safer than any other Company, as it has (Nov. 1, 1851,) a capital of over $724,000 to meet losses.

The expense of insurance, we may add, is made mutual, as it costs a person who lives remote from the office no more than one who lives in Montpelier, as the postages to and from the office are paid by the Company, and the assessment forwarded each year by the members of the Legislature.

NATIONAL LIFE INSURANCE CO. U. S.

Office, Montpelier, Vermont.
— o —

Whole number of Policies issued to Oct. 31, 1851, 601; Amount at risk, $747,200. Assets, including Capital, $128,244 46; Losses paid, $4,600; other expenses, $6,010 61—amounting in all to $10,610 61; leaving resources of the Company Oct. 31, 1851, $117,653 85.

The Company in its Report to the Legislature, says:

“After an experience of twenty-one months business, and ample time for observation and reflection upon the subject, we see no cause to alter any of the plans of business, originally adopted—but are confirmed in their correctness;—founded as they are, on sound mathematical principles, which will infallibly, if strictly adhered to, guarantee to the Company, and those who may embrace it, the three important considerations indispensable in Life Insurance,—‘SECURITY, STABILITY, and PERPETUITY.’

“The amount of business in this early period of the Company, will compare favorably with that of the best institutions of the kind in Europe or the United States; and is much more for the true and permanent interest of the institution, than it would have been to have doubled it by adopting those illusory and fancy schemes so common in this country; but which might have been fatal to its permanency and usefulness. By recurring to the early history of the “London Equitable Society,” we find that in the first twelve years of its business, it issued but 734 policies, only 133 more than have been issued by this Company in the short period of its existence. That Company has been in most successful operation for a period of ninety years, and has now an accumulation of fifty millions of dollars, after paying many times that amount to its members. The principles and plans of business of the National Life Insurance Company, and of the London Equitable are very nearly identical.

“This Company has sustained nine losses by death of its members, and each case is a forcible illustration of the exceedingly beneficial operation of the institution.—and presents to all in a strong light the utility of making provision for the contingency of premature death, especially as such provision in a well constituted Mutual Company does not involve any pecuniary sacrifice whatever, but is merely the consecration of a part of one’s earnings or income to a sacred purpose—that of making a sure provision for those dependent upon him. In each of the cases the amount of the policy is believed to be almost the entire dependence of those for whose benefit the insurance was made, and a history of them would be a narrative more instructive and convincing of the importance and benefits growing out of Life Insurance than volumes upon the abstract principles of the science.”

The property insured in this company is divided into two separate and distinct Classes, to wit: FARMER'S CLASS, insuring only dwelling houses, barns and out-buildings, and personal property in like buildings, and MERCHANTS' & MECHANICS' CLASS, insuring all other property, not of an extra-hazardous character: each class being liable for its own losses and expenses, and not each for the other.

This company commenced business on the 9th of Feb. 1850, and up to this time has issued 4351 policies in both classes, insuring property to the amount of $3,310,725, taking notes to the amount of $138,065 56. Whole amount of losses examined and allowed to August 1, 1851, $3,696 28.

No Insurance Company in the State has ever met with such encouragement, or attained so great a degree of success, in so short a space of time, or more deservedly so, as the entire expenses since procuring the charter, (two years the 13th of November last,) including a large outlay for office furniture, books, printing, &c., &c. which will last for years to come, amount to only $3290 87; while the expenses of the Vt. Mutual company during the last year amounted to $6271 01; and the entire losses, expenses and abatements of both classes of this company, from its commencement to the first of Aug. 1851, are not so much by several hundred dollars as the expenses and abatements of that company for the past year!

The unprecedented success attending this company, now places it upon a permanent footing, where the Directors can most confidently assure the people of Vermont that in no other company can they insure their property with greater economy or safety to themselves; nor can they better bestow their patronage, than to encourage an institution chartered by the people of Vermont, for their own benefit, confined to its limits, and conducting its affairs upon the strictest principles of prudence, economy and fair dealing, so well established among the people of this State.

This Company was chartered for the purpose of insuring all descriptions of LIVE STOCK against death or damage from disease, or accident, and has done a successful business since February, 1851. This is a comparatively new branch of insurance in this State, but has become highly popular and beneficial in the old countries, and is being generally introduced into several of the States of this Union. The Directors earnestly invite the attention of Stock owners to this subject, confidently believing it will be found, upon examination, possessing the same merits and conferring equal benefits to those now universally conceded to the subject of Fire insurance.

CHURCH ORGANS

For $150.

THE subscriber manufactures an organ for the above price, which is superior, as an accompaniment for church music, to anything which has yet been invented, at a low price. It contains several stops, a pedal base with the improved organ pedals, and is susceptible of producing the same expression as the large and expensive church organs. This instrument obtained the premium at the last fair of the American Institute, and has received the warm approbation of all organists who have examined it. Committees of churches, and all interested, are respectfully invited to call and examine. Circulars containing an engraving of the organ, with a description and recommendations, forwarded by mail, when required.

BLACK WRITING INK.

THIS INK has stood the test of thirty years experience, and during this time has been constantly increasing in public favor and patronage, and is now the leading article in the country. It flows with freedom, becomes permanently black, does not mould under any circumstances, and is adapted to either metallic or quill pens.

Office of Merchants' Ins. Co.

Boston, Nov. 18, 1848.

Messrs. Maynard & Noyes,

I have used your Writing Ink for the last sixteen years. In 1840, I gave you a certificate of its excellence, and have continued its use ever since, to my entire satisfaction, my opinion is confirmed in its superiority. It flows freely from the pen, and is in all respects the best Ink I ever used. The other officers in the institution agree with me in the opinion here expressed. GEO. HOMER, Sec.

Boston, May 27, 1846.

For twenty years past I have had occasion to use ink daily and sometimes for the nicest penmanship; it flows freely from the pen, and occasionally, necessity or curiosity has led me to make use of the articles made by different individuals, but I can cheerfully state that I have never found any that combined so many good qualities as that made by Maynard & Noyes.

N. D. GOULD,

Teacher of Penmanship.

Registry Deeds,

Boston, Nov. 20, 1847.

Messrs. Maynard & Noyes,

I have made use of your Writing Ink for the recording of deeds, &c., for the past 25 years, and having found it to suit my wishes and purposes entirely, take pleasure in renewing my testimonial of its superiority. From the appearance of the Records in my Office, I am satisfied it is superior to any I have used, and consider it particularly adapted for all purposes, where permanency of color is requisite or desirable. It flows well from the pen, and does not mould; and my oldest Records prove its color to be unalterably black. H. ALLINE,

Register of Deeds.

Boston, Jan. 10, 1848.

Messrs. Maynard & Noyes,

Gentlemen,—It is now, I believe, more than twenty years since the School Committee passed an order for using your Black Writing Ink in the City Schools. I have used it during that period, and deem it a first rate article, and cheerfully recommend it to others. It flows freely from the pen, and increases in blackness after being committed to paper, and the color is durable. I know of no Ink equal to yours, and I have tried many kinds, both English & American. P. MACKINTOSH, JR.,

Principal of the Writing Dep.,
Hancock School.

Post Office, Boston, Oct. 2, 1849.

The Black Writing Ink, manufactured by Messrs. Maynard & Noyes, has been used in this office for several years past. Other Inks, have, during that time, been tested, but theirs has been in every instance preferred. For fluidity, blackness, and permanency, the three important requisites, none has been found equal to it.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

COPYING INK.

This Ink gives a copy as distinct and perfect as the original, and combines all the properties of our Writing Ink. This quality particularly adapts it for Counting-House use, as it answers all the purposes for which a Writing Liquid is wanted.

For Sale, Wholesale and Retail, by the Manufacturers, 11 Merchants' Row, Boston, and Stationers and Booksellers generally, in the City and States.

FLORENCE WHITE.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to this unchangeable Gloss White Paint for inside Painting.

This very important invention is worthy of special notice, particularly by those who have use for the article, it being really a beautiful as well as a most economical paint for Houses, Stores, Ship and Steamboat Cabins, &c., being unequalled by any White Paint known in the arts: as it is not affected by darkness or impure air, and cleansed without injury to its surface, as easily as China.

People are assured this is no humbug, or mere bubble of an experiment, but founded on correct principles in chemistry, invented and perfected by Messrs. HOLLI & WHEELER, by long tried experiments, before being offered to the public, which enables them to warrant the article, beyond a doubt, against changing or cracking if used according to their directions.

It has already attained a high character and popularity amongst those who have seen and used it, during the past two years, and is very rapidly coming into use in the New England States, giving the most entire satisfaction. Specimens which have been in existence 2 years or more, remain perfectly white, even in dark corners and behind articles of furniture, which are stationary.

It dries well and perfectly hard and is capable of being rubbed and as highly burnished as any cabinet work. Knots in wood are entirely concealed by this paint.

The expense compared with common paint is only 25 per ct. more, as 1 pound of this spreads over as much surface as 2 pounds of common paint. It is sold ready prepared for use, put up in neat packages of 12 and 24 lbs each; the price by package is 20 cts per lb, and requires about 1 gallon of the Florence liquid to thin 12 lbs ready to spread; the price of that is $2.50 per gallon which is our regular established price, or 25 cts. per lb. ready for use, in any less quantity than a whole package. On the whole, it cannot be considered otherwise than the most elegant, durable and economical White Paint, in use.

In relation to certificates of recommendations, we consider it entirely idle to trouble the public with a long list of such articles; if they are required to establish the truth of the foregoing remarks, we can produce them in any numbers. Some remarks in regard to the manner of using it may be useful.

DIRECTIONS.—First prepare the work with one or more coats of White Lead Paint perfectly flat, (or without gloss,) make as smooth a surface as possible and thin the Florence White with the Florence liquid, only; flow or spread it on as smooth as may be, observing always not to have a draft of air passing through the room until it has set; two coats of this will produce a fine gloss and elegant finish.

Sold at wholesale and retail by ASAHEL WHEELER, Proprietor, Artist and Painters' Supply Store,
No. 59, Union Street, BOSTON.

Officers.

FERRAND F. MERRILL, President,
D. P. THOMPSON, Vice President,
SETH THOMPSON, Secretary,
ORREN SMITH, Treasurer and Medical Examiner.

DIRECTORS.

Ferrand F. Merrill, D. P. Thompson, Henry Y. Barnes, James T. Thurston, Henry M. Bates, Orren Smith, J. W. Ellis, W. T. Burnham, I. W. Brown, R. F. Andrews, Jacob Scott, Azel Spaulding, Seth Thompson, Pliny H. White, A. W. Wilder, John Weston, Geo. S. Shaw, Abel K. Warren.

This association was chartered Nov. 19, 1851. It has now been in operation one year. Its success has fully equalled the expectations of its friends, and warrants the belief, that health insurance in VERMONT, judiciously and economically managed, may be as beneficial, safe and permanent, as any other kind of insurance.

NOTE.—By an act passed by the Legislature of Vermont on the 23d of Nov., A. D. 1852, no Health Insurance Company, not incorporated by this state, can effect insurances in this state, unless such company shall deposit with the Treasurer of the state securities to the amount of $10,000, and comply with the other requirements of said act.

DANIEL BURGESS & CO., No. 60, John Street, New York City.

Late CADD and BURGESS, offer to the Trade the following

SCHOOL BOOKS,

Which are constantly increasing in favor and circulation. They claim these superior merits for them: Perfect correctness in the subject matter, which is brought up to the present time. The union of simplicity of expression with beauty of style. Lessening the labor of the teacher and increasing the interest of the pupil. Every one complete in itself, discarding entirely the abridgment character. Splendid and profuse illustrations, from engravings on wood, stone and steel, colored in the highest style of the art, and serving always a direct and practical purpose. The cheapest as well as the best books in the market.

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations, all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 1-4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising or setting, (as the case may be) given in the Almanac, and also 3 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 23d of September. On that day, according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 8 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 8 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 52m in the morning, and 5h 52m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon at his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 52m, leaving 5h 48m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 52m, which gives 5h 56m for the time of his setting on the 23d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked Sun South is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or, in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example, when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

The column marked Sun's Declination, Sun's Semi-Diameter, and Equation of time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

The results in the above table are deduced from three daily observations made at sunrise, 1 P. M. and 9 P. M., amounting to 1095 observations in the year. The warmest day in the year was Sept. 10th, the mean heat of which was 80°. The greatest heat in the shade was 92°, on the 10th of September. The coldest day was February 8th, the average of which was 11° 3' below zero. The greatest cold was in the morning of Feb. 8, and Dec. 28, when the thermometer was 17° below zero. Range of the Thermometer 109°. The year 1851 was 0.37 colder than the mean of the preceding 13 years. Range of the Barometer from 30.60 in. (Feb. 16) to 31.83 in. (Jan. 29) equal to 1.89 in. The fall of water (in rain and snow) 31.83 in. was 0.41 inch less than the average annual fall in the preceding 13 years. The greatest fall in any one of those years was in 1847, when it amounted to 38.55 inches. The fall of snow (71 inches,) differed but little from the mean annual quantity at Burlington. The Lake opposite to Burlington froze over February 1, which was about the usual time of closing, and continued closed till the 12th of March, and was not clear of ice till the 31st. Boats commenced running April 7; went into winter quarters Nov. 28. The water of the Lake was highest on the 16th of April, being then 2 feet below extreme high water-mark, and lowest on the 13th of October, being 7 feet 7 1-2 inches below high water—change of level of the Lake in the year, 5 feet 7 1-2 inches. The greatest change of level which has been observed is about 8 feet. During the year, there were 86 days of tolerable sleighing, viz: from Jan. 1, to Feb. 13, and from Nov. 18 to the close of December. Robins appeared March 20, Bluebirds 22, Crowbirds and Long Sparrows 26, Meadow Larks and Flycatchers April 6, White-bellied Swallows 18, Barn Swallows 25. White Elm in blossom April 15, Arbutus 12, Red Maple 19, Liverleaf and Blood-root 24, Venus' Pride 23, Gooseberries May 7, Currants 9, Plums and Pears 15, Siberian Crab Apple 21, common Apple 24, ten days earlier than last year.

The greatest rain storm in 1851, was on the 22d and 23d of June, and the fall of water in those two days was 5.16 inches. The months of November and December were more than 5 degrees colder than the average of those months for the 13 preceding years.

EVIDENCE OF FOLLY.—Refusing to take a newspaper, and being surprised that people laugh at your ignorance.

“I HAVE tried the world and found its emptiness. It cannot fill and satisfy the human mind. My dear sir, how utterly disconsolate should we be without something better beyond the grave.”—Henry Clay.

MOST EMINENT MEN, who have astonished the world by the amount as well as the vigor of their writings, have been early risers.

Let us not too much demand
Of a fellow-creature's life,
Let us rather bear a hand
To assist him in the strife;
We may have had power to win
Just what God forbiddeth him.

THE GOOD FARMER.—And who is the good farmer? is a question that may well be asked.

From the fact that many have erroneous ideas about the proper management of the farm, first, we may ask, is it the one that can boast of tilling the greater number of acres? Is it one that can tell you of the large surface he has gone over, yet cannot inform you of the mode or management of preparation, or the means he has employed in fertilizing the soil,—in which lies the secret of neat and profitable farming? Is it the one that plants and sows more than he can attend to in a proper manner, and consequently meets a loss of time, seed and land? Or is it the one that keeps double the number of stock his pasture will afford grazing for, and therefore cannot keep them in a good condition, so perchance they find their way into his neighbor's field to appease their hunger? We contend that such examples cannot come within the range of good farming. And they are not uncommon in their occurrence,—we might cite you to many such of our acquaintance.

But the good farmer never makes his calculations beyond his means, and his power to fulfil. He never tills more land than he can till properly, and perform the amount of labor necessary to secure to himself an abundant harvest. He never allows one crop to succeed another, unless the land is manured or otherwise enriched, so as to preserve its fertility, and enable him to reap bountifully. And the number of stock is proportioned to the number of acres he has under improvement, and no more than he can keep in a thriving condition.

And allow us here to remark, the good farmer enjoys that happiness and plenty which flow from a well regulated system of cultivating the soil—he is free from those vexations and cares which continually harass him who has no system or order in his farm affairs.—[Rural New Yorker.

MAXIMS FOR PARENTS AND TEACHERS.—Never give reproof if it can be avoided, while the feelings of either party are excited. If the parent or teacher be not calm, his influence is diminished, and a bad example is set. If the child is excited or provoked, he will not feel the force of argument or rebuke. On the other hand, do not defer too long. Seize the first favorable opportunity while the circumstances are fresh in the memory. Reprove each fault as it occurs, and do not suffer them to accumulate, lest the offender be discouraged by the amount.

CURRYING.—Cattle are well known to thrive much better where this operation is thoroughly performed; and Dr. B. Rush, in a lecture upon the advantages of studying the diseases of domestic animals, states that there is an improvement in the quality of milk, and an increase in its quantity, which are obtained by currying the cow.

TRAINING STEERS.—By far the best time to train steers is when they are calves, the first winter. A person can then manage them with ease, and put them under good discipline, and they will never forget it. Let the training be done by a person of discretion, and not allow boys who were never trained themselves to do this by way of a frolic.—[Green Mountain Farmer.

A PUNCTUAL man can always find leisure, a negligent one never.

WHATEVER creed be taught, or land be trod,
Man's conscience is the oracle of God.

WIT is brushwood, judgment like the solid timber. One makes the brighter flame, the other gives the most durable heat.

Close thine ear to those who open their mouths against others.

Let us not too harshly speak
Of a fellow creature's fall,
Let us rather help the weak
To escape pollution's thrall;
Some temptation we despise
May have won his heart and eyes.

TO PROMOTE THE HEALTH OF CATTLE.—Mix, occasionally, one part of salt with four, five or six parts of wood ashes, and give the mixture to different kinds of stock, summer and winter. It promotes their appetites, and tends to keep them in a healthy condition. It is said to be good against bots in horses, murrain in cattle, and rot in sheep.

Horse-radish root is valuable for cattle. It creates an appetite, and is good for various diseases. Some give it to any animal that is unwell. It is good for oxen troubled with the heat. If animals will not eat it voluntarily, cut it up fine and mix it with potatoes or meal.

Feed all animals regularly. They not only look for their food at the usual time, but the stomach indicates the want at the stated period. Therefore, feed, morning noon and evening, as near the same time as possible.

Guard against the wide and injurious extremes of satiating with excess and starving with want. Food should be of a suitable quality, and proportioned to the growth and fattening of animals, to their production in young and milk, and to their labor or exercise. Animals that labor need far more food, and that which is far more nutritious, than those that are idle.

Guard all descriptions of stock against cold and exposure, especially against cold storms of rain, sleet and damp snow, and against lying out on the cold ground in cold nights, in the spring and fall.

In a dry time, see that animals have a good supply of pure water. When the fountains are low, they drink the drainings of fountains, streams, and passages of water, which are unwholesome.

If barns and stables are very tight and warm, ventilate in mild weather, even in winter.

In feeding animals on apples or roots, begin with a small quantity and gradually increase it. It would be better to have all changes made gradually.—[American Veterinarian.]

SKILL IN FARMING.—Skill adds more to the profits of farming than hard work. In the article of butter, for instance, the same outlay is required, or nearly the same, to make a hundred pounds of poor butter as would be required to make a hundred pounds of that which is good. But, when the two articles are marketed, there may be five or six dollars of clear extra profit in the pocket of the skillful dairyman. The importance of scientific knowledge is realized by those who have found such benefits as is noted above in nearly every department of their labor.

APPLE PUDDING.—Stew some tender apples; if the apples are juicy, they will require very little water to cook them; add to one pound of the mashed apple, whilst it is hot, a quarter of a pound of butter, and sugar to the taste. Beat four eggs and stir in when the apple is cold.

Butter the bottom and sides of a deep pudding dish, strew it very thickly with bread crumbs, put in the mixture, and strew bread crumbs plentifully over the top. Set it in a tolerably hot oven, and when baked, sift sugar over. This is good with a glass of rich milk. It is a good substitute for pie, and can be eaten by those who cannot partake of pastry.—[National Cook Book.]

Would you be happy all day long.

Pursue the right, abhor the wrong.

Be very slow to believe yourself wiser than all others.

WHEN the soul is ready to depart, what avails it whether a man die on the throne or in the dust.

Let us not too rashly judge
 Of a fellow-creature's faith,
 Let us rather waive the grudge,
 And attend him what he saith;
 He may have some doubt to tell
 That with us did never dwell.

SAP BOILING.—Persons boiling sap to make sugar, or doing any other boiling work, can prevent their kettles boiling over, by hanging over the liquid boiled, a tin vessel containing cold water or snow. The liquid will boil up until it comes in contact with the cold tin, and will be checked without delay caused by pouring in something cold. In boiling sap, the cooling vessel should be as small as possible to be serviceable, to prevent its collecting too much of the vapor, which will drop into the kettle to be boiled out again.

FARMERS' DWELLINGS.—We need a great improvement in this respect; we need a distinctive rural style of building—comfort and convenience combined with neat and simple elegance. Nothing expensive, gaudy or obtrusive, but graceful in form, chaste in ornament, with quiet, neutral colors, sweetly blended with the surrounding green, all breathing an air of peaceful, calm repose, on which the eye may rest with pleasure. I would gladly enlarge upon this did time permit. The house should not only be sheltered, but adorned with trees—none more beautiful than those of our forests.

A few choice fruit trees of various kinds, with grapes and smaller fruits which need but little care, with flowering shrubs and ornamental climbers, should be there. None of the adornments of beauty are more graceful or attractive than fragrant and blooming vines around the rustic porch. And let there be a garden, too—it need not be a large one—not the unsightly patch of neglected earth sometimes so misnamed, intended for potatoes and cabbages, but filled with burdock and nettles; but a neatly arranged plot for shrubs and flowers, laid out with taste and kept with care—cultivate a taste for flowers, and teach your children to love them. In doing so you give them new sources of pleasure—new facilities for enjoyment. And do not deem the time they bestow upon them lost time; it is well bestowed, and will yield a return in pure and simple joy, and the cheerful love of home.—[Address of T. D. Burrall.

TO BAKE APPLES.—Sweet apples, properly baked and eaten with milk, are excellent. The best method of baking tart apples is to take the fairest and largest in size, wipe them clean if thin skinned, and pare them, if the skin is thick and tough; cut the largest portion of the core from one end, and place the fruit on well-glazed earthen dishes or pans, with the end which has been cored upward, and fill the cavity with refined powdered sugar. Then place them in the oven or other apparatus for baking, until sufficiently cooked. Take them out, and when cold they are perfectly delicious.

An Englishman having asked a son of Erin if the roads in Ireland were good, the Irishman replied: "Yes; they are so fine that I wonder that you do not import some of them into England. Let me see; there is the road to love, strewn with roses; to matrimony, through nettles; to honor, through the camp; to prison, through the law; and to the undertakers, through physis." "Have you any road to preferment?" asked the Englishman, "Yes, faith, we have, but that is the dirtiest road in the kingdom."

One never loses by doing a good turn.

The most beautiful may be the most admired and caressed, but they are not always the most esteemed and loved.

EXTREMES of fortune are true wisdom's test,
And he's of men most wise who bears them best.

FRUGALITY is a most commendable virtue, especially with those who have no money.

Let us always bear in mind
What from man to man is due,
How we need that human kind
Should forgive and love us too ;
And afford a helping hand,
When we've fallen where they stand.

SOWING GRASS SEED.—Farmers, as well as other people, like to make good bargains. Some of the worst bargains they make is with themselves. For example,—to save five dollars of seed they lose twenty dollars of hay or pasture. By way of experiment, and to exhibit the advantages of a good supply of seed, the writer sowed in the spring of 1850 a piece of ground to grass, at the rate of one bushel per acre, or half a bushel of clover and the same quantity of timothy. In less than two months, the field afforded a prodigious amount of pasturage,—full twice as much through the season by estimate as ordinary good pastures. The present year the grass was allowed to grow for hay, which has just been cut and drawn in, (7 mo. 10, 1851,) and the product was found to be three and a half tons per acre. Where can we find a permanent pasture or meadow that will do this ? The soil was of ordinary fertility only, or would not probably have yielded more than 25 bushels of corn per acre. The amount of pasturage afforded by the second growth of this grass field fully warranted the belief that a ton and a half per acre might have been again cut, making five tons of hay per acre in all, for one year.

The hay produced where plenty of grass seed is sown, is of much better quality than where the stalks stand thin on the ground.—[Albany Cultivator.]

LIMA BEANS AND MELONS.—To get beans early, and to prevent the seed rotting in the soil, plant them on pieces of inverted turf, and cover them an inch or two deep with rich mould. These pieces of turf may be placed in a hot-bed, or in a fermenting heap of manure ; and it will be found convenient to place a number of them in a shallow box together, until they have appeared above ground. If a piece of turf is laid upon each until they are well sprouted, it will serve to retain what comes up from below, but it must be timely removed. Melons and cucumbers may be started in the same way. Their growth may be advanced, and the young melons protected from bugs, by setting four common bricks round each hill, and covering with a pane of glass. When they have grown up to the glass, they will need no further protection, and the whole box is at once removed. A single square box, open at top and bottom, six or eight inches high, made tight round each hill, will nearly or wholly exclude bugs from melons, cucumbers, and squashes.

HINTS TO LADIES.—Stair carpets shou'd always have a slip of paper under them at and over the edge of every stair, which is the part which they first wear out, in order to lessen the friction of the carpet against the boards beneath. The strips should be within an inch or two as long as the carpet is wide, and about four or five inches in breadth, so as to lie a distance from each stair. This simple plan, so easy of execution, will, we know, preserve a stair carpet half as long again as it would last without the strips of paper.

POTATOE CULTURE.—A dry, light, sandy soil now yields the soundest and most palatable potatoes. Subsoiling for this crop has been attended with great benefit. Good short hog manure is the best for potatoes. A handful of plaster on a hill just as the plants break ground is also beneficial ; and unslacked wood ashes are of great benefit. Two hundred bushels per acre ought always to be raised.

We celebrate nobler obsequies to those we love, by drying the tears of others, than by shedding our own; and the fairest funeral wreath we can hang on their tomb, is not so fair as a fruit offering of good deeds.

In character, manner and style, the supreme excellence is simplicity.

We are not of equal mould—
 We have different lots to bear,
 Some have heritage of gold,
 Some have toil, and want and care ;
 We should not our brother blame,
 Till our lives are made the same.

APPLE TREE BORERS.—In New England there is no greater pest to the cultivator than the Apple Tree Borer. In some parts it has destroyed whole orchards. Many persons, in fact most persons, fold their hands in despair, and let the trees die. I have done better by the help of the Horticulturist—having profited by the directions given by the Editor three or four years ago. These directions are the only ones that I have seen that strike directly at the root of the matter—that is to say, by preventing the Borer in a winged state, the last of May and first of June, from depositing its eggs in the bark of the tree, and thereby laying the foundation of a new brood. The old mode of killing the borers, by pushing wires into their holes in the trunk of the tree, is good so far as it goes—but it only goes half way, since, if you succeed in killing all the grubs in that tree, a fresh set may fly over from your neighbor's trees, as soon as the grubs hatch out, and lay their eggs in yours. The plan recommended by the Editor of the Horticulturist does the whole business:

First, kill all the grubs in the trunk of the tree, by pushing a wire up the holes far as as possible. Then take a pail—fill it half full of thin soft-soap, and stir in enough tobacco water to make it two-thirds full. Having first scraped off any loose bark, next apply this tobacco and soap paint with a stiff brush, to every part of the trunk, and larger limbs—putting it on especially thick at the “crotches,” and the base of the trunk—the places where the borer likes best to deposit its eggs. If this is done early in May, I can answer from experience for its efficacy. No Borer will deposit her eggs in bark coated over in this way. All the merit of this prescription belongs to you, the Editor, and not to your humble servant,
 A. R. C.

Rhode Island, April. 1852.

We may add to the foregoing, that the soap and tobacco mixture, painted over the trunks of other trees, as ash, peach, &c., infected with Borers, is equally effectual. The main point is to get it on before the insect comes out in its winged state—and south of Baltimore that is usually before this time. North of that point, the early part of May will answer.—[Horticulturist. Ed.

LICE ON APPLE TREES.—A friend from Pittston has sent to our office a branch of an apple tree all encrusted over with little greenish scales that look like minute muscle shells.

They are not uncommon on young apple trees, but are a serious trouble, and very injurious to their growth. They are formed by a little fly, which lays an egg or two on the branch, and then covers them over by this scale which protects them from the weather. Here they lie until hatched by the warmth of spring, when the worm perforates them and creeps out. If examined by a glass of moderately magnifying power, they can be clearly seen.

A good method to prevent and destroy these, is to make a lather of whale oil soap, or if that cannot be obtained, common soft soap of the kitchen will do. Take it in the hand and rub it on. It is said a wash of quassia wood, steeped in water, will destroy them. A lye made of a pound of potash to two gallons of water, and applied with a swab, is sometimes used—or a lye made of common wood ashes, not very strong, may be applied in the spring, before the leaves start.

A MAN that reads much should have powerful organs of intellectual digestion ; he will otherwise receive but little nutriment into his mind, and, what is worse, will derange the healthy functions of his mental system.

TAKE some good family newspaper and pay for it in advance.

It is harshness to require
 Of our fellow-creature man,
 That he do what we desire—
 If he do the best he can—
 Though he gather little store—
 We ourselves can do no more.

MANURE FOR STRAWBERRIES.—While on this subject we may as well give those of our readers who wish to cultivate a bed, only, of strawberries, the following mode of manuring them, as practiced by a cultivator in Philadelphia, and communicated to the "Friend's Review," published in that city by Friend Tatem. The writer had a very productive bed 30 by 40 feet. I applied, says he, about once per week, for three times, commencing when the green leaves first begin to start, and making the last application just before the plants were in full bloom, the following preparation:—Nitrate of potash, (saltpetre,) glauher salts, and sal soda, (carbonate of soda,) each one pound—nitrate of ammonia, one quarter of a pound—dissolving them in 30 gallons of river or rain water. One third of this was applied at a time; and when the weather was dry I applied clear soft water between the times of using the preparation, as the growth of the young leaves is so rapid that, unless supplied with water, the sun will scorch them. I used a common watering pot, making the application towards evening. Managed in this way, and the weeds kept out, there is never any necessity of digging over the bed, or setting it out new. Beds of ten years are not only as good, but better than those two or three years old.

TREATMENT OF STRAWBERRIES JUST BEFORE FRUITING.—We have repeatedly urged the importance and shown the advantage of irrigation; but where this cannot be adopted in practice, mulching is a good substitute. The following mode of treatment is described by J. Cuthill, in Hovey's Magazine, as practiced by Joseph Myatt, the celebrated strawberry raiser, and by himself. "Having no water near him, Mr. Myatt depends entirely upon the immense quantity and quality of his manure for keeping the ground moist, together with a good coat of straw; but where manure is scarce, perhaps my plan, which I have practiced for many years, would be the best. I always mulch between the rows with fresh straw, mixed with horse droppings, laying it on at least an inch in thickness, just when the plants are coming into flower; and if the weather is dry, I water frequently, but not over the flowers, until all the fruit is set. By the time the latter is ripe, the strength of the manure is washed down among the roots when they most want it, leaving the straw clean and sweet.

Spent tan has been extensively recommended and considerably used for mulching strawberries. But N. Longworth of Cincinnati, who never adopts anything hastily, says, "Tan I have discarded; it soon rots and renders the fruit dirty. In its green state it injures the flavor of the fruit. I prefer the old covering, from which the plant takes its name, cut straw."—[Albany Cultivator.

TO KILL BRAKES.—I wish to tell the young farmer, who enquires the best method to kill brakes, how to do it. Mow them twice in June. The sap runs freely in June, and mowing them at that time will kill them. Witch grass, cockle weed, and wild pink, can be destroyed by sowing the ground to winter grain—yellow weed by pasturing with sheep on the ground.

We discover great beauty in those who are not beautiful, if they possess genuine truthfulness, simplicity, and sincerity.

DERIDE not the unfortunate.

DR. JOHNSON bring once in company with some scandal-mongers, one of them having accused an absent friend of resorting to rouns; he observed, "It is, perhaps, after all, much better for a lady to redden her own cheeks, than to blacken other people's characters."

It is incumbent on every one to make himself useful.

Let this, then, our judgment be
 Of our brothers here below—
 While so much we cannot see,
 While so much we cannot know—
 “He does well who does his best,”
 Let us leave with God the rest.

SAVING MANURE.—J. N. Smith, of South Walpole, Mass., in a late No. of the Plough, Loom and Anvil, makes the following remarks relative to manures :

The subject of manures, although it has been thoroughly discussed in agricultural prints, and ideas concerning it flung before the people, yet in regard to that there is room for great improvement. It is the farmer's mine of wealth ; and the main object of the successful farmer should be to retain all its value, and apply it to the best advantage in raising the most profitable crops. The process of intermixing peat, mud, or loam with manure, is of recent origin ; and there are very few probably at the present day who use sufficient quantities of the former to preserve all their manure, and thereby render it most suitable for the production of any crop. My manner of proceeding, in regard to manure, is this : I usually cart about thirty horse-loads of loam into my yard, to be spread, to save the urine and droppings of my cattle. In the summer and fall, or at all times when not frozen, I proceed to the yard with my shovel every morning, and fling the droppings of the cattle into heaps, which I cover over with fresh mould, brought into the yard once or twice a week ; this, frequently flung over, and afterwards mixed with that on the bottom of the yard, which is well saturated with urine, makes a very valuable manure, and also saves all the valuable parts of it. Manure in the winter, in the cellar, should be well mixed with loam, when not frozen too hard to prevent using to advantage. I usually spread two or three horse-loads of loam per week on my manure in the barn cellar. My stock numbers eight. By adding this quantity, the manure is much improved for any crop. This is, in my opinion, the cheapest and best method of managing my manure.

RECLAIMING SWAMPS.—The Editor of the Michigan Farmer says, that the application of 25 loads of clay per acre, to drained swamp, produced a wonderful effect in fitting it for wheat in an experiment he witnessed in England. Clayed and unclayed were both treated with gunno ; but while the clayed portion was as high as his head, stood thick, with long heads, the other presented only the appearance of ordinary wheat.

At a late meeting of the Horticultural Society in London, Mr. Fry, a Kentish Gardener, gave an account of his success in preventing mildew on grapes, by means of sulphur. He finds it a perfect remedy. He applied it with a French sulphurator, and afterwards washed the grapes with water ejected from a syringe. The sulphurator is thus described :

A tin box for holding the sulphur, placed on the upper side of the pipe of a pair of common bellows. The sulphur gets into the pipe through small holes made for the purpose in the bottom of the box, and, in order that no stoppage may take place, a small hammer-head, attached at the end of a small steel-spring, is fixed on the under side of the bellows, a gentle tap from which, now and then, keeps up a continuous fall of sulphur into the pipe. It is said, that these appliances, which may be attached to a pair of bellows for little more than sixpence, answer every purpose for which they were intended, equally as well as a more expensive machine.

It is a most mortifying reflection for any man to consider what he has done, compared with what he might have done.

Bear thee up bravely,
 Strong heart and true !
 Meet thy foes bravely,
 Strive with them too :
 Let them not win from thee
 Tears of regret,
 Such were a sin from thee—
 Hope for good yet.

FRUIT BENEFICIAL TO HEALTH.—A noted author, speaking of the utility of fruits for food and the preservation of health, says :

"The fruits of various climes should be regarded as one of the most valuable gifts which Divine Providence has bestowed upon man ; and the cultivation of them should on all accounts be promoted, not merely as a source of luxury, but as a substitute for pernicious medicine, and as a delicious, healthy, and most nutritious article of food." Another celebrated physician says that "thoroughly ripe fruit, eaten with bread, is the most innocent of aliments, and will even insure health and strength." Volumes of similar extracts might be adduced, but the following will suffice : "One of the best aliments, and the best adapted to the different ages of life, is that which fruits afford. They present to man a light nourishment, of easy digestion, and produce chyle admirably adapted to the functions of the human body."

The writer of this has himself experienced, as he believes, much benefit from the use of good fruit, and is of the opinion that for the preservation of health, it is of more benefit than any quantity of drugs a person may choose to consume. Calling, at one time, upon a physician for medicine to remove costiveness, he replied that he knew of none equal to good ripe apples. The prescription met with a cordial reception, and has been many times tried with good success.

MUTTON.—We mean to repeat at least a thousand times, or until what we say has some effect on our countrymen, that a pound of lean, tender, juicy mutton can be raised for half the cost of the same quantity of fat pork ; that it is infinitely healthier food, especially in the summer season, is more agreeable to the palate, when one gets accustomed to it ; and that those who eat it become more muscular, and can do more work with greater ease to themselves than those who eat fat pork. We know nothing more delicate than smoked mutton hams of south-down breed of sheep—venison itself is not superior.—Sheep can be kept in fine growing order where other domestic animals will scarcely exist, and thousands of acres in the State, under an enlightened system of sheep husbandry, may be made to pay a good interest where now they are nearly dead property in the hands of their present owners.—[American Agriculturist.

REDUCING BONES FOR MANURE.—The American Farmer gives the following method, of reducing crushed bones without sulphuric acid. Mix two bushels of ashes and one of salt, with each bushel of crushed bones ; moisten the bones first, and leave the whole pile four or five weeks before using the mixture, shoveling it over two or three times during that period."

AN EFFECTUAL CURE FOR A FELON.—Bathe the part affected in ashes and water—take the yolk of an egg, six drops of spirits turpentine, a few beet leaves cut fine, a small quantity of hard soap, a teaspoonful of burnt salt, and one of meal ; it never fails to effect a cure if applied in season.

Dr. Young says, that man and wife are like soul and body ; always at variance, and yet loth to part.

The man who receives a benefit and does not acknowledge it to the best of his ability, is a wretch beneath contempt.

A vicious habit—an indulged little sin—a neglected duty—how easily are they taken care of, if we are in season with them, but how ruinous and stubborn if left alone!

A QUIET conscience sleeps during thunder.

Rouse thee from drooping,
 Care laden soul !
 Mournfully stooping
 'Neath grief's control—
 Far o'er the gloom that lies
 Shrouding the earth,
 Light from the eternal skies
 Shows us thy worth.

HOW TO PREPARE RENNETS.—A correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph gives the following directions for the preparation of rennets : " When taken from the animal, empty and rinse them carefully in pure, cold water, then fill them with salt, and pack them away in a close earthen jar—covering them with fine salt. When wanted for use, take two or three of them, and place them in an earthen vessel of the capacity of two gallons or more, and pour in sweet whey till it is full. Allow the rennets to remain submerged for two hours and a half, and the liquor will be fit for use. It must, however, be kept very salt. As fast as the liquor is used out, its place should be supplied by sweet whey. After a while the liquor will become so reduced as to require three times the quantity originally required to produce the desired effect. The old rennets should then be thrown away, and new ones placed in steep."

TO KEEP A STOVE BRIGHT BY TWO APPLICATIONS A YEAR.—Make a weak alum water, and mix British lustre with it, perhaps two tea-spoonfuls to a gill of alum water ; let the stove be cold, brush and rub it till it is perfectly dry. Should any part, before polished, become so dry as to look gray, moisten with a wet brush and proceed as before.

SYSTEM.—Be systematic in everything about the farm, for nature requires it, both in animal and vegetable life. Yourself and animals will enjoy better health and do more work, your land will yield her increase in greater abundance, and you will know when one piece of work is finished, and when to commence another.

BE HONEST.—Be honest—strictly so—in church and in state, in public and in private business. Don't subject yourself to the misery of looking upon piles of wealth gotten by deceit and fraud. Whatever you acquire, whether much or little, let it be yours, and not another's. So shall the evening of your days be serene, and your memory blessed.

FOR KEEPING BACON IN SUMMER.—Cut the bacon in slices and rind it, ready to cook, then take a stone pot and cover the bottom with melted lard ; pack your meat as tightly as possible, and cover the top with melted lard. While using, keep it covered air tight, and the last piece will be as good as the first.

ECONOMICAL USE OF NUTMEGS.—If a person begin to grate a nutmeg at the stalk end, it will prove hollow clear through ; whereas the same nutmeg, grated on the other end, would have proved sound and solid to the last. This circumstance may thus be accounted for. The centre of a nutmeg consists of a number of fibres, issuing from the stalk, and continuing through the centre of the fruit, the other ends of which fibres, though closely surrounded and pressed by the fruit, do not adhere to it. When the stalk is grated away, those fibres, having lost their hold, gradually drop out, and the nutmeg appears hollow ; as more of the stock is grated away, others drop out in succession, and the hollow continues through the whole nut. By beginning at the contrary end, the fibres are grated off at their core end, with the surrounding fruit, and do not drop out and cause a hole.

In doing good to others there is an enjoyment which the sordid, selfish man knows nothing of.

A LITTLE originality is more esteemed and sought for than the greatest acquired talent, because it throws a new light upon things and is peculiar to the individual.

A PASSIONATE man scourgeth himself with his own scorpions.

Nerve thee yet stronger,
 Resolute mind !
 Let care no longer
 Heavily bind.
 Rise on the eagle's wings
 Gloriously free !
 Till from material things
 Pure thou shalt be !

WIRE WORMS.—According to a statement in the Prairie Farmer, salt is not agreeable to this larva. Land infested by thousands was sown in the fall with refuse salt, at the rate of three and a half bushels per acre. The next summer very few were seen, and afterwards all gradually disappeared. Worth trying, at least, although the proportion of salt when dissolved in the soil would be only about one fifty-thousandth part.—[Albany Cultivator.]

HOW TO COOK A POTATOE.—Wash it well, but let there be no scraping. At the thickest end cut off a piece the size of a sixpence. This is the safety-valve through which the steam escapes, and all rents in the skin are thereby prevented, just as the valve prevents a rupture in the steam boiler.

WORTH KNOWING—A young lady, while in the country some years ago, stepped on a rusty nail which ran through her shoe and into her foot. The inflammation and pain was of course very great, and lock-jaw apprehended. A friend of the family, however, recommended the application of a beet, taken fresh from the garden and pounded fine, to the wound. It was done, and the effect was beneficial. Soon the inflammation began to subside, and by keeping on the crushed beet, changing it for a fresh one as its virtue seemed to become impaired, a speedy cure was effected. Simple but effectual remedies like this should be known to every one.

CURE FOR POISON.—Samuel Gardner, a correspondent of the Massachusetts Ploughman, writes as follows: "I saw a statement in your paper last spring, recommending spirits turpentine for the cure of poison. No doubt this may be very good. I poison easily by Ivy or Mercury. I take potatoe leaves, rub them in the hand to start the juice, and apply them to the itching part. The raw potatoe scraped I have used with success when slightly affected, in the fall. I was informed that the potatoe leaf cured a person who had tried, he said, almost everything.

HOW TO GET SLEEP.—How to get sleep is to some persons a matter of high importance. Nervous persons who are troubled with wakefulness and excitability, usually have a strong tendency of blood on the brain with cold extremities. The pressure of the blood on the brain keeps it in a stimulated and wakeful state, and the pulsations in the head are often painful. Let such rise and chase the body and extremities with a brush or towel, or rub smartly with the hands to promote circulation and withdraw the excessive amount of blood from the brain, and they will fall asleep in a few moments. A cold bath, or a sponge bath and rubbing, or a good run, or a rapid walk in the open air, or going up and down stairs a few times, just before retiring, will aid in equalizing circulation and promoting sleep. These rules are simple and easy of application in castle or cabin, and may minister to the comfort of thousands who would freely expend money for an anodyne to promote "Nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep."

The world is a workshop, and none but the wise know how to use the tools.

An hour in the morning is worth two in the afternoon.

He that lends an easy and credulous ear to calumny is either a man of very ill morals, or has no more sense and understanding than a child.

POLITENESS is like an air cushion, there is really not much in it, but it is wonderfully useful in easing the jolts that we suffer in traveling through the world.

Bear thee up bravely,
Soul and mind too !
Droop not so gravely,
Bo'd heart and true !
Clear rays of streaming light
Shine through the gloom ;
God's love is beaming bright
E'en round the tomb !

CHOICE OF FOWLS—Turkeys.—If young, the legs will be black and smooth, the eyes lively, and the feet pliable. If old, the eyes will be sunk and the feet dry. Geese.—If young, the bill will be yellow, and the feet limber. If old, the bill will be red and dry.—Hens.—If their comb and legs are rough they are old, if smooth and limber they are young.

MUSH.—It is very common to make mush by boiling only a few minutes. This is all wrong. It should be boiled one or two hours, and if longer will do no harm. It will be necessary occasionally to add some water, to keep the mass thin and prevent burning.

BUSINESS NECESSARY.—The experience of all demonstrates that a regular systematic business is essential to the health, happiness, contentment, and usefulness of man. Without it he is uneasy, unsettled, miserable and wretched. His desires have no fixed aim; his ambition no high and noble ends. He is the sport of visionary dreams and idle fancies—a looker-on where all are busy, a drone in the hive of industry; a moper in the field of industry and labor. If such were the lot of the feeble and helpless only, it were less to be deplored; but it is oftener the doom and curse of those who have the power to do, without the will to act, and who need that quality which makes so many others, but the want of which unmakes them—the quality of vigor and resolution. Business is the grand regulator of life.

INDUSTRY.—Industry is not only the instrument of improvement, but the foundation of pleasure. He who is a stranger to it may possess, but but cannot enjoy; for it is labor only that gives relish to pleasure. It is the appointed vehicle to every good to man.

LIVING.—Let it be borne in mind that he who knowingly utters what is false, tells a lie; and a lie, white or any other color, is a violation of the command of that God by whom we must be judged. And let us remember that there is no vice which more easily than this stupifies a man's conscience. He who tells lies frequently, will soon become an habitual liar; and an habitual liar will soon lose the power of readily distinguishing between the conceptions of his imagination and the recollections of his memory. I have known a few persons who seemed to have arrived to this deplorable moral condition. Let every one, therefore, beware of the most distant approaches to this detestable vice. A volume might easily be written on the misery and loss of character which have grown out of a single lie; and another volume of illustrations of the moral power which men have gained by means of no other prominent attribute than that of bold, unshrinking veracity.—[Dr. Wayland.]

A CONTEMPORARY SAYS.—"The women ought to make a pledge not to kiss a man who uses tobacco, and it would soon break up the practice." A friend of ours says they ought also to pledge themselves to kiss every man who don't use it, and we go for that too.

HAPPINESS is not to be found in the social glass, nor in the festive hall; not in the hilarities of the ball room, nor at the gaming table; not in the pursuit of wealth, nor worldly fame or honor; but it may be found in doing good.

ALL our lives, all our faith, all our religious professions and performances, are only so far alive, and not carcases, by how much there is of solid virtue and good in them.

Nothing can be a real blessing or cure to the human soul, but what is made so by its own appropriation.

*Eat only what is proper food—
 Drink only that which does you good—
 Spend only what you can afford—
 Lend only what will be restored—
 Then you will have no cause to say,
 "I was a fool on yesterday!"*

DRINK.—Those who wish to have their cows give large messes of milk in the winter season should give them warm drink. The extra trouble will be more than repaid by the increased quantity of milk.

GOOD BEEF AND PORK.—The Editor of the Ploughman says that there is a great difference in ox beef. A yellow ox, with long coarse hair always makes tender beef—while the short haired and brown ox will make tough beef. Also an immense difference in breeds of hogs. The Berkshire breed is noted for making tough and stringy pork, while the Suffolk, the Middlesex and the Mackay are known to make pork remarkably tender and sweet.

BE KIND TO THE OLD.—Be kind to those who are in the autumn of life, for thou knowest not what sufferings they may have endured, or how much it may still be their portion to bear. Are they querulous or unreasonable? Allow not thine anger to kindle against them; rebuke them not, for doubtless many and severe have been the crosses and trials of earlier years; and perchance their dispositions, while in the springtime of life, were more gentle and flexible than thine own. Do they require aid of thee? Then render it cheerfully, and forget not that the time may come when thou mayest desire the same assistance from others, that now thou renderest unto them. Do all that is needful for the old, and do it with alacrity, and think it not hard if much is required at thine hand, lest when age has set his seal on thy brow, and filled thy limbs with trembling, others may wait upon thee unwillingly, and feel relieved when thy coffin-lid has covered thy face forever.

NO EVIL IS WHOLLY EVIL.—This is one of the brightest gleams of light that stream in upon all nights, even the darkest. No evil is wholly evil. Behind the blackest cloud, the sun shines, or the stars. All our trials and sorrows, have elements of good in them; hopeful features which smile upon us in gentle reproof of our unbelief and discouragement. Now and then, as the swift shuttle passes, we catch glimpses of bright threads weaving themselves into the dark web of our affliction. Hidden relations of events are discovered in this or that direction, where we did not look for them. And by and by the future good, which at first was shut out by the present and nearer evil, begins to lift itself into the line of vision; and we feel our faith increased and confirmed at last, in the ever joint action of the infinite power and love of the Father.

KNOWING AND DOING.—To know, how easy—yet how difficult to do.—One may be perfectly convinced that a certain course is the only proper one, yet have very little power or inclination to walk therein—may understand well what should be, yet be content to let what is, however far from it, remain unchanged. O, how evil passions and habits will cling to the soul, making one despise himself, that he is so powerless and changeable. Happy is he whom it leads to the STRONG, for strength to break the galling chain. Self reliance can never do it. We are never stronger than when we feel most deeply our weakness and insufficiency.

PEACE is the evening star of the soul, as virtue is its sun; and the two are never far apart.

A good action is its own reward.

LET every man endeavor to make all the world moral by a strict performance of his duty to God and man, and the mighty work of reformation will soon be accomplished.

TAKE a company of boys chasing butterflies, and put long tailed coats on the boys, and turn the butterflies into dollars, and you will have a beautiful panorama of the world.

* This return includes 15 months, from July, 1845, to Sept. 30, 1846.

† The report from the State Department for this year gives 315,333, as the total number of passengers arriving in the United States; but of these 31,023 were citizens of the Atlantic States proceeding to California by sea, and 5,339 natives of the country returning from visits abroad. A deduction of 105,879 is made from the balance, for that portion of the year from June 1, to Sept. 30.

THE NEW POSTAGE LAW.

AN ACT to amend an act entitled "An act to reduce and modify the rates of postage in the United States, and for other purposes, passed March 3d, 1851.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the thirtieth day of September, eighteen hundred and fifty-two, the postage upon all printed matter passing through the mail of the United States, instead of the rates now charged, shall be as follows, to wit: Each newspaper, periodical, unsealed circular, or other article of printed matter, not exceeding three ounces in weight, shall be sent to any part of the United States for one cent; and for every additional ounce, or fraction of an ounce, one cent additional shall be charged; and when the postage upon any newspaper or periodical is paid quarterly or yearly in advance at the office where the same is mailed, and evidence of such payment is furnished to the office of delivery in such manner as the Post Office Department shall by general regulations prescribe, one half of the said rate only shall be charged. Newspapers and periodicals not weighing over an ounce and a half, when circulated in the State where published, shall be charged one half of the rates above mentioned: Provided, That small newspapers and periodicals, published monthly or oftener, and pamphlets not containing more than sixteen octavo pages each, when sent in single packages, weighing at least eight ounces, to one address, and prepaid by affixing postage stamps thereto, shall be charged only half of a cent for each ounce, or fraction of an ounce, notwithstanding the postage calculated on each separate article of such package would exceed such amount. The postage on all transient matter shall be prepaid by stamps or otherwise, or shall be charged double the rates first above mentioned.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That books, bound or unbound, not weighing over four pounds, shall be deemed mailable matter, and shall be chargeable with postage at one cent an ounce for all distances under three thousand miles, and two cents an ounce for all distances over three thousand miles, to which fifty per cent shall be added in all cases where the same may be sent without being prepaid, and all printed matter chargeable by weight shall be weighed when dry. The publishers of newspapers and periodicals may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication; and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. The publishers of weekly newspapers may send to each actual subscriber within the county where their papers are printed and published, one copy thereof free of postage.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That no newspaper, periodical, magazine or other printed paper or matter, shall be entitled to be sent at the rates of postage in this act specified, unless the following conditions be observed: First. It shall be sent without any cover or wrapper: or in a cover or wrapper open at the ends or sides, so that the character of the matter contained therein may be determined without removing such wrapper. Second. There shall be no word or communication printed on the same after its publication, or upon the cover or wrapper thereof, except the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent. Third. There shall be no paper or other thing enclosed in or with such printed paper; and if these conditions are not complied with, such printed matter shall be subject to letter postage; and all matter sent by mail from one part of the United States to another, the postage of which is not fixed by the provisions of this act, shall, unless the same be entitled to be sent free of postage, be charged with letter postage.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That if the publisher of any periodical, after being three months previously notified that his publication is not taken out of the office to which it is sent for delivery, continue to forward such publication in the mail, the postmaster to whose office such publication is sent may dispose of the same for the postage, unless the publisher shall pay it; and whenever any printed matter of any description, received during one quarter of the fiscal year, shall have remained in the office without being called for during the whole of any succeeding quarter, the postmaster at such office shall sell the same, and credit the proceeds of such sale in his quarterly accounts, under such regulations and after such notice as the Post Office Department shall prescribe.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That so much of the second section of the act entitled "An act to modify and reduce the rates of postage in the United States, and for other purposes," approved March third, eighteen hundred and fifty-one, as relates to the postage or free circulation or transmission of newspapers, periodicals, and other printed matter, and all other provisions of law inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That when a list of uncalled for letters shall be published in any newspaper printed in any foreign language, said list shall be published in such newspaper having the largest circulation within the range of delivery of said office.

Approved August 30, 1852.

NOTE.—The copy from which the above was printed in the Register, was erroneous in the 12th line of the first section. If postage is paid quarterly or yearly in advance, EITHER AT THE OFFICE WHERE MAILED OR WHERE RECEIVED, one half of the rate only is to be paid.

CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Croup,
Hooping Coughs, Asthma,

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, AND FOR THE RELIEF OF CONSUMPTIVE PATIENTS IN THE LAST STAGES OF DISEASE.

Many years of trial, instead of impairing the public confidence in this medicine, have won for it an appreciation and notoriety by far exceeding the most sanguine expectations of its friends. Nothing but its intrinsic virtues and the unmistakable benefit conferred on thousands of sufferers, could originate and maintain the reputation it enjoys. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community, have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten. While it is a fraud on the public to pretend that any one medicine will infallibly cure—still there is abundant proof that the Cherry Pectoral does not only as a general thing, but almost invariably, cure the maladies for which it is employed. As time makes these facts wider and better known, this medicine has gradually become the best reliance of the afflicted, from the log cabin of the American Peasant, to the palaces of European Kings. Throughout this entire country, in every State, city, and indeed almost every hamlet it contains, CHERRY PECTORAL is known as the best remedy extant for diseases of the throat and lungs, and in many foreign countries, it is coming to be extensively used by their most intelligent Physicians. In Great Britain, France and Germany, where the medical sciences have reached their highest perfection, Cherry Pectoral is introduced, and in constant use in the Armies, Hospitals, Alms Houses, Public Institutions, and in domestic practice, as the surest remedy their attending physician can employ for the more dangerous affections of the lungs. Also in milder cases, and for children, it is safe, pleasant and effectual to cure. In fact, some of the most flattering testimonials we receive have been from parents who have found it efficacious in cases particularly incidental to childhood. The Cherry Pectoral is manufactured by a practical Chemist, and every ounce of it under his own eye, with invariable accuracy and care. It is sealed and protected by law from counterfeits, consequently can be relied on as genuine without adulteration. We have endeavored here to furnish the community with a medicine of such intrinsic superiority and worth as should commend itself to their confidence.

ÆOLIAN PIANO FORTES.—T. GILBERT & CO'S. CELEBRATED PIANO FORTES, WITH AND WITHOUT THE ÆOLIANS. The subscriber, who is the sole-agent in this city for the sale of these instruments, (the reputation of which has become world wide,) is now prepared to offer them at prices which, to those wishing to purchase, cannot fail to be satisfactory. Possessing facilities for obtaining pianos unsurpassed, if equalled, by those of any other house in the city, he does not hesitate to say that he can present inducements to buyers not to be found elsewhere. He has constantly on hand an extensive assortment of second hand pianos, at bargains, which, he fearlessly asserts, will defy competition. Gilbert's elegant boudoir or cottage Pianos, suitable for small rooms. Also Melodeons of Prince's and Carhart's make. Grand, Æolian and other Pianos to let.

BRADBURY'S PIANO FORTE WARE-ROOMS, 423 Broadway, three doors above Canal street, New-York.—The "ÆOLIAN," "GILDED STRING," "AMERICAN PATENT ACTION," "ARCH BOTTOM," and other first class pianos.—The subscriber, compelled from ill health, to relinquish, in part, his profession as Teacher of Music, has taken rooms for the sale of assorted Boston & New-York Pianos, and he trusts that his long acquaintance with the public, both at home and abroad, together with the convenience to purchasers of having at hand a good assortment of selected instruments of different make, that will be sold as cheap as can be purchased elsewhere, will secure to him a liberal share of patronage. Professors, amateurs and purchasers are respectfully solicited to call and examine. Second hand pianos exchanged, for sale and to let. All orders from the country for instruments of any make will be carefully attended to. E. G. BRADBURY.

DR. S. P. TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA

PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,

Manufactured under the direct superintendence of the celebrated Chemist and Physician,

DR. JAMES R. CHILTON.

This Extract is put up in quart bottles, as it is much more palatable and warranted far superior to any sold; it cures without sickening or debilitating the patient, and contains all the BOTANICAL EXTRACTS which past experience has proved invaluable in the removal of diseases. The services of the most eminent practical Chemist which this country affords, have been secured to direct its manufacture, so that every person may POSITIVELY KNOW, that in getting DR. S. P. TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA, they obtain the best medicine which SCIENCE, LEARNING, and PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE united have been able to produce.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The public are hereby notified that the preparation extensively known as DR. S. P. TOWNSEND'S EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, is now manufactured under my direction and supervision, from the original recipe obtained from Dr. S. P. Townsend; and I certify that it is composed of ingredients PURELY VEGETABLE, and WITHOUT MERCURY; and also that the ingredients are judiciously compounded, so as to obtain from them their greatest medicinal effect.

JAMES R. CHILTON, M. D., Chemist.

This we hope will be sufficient guarantee to the public, and to those purchasing Dr. S. P. Townsend's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla. Such may have no fear of getting one of the spurious and baneful mixtures which fill the channels of trade, and are concocted without any knowledge either of the nature of REMEDIAL AGENTS, or the WANTS OF THE HUMAN SYSTEM when LABORING UNDER DISEASE.

The following is a copy of DR. JAMES R. CHILTON'S CERTIFICATE, which will in future be found printed on green paper and pasted on the outside wrapper of each bottle of the original and genuine Dr. S. P. Townsend's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla:

THIS IS TO CERTIFY, that the COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA contained in this bottle, is prepared under my direction and supervision, from the ORIGINAL RECIPE of DR. S. P. TOWNSEND, and that it is composed of ingredients PURELY VEGETABLE, and WITHOUT MERCURY.

JAMES R. CHILTON, M. D., Chemist.

Buy none without this certificate on the bottle, and you will then be sure of the GENUINE SARSAPARILLA.

Dr. S. P. Townsend's Extract of Sarsaparilla is warranted to keep for any length of time in all climates. Sold by all the principal Druggists and Country Merchants throughout the United States, Canada, etc.

THE BOOK TRADE.

A Monthly Literary Journal, Record of New Publications, and Literary Advertiser.

AT 25 CENTS PER ANNUM, IN ADVANCE.

H. WILSON, PUBLISHER,

No. 49, Ann Street, NEW-YORK.

THE FOURTH VOLUME of this Journal will commence in January 1853. Each number consists of from twelve to sixteen large quarto pages, printed on new type and excellent paper ; forming in a year a volume of from 150 to 200 pages.

Its contents are : A list of all works published in the United States in each month ; Literary intelligence ; Reviews of new books, etc., etc., occupying about one half of its pages ; the remaining half is devoted to selections from the best literature of the day, and to a very interesting miscellany.

It is the object of the publisher to render the "BOOK TRADE" agreeable to the taste of the general reader, while it conveys intelligence of what is going forward in the world of literature ; a species of information which, it is presumed, is worth more than the subscription to every intelligent person.

✂ All communications by mail must be pre-paid.

A FEW OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

MAYNARD & NOYES' Black Writing Ink.

THIS INK has stood the test of thirty years experience, and during this time has been constantly increasing in public favor and patronage, and is now the leading article in the country. It flows with freedom, becomes permanently black, does not mould under any circumstances, and is adapted to either metallic or quill pens.

Office of Merchants' Ins. Co.

Boston, Nov. 18, 1848.

Messrs. Maynard & Noyes,

I have used your Writing Ink for the last sixteen years. In 1840, I gave you a certificate of its excellence, and have continued its use ever since, to my entire satisfaction; my opinion is confirmed in its superiority. It flows freely from the pen, and is in all respects the best Ink I ever used. The other officers in the institution agree with me in the opinion here expressed. GEO. HOMER, Sec.

Boston, May 27, 1846.

For twenty years past I have had occasion to use ink daily and sometimes for the nicest penmanship; occasionally, necessity or curiosity has led me to make use of the articles made by different individuals, but I can cheerfully state that I never have found any that combined so many good qualities as that made by Maynard & Noyes.

N. D. GOULD,

Teacher of Penmanship.

Registry Deeds,

Boston, Nov. 20, 1847.

Messrs. Maynard & Noyes,

I have made use of your Writing Ink for the recording of deeds, &c., for the past 25 years, and having found it to suit my wishes and purposes entirely, take pleasure in renewing my testimonial of its superiority. From the appearance of the records in my office, I am satisfied it is superior to any I have used, and consider it particularly adapted for all purposes, where permanency of color is requisite or desirable. It flows well from the pen, and does not mould; and my oldest Records prove its color to be unalterably black. H. ALLINE,

Register of Deeds.

Boston, Jan. 10, 1848.

Messrs. Maynard & Noyes,

Gentlemen:—It is now, I believe, more than 20 years since the School Committee passed an order for using your Black Writing Ink in the City Schools. I have used it during that period, and deem it a first rate article, and cheerfully recommend it to others. It flows freely from the pen, and increases in blackness after being committed to paper, and the color is durable. I know of no Ink equal to yours, and I have tried many kinds, both English and American.

P. MACKINTOSH, Jr.,

Principal of the Writing Dep.,
Hancock School.

Post Office,

Boston, Oct. 2, 1849.

The Black Writing Ink, manufactured by Messrs. Maynard & Noyes, has been used in this office for several years past. Other Inks have, during that time, been tested, but theirs has been in every instance preferred. For fluidity, blackness, and permanency, the three important requisites, none has been found equal to it.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

COPYING INK.

This Ink gives a copy as distinct and perfect as the original, and combines all the properties of our Writing Ink. This quality particularly adapts it for Counting-House use, as it answers all the purposes for which a writing Liquid is wanted.

For sale. Wholesale and Retail, by the Manufacturers, 11 Merchants' Row, Boston, and Stationers and Booksellers generally, in the City and States.

ETHAN ALLEN,

And the Green Mountain Heroes of '76 ;
WITH SKETCH OF THE EARLY HISTORY OF VERMONT.

In one vol. 12mo.; illustrated by a fine steel engraving of Kinney's Heroic Statue of Col. Allen; a profile and autograph, &c. The work embraces the early career of the Hero of Ticonderoga—his bold incursion into Canada; his capture, imprisonment and transportation to England in irons, with his brave companions; his cruel treatment by the British, as related by himself; and other Sketches of his military and private life and adventures, and those of his neighboring contemporaries, of Putnam, Stark and the "Green Mountain Boys;" with the most interesting portions of our revolutionary history with which they were connected; some account of Gen. Allen's singular views of Religion, &c., &c.

By H W DePuy, author of "Kossuth and his Generals," & "Louis Napoleon and His Times," who has visited the home and scenes of Col. Allen's life, and had access to valuable official and private documents, his own writings and history, and facts from his family.

Published Dec., 1852, by PHINNEY & Co., Buffalo. Sold by E. P. WALTON & SON, Montpelier, and by authorized travelling agents.

E. P. WALTON & SON, Printers, Booksellers, Stationers and Binders, Montpelier, Vt., are sole agents for the sale of the above interesting work, in the counties of Orange, Washington, Chittenden, Franklin, Grand Isle, Lamoille, Orleans, Caledonia and Essex.
